MINUTES

Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church 1980

■ 1. Richard Beebe, Yearly Meeting clerk, read the opening minute: Northwest Yearly Meeting convened its eighty-eighth session July 28, 1980, at 9:30 a.m. on the George Fox College campus, Newberg, Oregon, embracing the theme "The Way, the Truth, the Life . . . Today!" (John 14:6)

Joseph Gilmore led in a congregational song and then sang a special "Why

Have You Chosen Me?"

- 2. Richard Beebe expressed a note of appreciation for our executive secretary, Quentin Nordyke, for his many areas of responsibility. He will be presiding over the worship services the remainder of this week.
- 3. The clerk introduced our Yearly Meeting superintendent, Jack Willcuts.
- 4. Jack Willcuts gave the keynote address as follows:

KEYNOTE MESSAGE A New Vision

"Generations come and generations go, but the earth remains forever.

The sun rises and the sun sets, and hurries back to where it rises.

The wind blows to the south and turns to the north;

Round and round it goes, ever returning on its course.

All streams flow into the sea, yet the sea is never full.

To the place the streams come from, and there they return again.

What has been will be again,
what has been done will be done again;
There is nothing new under the sun."

Ecclesiastes 1:4-7, 9 NIV

In the unpredictableness of our day, Ecclesiastes is good news. The future seems to be bearing down on us like an avalanche. What can be said to you and the rest of the Yearly Meeting in this hour that will help? Italy's former leader Benito Mussolini once said, "It is not impossible to govern Italians. It is merely useless." To pessimistically paraphrase this, one could observe in our summer of politics and inflation, it is not particularly difficult to labor in the church. It just sometimes seems useless.

But the church is more than people on a confused earth. We are God's colony. "Therefore, dear friends . . . continue to work out your salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God who works in you to will and to act according to his good purpose . . . [as] children of God without fault in a crooked and deprayed generation, in which you shine like stars in the universe." (Philippians 2:12-15 NIV)

"Glorify the Lord with me; let us exalt his name together Those who look to him are radiant Fear the Lord, you his saints, for those who fear him lack nothing those who seek the Lord lack no good thing." (Psalm 34:3, 5, 9, 10 NIV)

The keynote Scripture for what will follow now was suggested to me by Iola Steen, a small woman with an enormous soul and profound insight. "This will be no ordinary Yearly Meeting," she wrote, "with world conditions so grim and dark, this is our hour as Friends. God wants us for this hour. God wants us to stand tall, no murmuring, no apologetic attitudes." (How grateful we are for preachers, prayer warriors, evangelists, and Quaker saints like Iola Steen!)

Her Scripture promise? It is from the prophet Ezekiel, chapter 36. She suggested one verse and I found the additional verses equally appropriate.

"I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit in you; I will remove from you your heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. And I will put my Spirit in you and move you to follow my decrees and be careful to keep my laws. You will live in the land I gave your forefathers; you will be my people, and I will be your God." Ezekiel 36:26-28 NIV

A presiding clerk of one of our Yearly Meeting churches, one who had held that position for a number of years, was in my office recently. His church has experienced considerable increase in membership and he was pleased. But also frustrated. "Now," he said, "we just don't know who we are anymore." A loss of identity, or worse, never discovering who we are, is not unusual in our floundering society and nation. Time magazine's 4th of July issue lamented the same dilemma: "We need a new synthesis of American history. Instead," Time sighs, "we have people going off in all these little directions and knowing more and more about less and less. To have somebody come along and put it all together is a rare thing."

Ezekiel, I think, was trying to answer as God's spokesman three specific questions. Who are we? Where are we? Where are we going? If these can be answered in the Friends Church today, we too will have a new heart and a new spirit. Like a compass needle, as Christians our faith flips back to the spotlight words of our Lord when He answered all questions in this eternal pronouncement: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." (John 14:6) If we can allow Him into our lives and church like this today, Ezekiel's reassuring promise, "You will be my people, and I will be your God," becomes a reality. This reality does not come by emotional osmosis nor in a loud or a silent exercise. We enter this kingdom by choice, and by disciplined obedience. A total response to this teaching requires clear thinkers and devoted disciples, tough-minded and tender-hearted.

Building our messages this week on this theme, "The way, the truth, the life . . . today," may be a natural bridge to this timeless teaching of Ezekiel and a thoughtful connection between a "new heart," a "new spirit," and the God of "your forefathers."

Who Are We?

All of us are interested in family picture albums. Old wedding pictures, baby pictures, great-grandfather's vintage stern portrait. We gaze and sometimes giggle at these, but in the process we establish our roots and find some identity.

George Fox, one of the principle human architects and energizers of the Friends, told his people he knew experimentally that "there is one, even Christ Jesus, that can speak to thy condition," and that this knowledge gave him, and would give all seekers, "great openings." He proclaimed Jesus with certainty, power, and enthusiasm. Fox and early Friends were in the world but not of it. They were a vastly energetic, confident, convincing group, much as were the early Christians. We Quakers have thumbed through this word picture album so often that even our denominational history is dog-eared.

So? We again have grim and dark days. Paul predicted it, a world filled with Ayatollah Khomeinis, runaway inflation, and volcanic ash. Let's not forget our forefathers; both the first century Christians and early Quakers did much of their writing in prisons. Their witness was costly, while we cautiously try to get today's Friends to tithe. And worship more regularly. Our struggle is with a simpler life-style, theirs was simple survival.

Who are we? What are the beliefs that inform us, inspire us, move us to action, and give us joyful satisfaction? What is a convinced Friend convinced about? What elements of our faith pinpoint our identity? Our history is not boring, our Quaker bloodline never needed Geritol. Certain convictions of our forefathers, like Ezekiel's, connect us with a new vision, a new heart, a new spirit.

The heart of theology is that God is, and that He is like Jesus Christ. This we believe. We know that each of us can be born again, and by the Holy Spirit's power, cleansing, and guidance we can walk in His way, filled with joy. We know experientially that everyone, of any race, sex, or age can speak directly to God and can be spoken directly to by God, that through Jesus all may come to the Father and hear His voice. His Spirit sends us out to love both God and each other, as ministering servants in the world. We find with William Penn that, "We must be changed ourselves before we go about trying to change others."

We know that the Friends from the start were rooted in Truth and that its members spoke and published the Truth. Today, in a time of religious expediency, we have a vision of a Friends Church and all its members speaking the Truth and helping others to stand by the Truth, unafraid of the consequences.

We know that we are called to do God's work. A part of our vision is renewed in prayerful, vigorous, wise conforming to the specific teaching of Jesus as living testimonies of belief and behavior in the world.

Our vision is of a Friends Church with all its members well-grounded in our history and in our practices, well-educated in the Bible, so that we can hold our leadings up to the light of Scripture.

Our vision is of all our meetings for worship where God is present, where His Spirit brings us into unity, where through corporate worship and the ministry arising out of it we may be strengthened in our convictions, our awareness of God, of others and our true selves, and of our work.

We envision a church that can call and attract a new generation of leadership to raise a new standard of righteousness, living in God's way of truth and love. Who are we? As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. What we are is as important as what our forefathers were. Friends do not have a new creed now; our uniqueness is the manner in which the different aspects of a Christ-centered faith are combined. This combination is carefully accepted and acted upon, not a random selection of convenient or popular doctrines. The written statements in our Discipline are not a checklist of beliefs from which we pick and choose our personal preferences, but rather, basic beliefs resulting from unhurried searching of the Scriptures and seeking the Spirit's counsel. These components of our Christ-centered faith are to be taught faithfully to our children, to those who are new in our fellowship, and consistently reviewed in reverent obedience by us all. Any neglect in this procedure by pastors or other leaders brings about an uncertainty as to who we are.

Our Core Convictions

What are some of these component convictions of Friends? The meaning of membership, of worship, of ministry, of stewardship, of holiness, of missions, of peace, of decision making, of sacraments, of commitment. Unless each of these is understood and thoroughly taught we will just be a crowd of Christians perhaps, but not a Friends Church. Freedom and shallow fellowship, without doctrinal depth and discipline or a sense of responsibility and usefulness, is denominational disjointedness. This is not said in a threatening or judgmental way. It is rather a plea for convincement, commitment, and consistency. Unless this springs from the Spirit's leadings and scriptural foundations our individual differences, potential distrust, and angers will begin to spill out like battery acids.

Membership. New attenders and new Christians are to be honestly instructed by pastors who are themselves convinced Friends if we are to avoid becoming a fragmented and hypocritical people. This is different from arguing, armtwisting, or defensiveness. Rather it is simply a clear, convincing description of who we are and why. One could wish that Friends today could become the kind of model described in 1 Thessalonians 1:5, 6, "Remember what manner of men we were among you . . . and you became imitators of us and of the Lord." Not that Quakers arrogantly want to be the "true church," but rather to be so genuine and complete in our understanding and practice of Truth that others about us in the Christian church and beyond it would see a human copy of a divine plan for coping with life creatively. Genuine love, we know, comes not primarily by looking at one another, but by looking together in the same direction.

While I still feel clear in my heart about the priorities attempted this past year in speaking where I could on the theme, "What It Means to Be a Spirit-moved People," I am concluding a broader base may need to be laid before that can be as relevant to some as it might. Perhaps pastors and others in our Yearly Meeting need assistance in teaching others what church membership means. Is it possible some would be uneasy about new Christians or new attenders making that discovery?

Another component is Worship. To worship well is to come into immediate contact with God and, consequently, into a deeper relationship with other worshipers. Our church without worship would soon weaken and die, whatever the good intentions of the members might be. We need more than our own energies if our efforts are to continue. While worship is necessary, it is never sufficient. To fulfill its function worship must eventuate in ministry, particularly the ministry of daily life. This is the significance in the familiar formula that while we gather to worship, we scatter to serve. The very best efforts of every Spiritual Life Committee and pastor should be in the preparation and planning for authentic worship: fresh, interesting, orderly, open, inspiring, convicting. We learn to worship as Friends, it is a choice as well as a miracle of God's coming. A measure of our effectiveness as a church is the quality of worship more than the size of the congregation or the character of the program. This is not to glorify smallness nor excellent performance and preaching, but it is wrong to mistake these for real worship. Much more can and needs to be taught on how to wait on the Lord.

Where are we in Ministry? Robert Barclay proved the maturity of his thinking by saying:

"We do believe and affirm that some are more particularly called to the work of the ministry and therefore are fitted of the Lord for that purpose; whose work is more constantly and particularly to instruct, exhort, admonish, oversee, and watch over their brethren."

This is consistent with the New Testament teaching, according to which some are called to be "pastors and teachers," who are especially endowed with the ability "to equip God's people for work in his service." (Ephesians 4:12)

I want to report that we have a core of God-anointed, faithful pastors in our Yearly Meeting and many outstanding preachers. They are greatly loved and respected. The number is growing. Let us encourage our young and newer Friends ministers in their calling. It comes as a surprise to some new Friends that we accept and practice the scriptural teaching that both our sons and daughters are chosen of the Lord and endowed with any or all of the gifts of the Spirit, including the ministry. It comes as more of a surprise that a few Friends seem to resist this truth. This points up again the continuing need for clear, patient, Spirit-led instruction about who we are.

Let us continue and strengthen our efforts in recognizing those whom the Lord is calling, and release them for ministry. Bruce Hicks has just completed a doctoral dissertation on the subject, "Why Pastors Leave the Ministry." This is the theme of several articles in recent Christian publications. Hopefully, the Friends Church will be a spiritual setting in which many will be called and sent out to serve in ministry, not only in pastoral, teaching, and evangelistic giftedness, but in the entire range of ministries explained by Paul to the early church. Ministry, Friends have taught, is too serious a matter to be handled as a mere skill. Ministry is a conception of such magnitude that it can become the vocation of every Christian regardless of secular occupation.

Stewardship. What can I say? Stewardship is the core credential of our Christianity, the subject of 80 percent of all the parables of Jesus. I have been urged to spend all this time talking about the meaning of stewardship, and then to focus all my attention on the subject the next five years or so.

You all know we didn't meet our Yearly Meeting budget this year. It would be nice to announce that at the very last minute the money came pouring in. Instead it went pouring out, and we missed last year's approved budget by 30 thousand or so. Letters and appeals have been sent for contributions or counsel to almost everybody I know. But this isn't stewardship, for stewardship isn't a money-raising problem. It is a way-of-life opportunity. The real issue in the money part of stewardship is not how much we give, but how much we keep. Put another way, how can we learn to use less? As Christians in a consumer-oriented society how can we renew our minds, break out of the world's mold, and become a compassion-oriented Christian society? Not many disagree with our Yearly Meeting budget purposes or priorities. The challenge is to allow an across-the-board kind of stewardship vision that results in giving of ourselves and our resources that now is demonstrated by a relative few. Deep appreciation is expressed to those who have such a vision of sacrifice and faith. Almost every local church met its pledge and more. The problem is that in most of our churches, 80 percent of the budget is given by 20 percent of the Christians. Tithing hasn't yet caught on as our first responsibility. One of the best ways to find out who you are in stewardship is to thumb through your check stubs. If you do, don't just add up amounts given but the regularity. What is our spiritual system of percentage giving? So instead of placing glowing, challenging, giving goals before you today, we are asked to examine our personal philosophy and actual habits in stewardship. It is one of the components of the Meaning of Stewardship.

Another is Peace. Friends of our Yearly Meeting seem to keep two sets of books on what we believe, and who we are. Once in awhile the discrepancy in this comes out. With the new law on registration and Moral Majority, Evangelicals urging more military preparedness, we reexamine our beliefs less casually. Writing in the summer issue of United Evangelical Action magazine, David McKenna says Evangelical Christianity needs either a common enemy or a common cause to restore the meaning of the name "Christian." Let us hope that we are united on what we are for, rather than what we are against.

We are for peace. Our Discipline, under the section on Fundamental Doctrines has this: "We avow our unshaken persuasion that all war is utterly incompatible with the plain precepts of our Lord . . . and the whole spirit of His Gospel, and that no plea of necessity or policy, however urgent or peculiar, can avail to release either individuals or nations from the paramount allegiance which they owe to Him who hath said, 'Love your enemies.' " (Matthew 5:44) This indicates who we are as a Yearly Meeting.

While this statement differs from that of some other churches and fellow Christians, we base our convictions on the teachings and example of Jesus, and the early church. Our peace stand is a personal persuasion that does not require a political or protest posture. A consistent practice of peace in all our relationships is possible only by the grace of God. There is nothing more inconsistent than a peace stand arrogantly held.

Where Are We?

Back to our earlier questions, where we are is almost as important as who we are. After reading the 40-page evaluation of the accrediting committee, which enthusiastically approved continuing George Fox College's accreditation this year, it crossed my mind it might be helpful if such an agency existed to give an objective evaluation of our Yearly Meeting. In this connection I want to say that while much of my time has been spent out of Newberg this year visiting among the churches and pastors, I have thoroughly appreciated the support and cooperation of David LeShana, the college staff and faculty. Being invited to participate in the fall Administrative Committee retreat was a great privilege. This cordial relationship should not be unexpected, nor should it be taken for granted. Our Yearly Meeting is singularly blessed with the character and strength of our college; it merits our prayers, our confidence, and our support in every way possible.

The college and church overlap in so many ways it is almost impossible to distinguish separate identities. College faculty and administrators who chair or serve on Yearly Meeting boards make an enormous contribution to the church. Camp Tilikum's role in both education and evangelism and as a retreat and training center for so many groups is a significant ministry.

A year ago the Yearly Meeting approved the relocation of the headquarters offices to allow Newberg Friends to include this building in their proposed new addition. They have since decided instead to purchase the nearby Christian Church, so will not anticipate needing the Yearly Meeting building at this time. In that period when relocation seemed more certain the college administration offered a site on the campus near the Milo Ross Center. I mention this because this gesture is very much appreciated, indicating again the kind of cooperation we enjoy.

Working with Quentin Nordyke, Beth Bagley, Ralph Chapman, Beatrice Goldsmith, Eldon Helm, and Jim Settle this year has been a great privilege. Trying to sort out our roles and relationships in the most efficient manner has taken time. My respect for each has grown. In their separate areas of responsibility, to my knowledge, there is no tension or conflict in this staff arrangement. It is my hope each can continue another year in much the same range of work. The main breakdown in our planning and working together was my inability to meet on a weekly or regular schedule with the staff in the office. But this was a deliberate choice in attempting to make church visitation and time with pastors and local church leaders my main job. Twenty-one local church seminar sessions were held. This priority will continue in my scheduling.

The splendid and loving cooperation shown by all the pastors and by our Yearly Meeting clerk makes my pathway pleasant. Geraldine and I have traveled together most of the time, and her ministry and encouragement is an enormous blessing. We experienced our first Marriage Encounter shortly before our 35th anniversary in June, so we are set up now for another honeymoon.

In our traveling about we discover there are no problem churches among our 57 congregations. Every church has some problem situations, and people with problems, but the churches are just fine. They belong to the Lord and He does good work. At least 15 churches now have two morning worship services to care for growing numbers. Here and there are informal gatherings of Friends contemplating starting new churches and one of these named themselves the Willamette Valley Friends Church in the Albany/Corvallis area under the sponsorship of Eugene Friends.

At least 36 churches report an increase in attendance this year, with the total membership figures now standing at 8,458 compared to 8,306 last year, and total attendance now 6,414 compared to 6,030. We are uneasy about some of the record keeping and statistics that arrive, suggesting some guesswork may go into a few of these. Since these are printed in our Yearly Meeting Minutes and stand as an accounting of God's blessing upon us, it is important that careful records are kept. Perhaps this is another reason to comprehend the meaning of membership. It is recognized too, of course, that no report or figures truly reveal the great efforts, concerns, prayer, and vision of the pastors and people involved. The sense of mission, spirit, morale, and thought in hours of committee planning, struggling through decisions, recruiting leadership, in ad hoc as well as formal discussions, prayer groups, and fellowship evangelism, these cannot be catalogued. Only heaven keeps a complete record.

We were saddened this year with the deaths of Richard Cossel and Milo Ross. Both will be remembered in the memorial hour, but these men leave ministries and an influence that are irreplaceable in the life of Northwest Yearly Meeting.

The deputation ministries of Gil and Louise George and Harold and Nancy Thomas enlarged our vision of missions. Both families have returned to the field and we look forward to the visits of Roscoe and Tina Knight and Leland and Iverna Hibbs, who have recently returned.

Perhaps I should mention other assignments and activities of my work in this report. Together with Ron Woodward of Newberg Friends, I taught a class one term at the college for students looking toward Christian ministries. Effort has been made also to meet frequently and correspond with all our young Friends in seminaries. I was at the pastors' seminar at Umatilla, Oregon, leading three sessions, and attended the St. Louis National Pastors Conference, and the gathering of Idaho pastors at Quaker Hill. I was asked to speak at the

of our churches, 80 percent of the budget is given by 20 percent of the Christians. Tithing hasn't yet caught on as our first responsibility. One of the best ways to find out who you are in stewardship is to thumb through your check stubs. If you do, don't just add up amounts given but the regularity. Our Yearly Meeting is singularly blessed with the character and strength of our college; it merits our prayers, our confidence, and our support in every way possible.

The college and church overlap in so many ways it is almost impossible to distinguish separate identities. College faculty and administrators who chair or serve on Yearly Meeting boards make an enormous contribution to the church. Camp Tilikum's role in both education and evangelism and as a retreat and training center for so many groups is a significant ministry.

A year ago the Yearly Meeting approved the relocation of the headquarters offices to allow Newberg Friends to include this building in their proposed new addition. They have since decided instead to purchase the nearby Christian Church, so will not anticipate needing the Yearly Meeting building at this time. In that period when relocation seemed more certain the college administration offered a site on the campus near the Milo Ross Center. I mention this because this gesture is very much appreciated, indicating again the kind of cooperation we enjoy.

Working with Quentin Nordyke, Beth Bagley, Ralph Chapman, Beatrice Goldsmith, Eldon Helm, and Jim Settle this year has been a great privilege. Trying to sort out our roles and relationships in the most efficient manner has taken time. My respect for each has grown. In their separate areas of responsibility, to my knowledge, there is no tension or conflict in this staff arrangement. It is my hope each can continue another year in much the same range of work. The main breakdown in our planning and working together was my inability to meet on a weekly or regular schedule with the staff in the office. But this was a deliberate choice in attempting to make church visitation and time with pastors and local church leaders my main job. Twenty-one local church seminar sessions were held. This priority will continue in my scheduling.

The splendid and loving cooperation shown by all the pastors and by our Yearly Meeting clerk makes my pathway pleasant. Geraldine and I have traveled together most of the time, and her ministry and encouragement is an enormous blessing. We experienced our first Marriage Encounter shortly before our 35th anniversary in June, so we are set up now for another honeymoon.

In our traveling about we discover there are no problem churches among our 57 congregations. Every church has some problem situations, and people with problems, but the churches are just fine. They belong to the Lord and He does good work. At least 15 churches now have two morning worship services to care for growing numbers. Here and there are informal gatherings of Friends contemplating starting new churches and one of these named themselves the Willamette Valley Friends Church in the Albany/Corvallis area under the sponsorship of Eugene Friends.

At least 36 churches report an increase in attendance this year, with the total membership figures now standing at 8,458 compared to 8,306 last year, and total attendance now 6,414 compared to 6,030. We are uneasy about some of the record keeping and statistics that arrive, suggesting some guesswork may go into a few of these. Since these are printed in our Yearly Meeting Minutes and stand as an accounting of God's blessing upon us, it is important that careful records are kept. Perhaps this is another reason to comprehend the meaning of membership. It is recognized too, of course, that no report or figures truly reveal the great efforts, concerns, prayer, and vision of the pastors and people involved. The sense of mission, spirit, morale, and thought in hours of committee planning, struggling through decisions, recruiting leadership, in ad hoc as well as formal discussions, prayer groups, and fellowship evangelism, these cannot be catalogued. Only heaven keeps a complete record.

We were saddened this year with the deaths of Richard Cossel and Milo Ross. Both will be remembered in the memorial hour, but these men leave ministries and an influence that are irreplaceable in the life of Northwest Yearly Meeting.

The deputation ministries of Gil and Louise George and Harold and Nancy Thomas enlarged our vision of missions. Both families have returned to the field and we look forward to the visits of Roscoe and Tina Knight and Leland and Iverna Hibbs, who have recently returned.

Perhaps I should mention other assignments and activities of my work in this report. Together with Ron Woodward of Newberg Friends, I taught a class one term at the college for students looking toward Christian ministries. Effort has been made also to meet frequently and correspond with all our young Friends in seminaries. I was at the pastors' seminar at Umatilla, Oregon, leading three sessions, and attended the St. Louis National Pastors Conference, and the gathering of Idaho pastors at Quaker Hill. I was asked to speak at the Friends Superintendents annual conference in Richmond, Indiana, in October. This month completes 18 years editing the Evangelical Friend, plus writing this year for The Teacher's Friend adult quarterly, Fruit of the Vine devotionals, other articles, and the development of a new publication called Northwest Yearly Meeting Vision. This is planned to continue as a quarterly the coming year.

Next year only three speaking assignments outside the Yearly Meeting are anticipated; Iowa Yearly Meeting Pastors' Conference in September, at the sessions of California Yearly Meeting next June, and the sessions of Indiana Yearly Meeting next July, where I have also been invited to give the annual Quaker Lecture at Earlham College.

Where Are We Going?

Returning to the third question, let's consider where we are going. This will be a year of mission emphasis focusing on the theme of our 50th anniversary in Aymaraland. We are fortunate to have Roscoe and Tina Knight home to strengthen this vision. Quentin Nordyke will give an ever greater amount of his time this year in administration of our missionary work, handling the home and field correspondence and promotion, working together with Ron Woodward, who becomes our new Department of Missions chairman.

On a radio program recently, a member of the Israeli Knesset (parliament) was being interviewed. "How do you account for the optimism and vision of your young people," she was asked, "when so many countries find their youth disillusioned and pessimistic?" Her reply is interesting. "We do three things," was the explanation. "We build in them from childhood a sense of belonging, a deep commitment to life, and a spirit that endures."

Perhaps this is what Ezekiel was trying to do in the keynote texts earlier mentioned. The formula is proper and suited to our Yearly Meeting today. Knowing who we are, a sense of belonging, linked with a deep commitment to where we are going will provide a spirit that endures. One of our major goals this year will be to add to the series on the significance of being a Spirit-moved people special emphasis on the meaning of membership—a sense of belonging. Subjects will include the components of stewardship, peace, ministry, worship, missions, and commitment. In weekend or week-long meetings or less formal gatherings we want to concentrate on these matters as a basis for the Spirit's guidance. A set of slides now being taken by Donald Edmundson will accompany a script describing and visualizing what Northwest Yearly Meeting is. While it is impossible for me or any one of us to visit every church and every home, we hope this simple tool can be used by the Knights, Quentin Nordyke, Eldon Helm, Friends Youth, and others in placing before us a better, up-to-date identity about who we are, and where we are as Friends today. Stewardship is not giving to raise a budget; it is spontaneous expression of a way of life today in serving and giving.

The Department of Evangelism with Quentin Nordyke's cooperation is hoping to target the starting of two new churches each year. Obviously, this is not something "they" can do, but that "we" can do together by being ready to move to a community where we are needed, by giving and investing to allow a church planting to start, and to pray the Lord of the harvest to thrust out more laborers into the field who are called, prepared, and released to pastor and lead.

The vision and optimism of our Friends Youth, including the growing number of local youth pastors, will be encouraged as a primary emphasis the coming year. Already 85 young people have registered for the midwinter Youthquake in California. This year's FY Exec will be introduced and dedicated this week. We are pleased Jim Settle has found his role as Yearly Meeting youth advisor blends well with his college responsibilities, and will continue in this effective ministry the coming year.

A second three-day workshop for pastors' self-improvement and training will be held at Umatilla, September 23-25, on the theme of expository preaching. This strenuous study and sense of fellowship begun last year in the focus on growth was a great encouragement. We know it will be again this year. While it will not be popular, even in the Christian community perhaps, special attention will be given this year to our peace testimony. Counseling with youth, adult discussion and study meetings, a reexamination of Scripture and our heritage will strengthen our sense of belonging and our commitment.

My concluding comment is a call to commitment. A commitment not to Quakerdom, or even to the church or a great cause, but a commitment to Christ. How this commitment, coming from convincement, is expressed is so very important. The person who believes something strongly, such as in the reality of God and the resurrection and coming of Christ, is tempted to feel that the best way to convince others is to grab them figuratively by the lapel and shout at them, "I am certain this is the way and the truth!" This may work with those who are so unsure of themselves they will respond to anything. But people of our day are subjected daily to so many attempts at brainwashing, so many high-powered and unqualified claims of advertisers and political rhetoric that a reflex skepticism makes mere words bounce off like seed on hard ground.

As the pendulum swings from the rebellion of the 1960s, wishy-washiness of the 1970s, to the radical legalism of the 1980s, now is the time for deep certainty in our faith. And that faith will penetrate lives and society under the Holy Spirit's power only when words are spoken tenderly and matched with authentic Christian living. This is a call to be thoroughly Christian, not just to go out and do something big and spectacular. Let us position ourselves mentally, socially, economically, spiritually, personally to receive new hearts and a new spirit, "And I will put my Spirit in you and move you to follow my decrees and be careful to keep my laws. You will live in the land I gave your forefathers; you will be my people, and I will be your God."

This is the way, the truth, and the life . . . today.

- 5. Dale Field from Haviland, Kansas, field secretary for Friends Bible College, brought greetings from the college.
- 6. Ted Neff, representative for the Friends Committee on National Legislation, brought greetings. He read a portion of the FCNL Preamble stating the purpose of this organization.
- 7. Aaron Hamlin, executive director of the National Black Evangelical Association, introduced Dr. William Bentley of Chicago, director of the board of the National Black Evangelical Association. Dr. Bentley brought greetings from the association and expressed thanks for the friendship and help given to the NBEA by Friends through the years.
- 8. Lloyd Pruitt, assistant presiding clerk, read a letter from Thomas R. Bodine, acting general secretary of Friends World Committee for Consultation, sending cordial good wishes for our Yearly Meeting sessions.

Val Ferguson from the London office of FWCC was with us over the weekend.

Genevieve Cole shared the experience she and her husband, Frank, had when they attended the last triennial sessions of the FWCC held in Gwatt, Switzerland, during the summer of 1979.

■ 9. Susan Stark, a staff member of the Friends Coordinating Committee on Peace, greeted us and stated the purpose for the FCCP. She encouraged evangelical Friends to become involved and to share their witness.

■ 10. Jack Willcuts introduced new pastors and wives and the changes in pastoral leadership:

Eric and Celia Mueller at Friends Memorial Church in Seattle; Ronald and Elaine Rittenhouse at Whitney Friends Church in Boise; Harold and Sharon Clark joining the staff at Eugene Friends Church; James and Becky Teeters, associate pastor at Medford; Joseph and Marla Battista, associate pastor at Hayden Lake; Jerry and Cynthia Matthieu, associate pastor at Vancouver; Richard and Patti Snodgrass, associate pastor at Star; J. Harley and Amy Adams at Melba; Bruce and Brenda Bray, Maplewood; Marvin and Betti Hall, Parkview; Kenneth and Rosalie Pitts, Homedale; and Harvey and Terri Bowen, Kent.

- 11. A letter of greeting was read from Christopher B. Jennings, clerk, Meeting for Sufferings of the Religious Society of Friends, London.
- 12. The Memorial Committee was named: Ruthanna Hampton, chairman; Beatrice Benham, Marjorie Crisman.
- 13. The Committee to write Letters to Aged Friends was named as follows: Muriel Ostrin, Elizabeth Bishop, Edith Stangland.
- 14. The Committee on Returning Minutes was named: Edna Willcuts, Ruth Houston.
- 15. Richard Beebe gave highlights from the Evangelical Friends Alliance Coordinating Council meetings. He reported on the programs of the Social Concerns, Publications, Christian Education, Missions, Youth, Evangelism Commissions.

Significant action included the appointment of James Morris as executive director of Evangelical Friends Mission. Plans are underway for an Evangelical Friends General Conference at Malone College August 13-16, 1981.

Report approved.

■ 16. Glenn Leppert closed in prayer as we adjourned to meet this afternoon at 2:15.

Monday, 2:15 p.m.

- 17. Dan Nolta opened our afternoon business session with prayer.
- 18. The minutes were read and approved as refined.
- 19. The Discipline Revision Committee presented for second reading and final action the following recommendation, voiced by the presiding clerk:

On page 41 (1975 edition; page 46, 1979 edition) of the Constitution and Discipline change the first sentence of paragraph 5, TREASURER, to read:

 TREASURER. The Yearly Meeting appoints annually, on nomination by the Executive Council, a person to serve as treasurer. Approved.

■ 20. The Discipline Revision Committee presented for second reading and final action the following recommendation:

That on pages 54 and 55 (1975 edition; page 63, 1979 edition) of the Constitution and Discipline under 3 STEWARDSHIP BOARD, paragraph a., third subparagraph, replace the sentence that begins, "It determines the percentage" with the following: It determines the amount, as computed by a formula approved by the Executive Council—see pages 58 and 59 (1975 edition; page 63, 1979 edition)—which would be recommended to the local and extension churches as their proportionate share of the Yearly Meeting's Great Commission Budget.

Approved,

■ 21. The Discipline Revision Committee presented for second reading and final action the following recommendation:

That on pages 58 and 59 (1975 edition; page 70, 1979 edition) of the Constitution and Discipline under III—THE GREAT COMMISSION BUDGET, paragraph 5, be replaced with the following:

5. PROPORTIONATE SHARING. A formula for the apportionment of requests to the individual churches is developed by the stewardship board, subject to the approval of the Executive Council.

The development of this formula may take into account the attendance, the income and expenditures, and the record of past giving or other pertinent data relative to the formulation of a "fair share" giving program.

■ 22. The Discipline Revision Committee presented for second reading and final action, as requested by the Stewardship Board, the following addition to paragraph 3.a. on page 54 (1975 edition; page 63, 1979 edition) of the Constitution and Discipline. After "department of ministers' aid" insert this: The board appoints also one person, not necessarily a member, to serve for a two-year term on the Northwest Yearly Meeting Pension Board, and one of its members to the Ministers' Retirement Fund.

Approved.

■ 23. Kendall Smitherman, superintendent of Greenleaf Friends Academy, gave a report on the activities of this past year. He introduced Jesse Kennison, who has joined the GFA staff as junior high and high school principal.

Any single comment about the 1979-80 school year—the 72nd for Greenleaf Friends Academy—would have to focus on the spiritual impact of the year.

First Week '79, the eighth annual opener for all GFA high school students, was a refreshing time of Christian growth. Even before the opening chapel service with Ronald Crecelius as spiritual emphasis speaker, there was a clear sense of the presence of the Holy Spirit.

Highlighting the spring spiritual emphasis week, Richard Snodgrass, minister of youth at Star Friends Church, brought the messages, which further strengthened the spiritual life of the Academy.

It was a vital year as we saw a new sense of spiritual urgency sweep the student body, the result we believe of a renewed emphasis upon prayer.

Our elementary school has experienced such a growth that this fall all classes will be divided into single grade units (K-6) with no combination classes. We anticipate even further growth at these levels as a result.

The preschool department moved into its new facility at the beginning of the school year, thus providing a beautiful setting for the total Early Childhood Education Program. This service will be expanded for the 1980-81 school year as we open a satellite preschool at Meridian Friends Church. Out of a desire to further the ministry of the Meridian Church, arrangements have been made for us to expand our program into their community and provide a vital service to young families in that area.

Larry Wilhite, who had served seven and a half years as our director of development, resigned this spring to serve with the Jerry Falwell Ministries. In a new administrative realignment, a junior-senior high principal was appointed apart from the principal-superintendent assignment that has been used in the past.

Kendall Smitherman gave a slide presentation of the Academy. There was expression of appreciation for this fine report of the Academy. Report approved.

■ 24. Jack Willcuts brought to our attention that some of our other churches are considering starting schools. Silverton will open a school for kindergarten through sixth grade in September. Gene Mulkey is chairman of the board. Preregistration now totals more than 30.

■ 25. Dr. Leo Thornton, president of Western Evangelical Seminary, presented the report of the Seminary, a summary of which follows:

On May 10, 1980, Western Evangelical Seminary celebrated its anniversary at the Red Lion Motor Inn, Jantzen Beach, Portland, Oregon. Several hundred guests gathered to recognize Grace Petticord Barnes, widowed wife of the founding president. Many wonderful tributes were given recognizing the contribution she and her husband had made to the founding of a thoroughly evangelical-Wesleyan-Arminian seminary in the western part of the United States.

The 32nd annual commencement of the seminary graduated 51, the largest class in the history of the school. Senator Mark O. Hatfield was the commencement speaker.

During the past academic year the denominational enrollment was as follows: Free Methodist 61, Evangelical Church of North America 44, Friends 14, Assembly of God 12, Wesleyan 7, Nazarene 7 (and a sprinkling of Baptist) with a total of 34 denominations and a cumulative enrollment of 243. The students came from 12 different nations, 92 different colleges and universities, and 38 states. We receive more students from George Fox College than from any other institution.

The prospects for 1980-81 are excellent. New faculty and staff will include Dr. Donald Hohensee (church growth and missions), Rev. James Field (director of student life and admissions), and Ralph Ewbank (librarian). By the beginning of the new academic year three of our younger professors will have received their academic doctorates.

There is a significant Friends representation at WES. In addition to the third largest number in the student body, several serve in various capacities: Dr. Gerald W. Dillon (professor of pastoral ministry), Dr. Bruce Hicks (director of doctoral studies and professor of social ethics), Ralph Ewbank (librarian and instructor in church history), and Judy Middleton (adjunct professor of New Testament Greek). Friends trustees to WES are Glenn Armstrong, Howard Harmon, Norval Hadley, Gene Hockett, Karl Alteneder, and Myron Goldsmith. Jack Willcuts is a member-at-large elected by the WES Corporation and serves as vice-chairman of the corporation.

It is an axiom that cannot successfully be denied: As the seminary goes so goes the church. Western Evangelical Seminary represents a unique opportunity for an evangelical and ecumenical experience for the students that enriches and enables them for a productive future ministry. The Seminary is very appreciative of its relationship to the Friends Church and welcomes your suggestions at any time.

The Seminary had a good year financially. We were able to pay off a considerable amount of our financial obligations. We are struggling to keep the tuition as low as possible. At the present time the tuition is $50 per term hour. This covers about 45 percent of the educational costs. One of the new programs being presented this year is the WES Partners plan:

A WES Partner is a person or family that understands the Christian Community's responsibility to train its future spiritual leaders. Therefore, they commit themselves to pray for the Seminary whenever they are reminded to do so, recommend the Seminary as the proper place for prospective ministerial candidates, and commit at least $10 a month ($120 a year) to the support of the school. This is a self-renewing commitment that can be cancelled upon request. As a result of this commitment the WES Partner receives:

a. a fine certificate to be framed and hung in an office, study, or home.

b. a beautiful fully leather bound New American Standard Bible with concordance and large print (51/2 inches by 81/2 inches).

 a monthly informational letter from the president telling about the happenings of the school, prayer requests, and a schedule as reminder of the speaking engagements of the president.

It is the hope and prayer of the administration and faculty of Western Evangelical Seminary that the school will be a catalyst toward spiritual renewal and church growth in the western area of the United States in the years to come.

■ 26. Jesse Kennison led us in prayer as we adjourned to meet tomorrow at 10:15 a.m.

Tuesday, July 29, 10:30 a.m.

- 27. Oscar Brown opened our business meeting in prayer.
- 28. The minutes were read and approved.
- 29. Beatrice Goldsmith, Yearly Meeting treasurer, presented the Treasurer's Report:

There isn't much excitement these days when some financial reports are presented. Whether it is government, state, county, or in business, it seems we hear the words deficit or shortfall most often today. I guess in Northwest Yearly Meeting we don't want to seem too affluent, so we have a deficit too. We had a budget deficit of $32,640, but I hasten to add that all of the bills have been paid. How could this be? Look at the Financial Report (see Appendix). Great Commission income was $421,066, expenditures and transfers $444,340. Unlike our budget deficit, our expense deficit was only $23,274. We had a previous Supplementary Fund balance on hand of $20,921 and earnings on nonrestricted funds of $4,636, so we were able to pay the bills and begin 1980-81 with $2,283. For this we should be grateful.

At midyear board meeting time we expressed our concern of a possible deficit to the departments and boards, and they took responsible action to curb their spending. The churches responded to this need and gave above their pledged amount so that the programs of the Yearly Meeting could be carried on. Individuals, too, showed their concern by contributing $11,319, especially to the "over-the-top" effort.

I want to mention some other things for which we can be grateful. Giving to the Great Commission Budget increased over last year by 6.82 percent. Over the last four-year period giving has increased 33 percent, and over this same four-year period church pledges have increased 62.75 percent. Last year the churches pledged 73.2 percent of the approved budget, leaving 26.8 percent to be paid by individuals, WMU, Friends Men, or asking the churches to contribute more than they had pledged. We do recognize the need of a closer relationship between the approved budget and the church pledges.

I personally want to express appreciation to the church treasurers for their stewardship of many hours in the handling of funds in their local church and as it relates to the Yearly Meeting. I hope that you representatives will take this word of appreciation home to your treasurers if they are not here today.

This lengthy Financial Report for 1979-80 is not just words and figures. It represents much caring and sharing by a lot of people to a lot of people in many different ways. I'm sure if all the recipients could be here today they would say, "Thank you, Northwest Yearly Meeting, so very much."

Approved.

30. The Representatives nominated the following to three-year terms on the Education Board: Mary Dade, Alice Maurer, Richard Edmundson. Approved.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL CONCERNS

■ 31. Bruce Longstroth, Outreach Board president, gave the report for the Department of Social Concerns in the absence of their chairman, Kent Thornburg.

The main thrust this past year has been the work at Piedmont Friends Church.

Report approved.

■ 32. Glenn Leppert, chairman, presented the report of the Friends Action Board.

Glenn introduced Ernest Cathcart, who has been working with the Piedmont project.

Dr. William Bentley, chairman of the Board of Directors of National Black Evangelical Association, shared with us the work and vision of the NBEA and the importance of the work of Aaron Hamlin to this organization.

He expressed his concern on social action-it is a vital part of living.

He also asked that if God wills we continue to support the NBEA and thanked us for what we have already given.

Report approved.

■ 33. The following from the Department of Peace Testimony, Ralph Beebe, chairman, was read:

Resolved, that Northwest Yearly Meeting reaffirm its support of the World Peace Tax Fund and the National Peace Academy.

Approved.

■ 34. A resolution from the Department of Peace Testimony that Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends oppose further implementation of the draft was read.

After much discussion the resolution was referred back to the committee to have the wording of the resolution refined.

- 35. A resolution from the Department of Peace Testimony that Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends oppose continued increases in military spending was also referred back to the committee for rewording of the first paragraph.
- 36. Walter Wilhite, executive director of Friends Fund, presented the following report:

The Friends Fund is an incorporated, tax-exempt agency of the Yearly Meeting administered by a board of directors appointed by the Executive Council of Northwest Yearly Meeting.

Its purpose is to promote and operate the planned giving program of Friends by becoming a receiving agency for deferred gifts and then to channel these gifts advantageously and according to the wishes of the donors in the total work of the Yearly Meeting through its various organizations.

This has been the most outstanding year for Friends Fund in assisting people with their estates. Many people have expressed their desire to set their estate house in order and have enjoyed the contentment and blessing in reaching a decision regarding their estates. The Yearly Meeting with all of its ministries, institutions, and boards is, financially speaking, well-remembered by donors and potential donors. At the July 12, 1980, Friends Fund board meeting it was pointed out that the Fund has increased at an average of $338,306.75 annually since December 1973, for a grand total today of $2,705,669.71.

From inception, 12/1/73, through June 30, 1980;

| Endowments | $ 53,767.22 | |
|--|--------------|----------------|
| Bequests | 38,021.89 | |
| Irrevocable Trusts | 752,530.88 | |
| Life Income Agreements | 228,342.43 | |
| Gifts | 6,583.82 | |
| Total Received | 7 (1) | $1,079,246.24 |
| Paid out to Agencies | (190,852.27) | |
| Total Financial Statements | 888,393.97 | |
| Loans (anticipated income) | 55,363.40) | |
| Revocable Trusts (anticipated income) | 65,380.07) | |
| Life Insurance Trusts (anticipated income) | 747,520.00) | 1,626,423.47 |
| Wills (known, anticipated) | 758,200.00) | |
| Grand Total | | $2,705,669.71 |

We are reminded in Scripture that "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." (James 1:17)

Indeed the source of all is our heavenly Father. Sometimes amid the crush of materialism in our society today we lose sight of the real purpose of it all. The resources are so in focus that we lose sight of God. We become guilty of what Timothy was instructed to warn the believers in his day not to do: "charge them . . . [not to] trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy." (1 Timothy 6:17) "For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out." (1 Timothy 6:7) As good stewards we will want to account for how we accumulate, manage, and dispose of these resources entrusted to us.

For the board and for myself I express our deep appreciation for the good stewardship, support, prayers, and gifts given to the Friends Fund for use throughout all the ministries of Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church.

Approved.

■ 37. Jerry Matthieu dismissed us in prayer as we adjourned to meet this afternoon at 2:15 p.m.

Tuesday, July 29, 2:15 p.m.

- 38. J. Earl Geil led in prayer as we opened our business session.
- 39. The minutes were read and approved.
- 40. The Women's Missionary Union report was given by Lela Morrill, president.

Alice Dillon told about being able to obtain World Book Encyclopedias and Childcraft books free of charge to send to our missionaries. Our only cost is to pay the shipping charges.

Doris Roberts told of the new program books for this year—written by the missionaries.

Marilyn Horne reported on the banquet. The offering of $1,218 will be used for language school for Dwaine and Becky Williams.

Lela Morrill reported the women gave $10,472 this past year for missions. Report approved.

SPIRITUAL LIFE BOARD

■ 41. Roy Clark, chairman, presented the report of the Spiritual Life Board: If I could summarize and paraphrase the responsibilities assigned by the Discipline, the Spiritual Life Board is concerned with the spiritual vitality, the doctrinal validity, the moral purity, and the ethical integrity of the people that call themselves Northwest Yearly Meeting of friends. If these words seem intangible and a bit indefinable, they resolve themselves into the practical matters of the spiritual health and growth of the church, extension and church planting, training and recording of leadership, the character and quality of worship patterns, our testimony in contemporary society, and our faithful adherence to God's Word as a Spirit-moved people.

What is difficult is arriving at a criterion for evaluating the success or failure to carry out these responsibilities. Admittedly much of the time of the departments is spent wrestling with problems. But we must not allow ourselves to become problem-conscious. This is God's work, we are God's instruments, and we have the resources of God's power and grace that are unlimited and allsufficient.

I want to summarize briefly the reports from the spiritual life committees of the churches and the area chairmen: 39 churches reported, with 3 areas sending summaries. If you are tempted to resent the proliferation of paperwork and suspect that reports may lie unread or relegated to "file 13," I want to assure you that every report is read with deep prayer and concern. I found myself praying over every concern and problem reported, and rejoicing and praising God for every victory. These are of vital concern to the entire Spiritual Life Board.

Of the 39 reports, the overwhelming majority were radiantly optimistic, indicating good things God is doing across the Yearly Meeting. Let us praise God for many evidences of the working of the Spirit, the forward thrust and uplook that is the predominant attitude in our churches, the faithful ministry of the Gospel by our pastors, and a loving spirit of unity as the family of God.

The concerns expressed were revealing. Many spoke of a heart cry for revival, for a deeper commitment and loyalty on the part of people, for a deeper prayer backing in the church, for a greater sense of stewardship, and more concern for outreach in their communities. I believe God is speaking to the Yearly Meeting as a whole through these expressions of concern.

Let us unite as a larger family to bear one another's burdens and rejoice together in God's blessings in many areas of our Yearly Meeting. Some good things are happening! Let us pray and believe that God is moving upon us with a fresh spirit of renewal and revival. "The future is as bright as the promises of God."

The report of the Department of Ministry was given by Glenn Armstrong. There are now 20 candidates, 3 of whom are women, under the care of this committee.

Joseph Gilmore gave the report of the Fine Arts Department:

We are pleased to report we now have 35-40 individuals interested in beginning the process toward certification in the ministry of music. At present we have two officially enrolled candidates recommended by their local spiritual life committees and monthly meetings.

The department sponsored a choir festival again this year at the Newberg Friends Church on January 27. An exciting aspect of the event was the commissioning of two new compositions especially for the festival. Ted Nichols, guest conductor, wrote the music to "Morning Prayer" and "At the Seventh Seal," both texts having been written by Arthur O. Roberts.

Out of the annual reports sent to us by the local meetings we sense a need to develop this year a series of workshops to help local meetings in the various areas of the fine arts. Help is needed and asked for in such areas as the use of art, drama, and poetry in worship. Help is also requested in developing song leaders and musical/singing/accompanying abilities for use in the church. An attempt will be made to provide help in whatever ways we can.

The report of the Department of Evangelism was given by Howard Harmon.

We deeply appreciate Quentin Nordyke's excellent leadership in the extension work of the Yearly Meeting.

Exciting things are happening in the extension churches. Hilltop in Oregon City has been blessed with new families moving into the area to assist in the work. Post Falls in Idaho continues to grow, with attendance now averaging 120 in their two worship services. Nampa has seen rapid growth this year in their renewal program.

The Boise church has been active in pursuing plans for an extension church in the Boise Valley. This past year has seen a number of people trained in preparation for launching a new work.

Many areas in the Northwest seem ripe for the planting of new churches. The department is looking with keen interest in the following areas: north area of Seattle and Vancouver in Washington, Corvallis and Bend in Oregon, and Rathdrum in Idaho.

The department sponsored a pastors' workshop that was warmly received by the 82 in attendance. A conference on expository preaching is being planned for this fall.

Two share calls were sent out this year to assist in the completion of church building programs. Peninsula received $5,796 and Cherry Grove $5,133.

We have continued to be involved with the Evangelical Friends Alliance and are looking forward to the General Conference in 1981.

The report of the Department of Peace Testimony was given by Ralph Beebe, chairman.

This year of international crisis found the Department of Peace Testimony extremely active. We published a booklet Waging Peace, coauthored by John Lamoreau and Ralph Beebe; participated actively in two regional New Call to Peacemaking conferences; trained about 20 persons to do draft and biblical peacemaking counseling; and frequently informed the Yearly Meeting of our willingness to assist local meetings by counseling, speaking, teaching, leading workshops, and helping with lesson plans.

Speakers were sent to 10 churches in six areas for a variety of sessions, from half-day workshops to four- and five-week Sunday school appearances. Ralph Beebe spoke to all Greenleaf Friends Academy students in a day-long visit.

Three Friends-Dan Davenport, Bruce Allen, and John Lamoreaureceived minutes of service from the department and are traveling in the peace ministry this summer. They have been guests in some Mennonite and Brethren churches as well as Friends. Along with other Friends, our former superintendent, Norval Hadley, had a conference with Advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski of the National Security Council in Washington, D.C., and Ambassador Vldillen Vasev of the Soviet embassy.

The Department of Peace Testimony's goal is to make sure no member of Northwest Yearly Meeting has to face the Selective Service System without carefully considering whether he is a conscientious objector to all war. We desire to be available to assist or advise all youth, youth leaders, pastors, parents, and Sunday school teachers.

Bruce Allen shared a meditation from John 18 on the question "What Is Susan Stark with the Friends Coordinating Committee on Peace shared a song with us "Live Up to the Light" she adapted from journal writings of Caroline Fox, an early 19th century Friend.

Ralph Beebe closed the report of this committee in prayer.

Report approved.

- 42. Recommended changes and additions in the Constitution and Discipline were presented by the Spiritual Life Board. It was noted by Gerald Dillon that there were some errors in the document. It will be deferred until later in the sessions so that the corrections can be made.
- 43. Richard Beebe closed in prayer as we adjourned to meet tomorrow at 10:15 a.m.

Wednesday, July 30, 10:15 a.m.

44. Lloyd Pruitt, assistant presiding clerk, convened the meeting by reading James 1:5. 6 and then led in prayer.

In the absence of Richard Beebe, presiding clerk, Lloyd presided. Gerald Lemmons assisted.

45. The minutes were read and approved as corrected.

DEPARTMENT OF MISSIONS

■ 46. Quentin Nordyke, our Yearly Meeting executive secretary, was the guide on the Aymaraland Tour in June. He reported the value of these tours by Friends of Northwest Yearly Meeting to the mission fields, especially encouraging churches to send their pastors and wives.

He introduced Robert and Marilyn Schneiter and Donald Lamm, who were participants in the Aymaraland Tour. They shared their impressions and experiences from this tour. We were challenged to be innovative and catch the vision of expanding our work—there is a great need on the field.

Roger Knox, chairman, presented the following report:

This is a compilation of field reports and will give you a more detailed view of our work in South America. A few additional remarks are added to cover other areas such as the Korean work, Home Department activities, and the Evangelical Friends Mission Mexico work.

BOLIVIA

The decade of the 1970s is past. During these 10 years, the missionary staff of Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends in Bolivia has included from two to four families. Currently there are three families. In the meantime the national church has continued to add new meetings and members. Hard choices of priorities have been made, with an effort to concentrate limited missionary personnel in strategic efforts of evangelism and leadership.

During the 1979-80 church year, the James Roberts and Ron Stansell families lived in La Paz and the Roscoe Knight family in Santa Cruz. In La Paz the council cooperated with INELA (National Church) leadership in church planting and pastoral training. Despite the maintenance of one vehicle for Mesa Directiva use, especially for church conferences, there has been continued heavy drain of missionary time in travel. The Knights engaged in evangelistic work in the San Julian colonization area near Santa Cruz, with teaching and evangelism in the urban area, and with one block of time in the Caranavi-Alto Beni area.

Mission Council Administration. Ron Stansell served as council chairman, James Roberts as secretary, and Gail Roberts as treasurer. The Knights attended several council meetings in La Paz, and the entire council met in Santa Cruz once. While the work of the INELA in Santa Cruz is taking a more autonomous nature apart from the La Paz Department churches, we have attempted to coordinate our efforts on the level of the mission council and to encourage a limited intervisitation of INELA personnel between La Paz and Santa Cruz.

Early in the church year the Villa Armonia mission property was abandoned as a residency because of landslides. It is being maintained for storage only.

The mission owns five vehicles: two 1974 GMC pickups (one with a camper), a 1968 Nissan Patrol jeep, a 1974 Toyota Landcruiser, and a 1979 Toyota pickup. At this writing, the GMC with camper and the Nissan jeep are in use in Santa Cruz and one GMC pickup is under the supervision of the Mesa Directiva in La Paz.

Bible Translation. Ron Stansell worked with the Aymara Old Testament revision committee July through November. The project lacks certain final touches. The Bible Society has asked that Harold Thomas continue into the coming year as this important project is completed.

INELA Administration. Francisco Tintaya accepted a second three-year term as president of the Bolivian Friends Yearly Meeting in January 1980. Reports indicated approximately 170 congregations, 11 new congregations during the prior year, and 9 new church buildings built during the year. The INELA continues to support grade schools, 16 in all, with 20 teachers and 683 students during 1979.

Officials of the Bolivian church conducted six women's conferences, 10 youth conferences, regional and departmental in scope, 28 all-church regional conferences, and numerous local church campaigns and revivals. Mission personnel cooperated with transportation help, and taught and preached frequently.

INELA Theological Training. A major portion of missionary time continues to be dedicated to this important work. There are three major thrusts, all dedicated to the development of pastoral and teaching gifts:

- a. Patmos Bible Institute residency program. Twenty-nine students, eight professors, nine graduates. Five of the nine graduates were Friends. A number of these 29 students come from denominations that do not have training programs of their own. Patmos residency classes have functioned well, with some increase in interest and enrollment, drawing a number of students from the urban area. James and Ron each taught one course.
- b. Patmos extension. Seventy-one students, six professors, seven locations, four graduates. The extension program suffered when directors changed in January. Inadequate time and creativity have prevented the program moving forward as well as it might. The Mission Council earnestly hopes to give more supportive attention to this important program during the coming year.
- c. San Pablo Theological Seminary. Forty-nine students enrolled and classes were completed with a minimum of time lost despite political turmoil during the three months of classes. Twenty-four of the students were INELA members; the other 25 represented 10 denominations, giving an increasingly broad perspective to the student body. Four students finished the course of study and graduated, three from the INELA. James Roberts, Ron and Carolyn Stansell were involved in teaching and administrative duties.

Santa Cruz. After many years of service, Roscoe and Tina Knight retired from our field in April, having completed more than two years of excellent work in Santa Cruz. Although calling Santa Cruz "home," they spent blocks of time elsewhere. The San Julian colonization area has proven fruitful for church planting, and potential still exists in the urban area. James and Gail Roberts were assigned to Santa Cruz June 1 to continue through the coming year. A Friends Bible Institute of Santa Cruz has been formed, with classes both in Santa Cruz and in San Julian. The Santa Cruz urban group is searching for new property on which to build a larger building to accommodate their growing congregation.

Notable Events of the Year

1. North Lake Quarterly Meeting (Lago Norte) was organized in January. This is the eighth district of the INELA. It consists of two monthly meetings, one provisional monthly meeting, and three dependent congregations, for a total of six. This has been the result of several years of work and multiple contacts that have finally "congealed" into a maturing unit.

During the year there was a breakthrough in church planting in San Julian region in the Department of Santa Cruz. Four congregations were formed provisionally, one very stable.

- 3. All three institutions for pastoral training graduated students again this year: Patmos residency nine, Patmos Extension four, San Pablo Seminary four.
- 4. Dr. Donald Chittick of George Fox College made a significant contribution through a two-week seminar at San Pablo Theological Seminary, with 35 students enrolled in his class on the Bible and Science; three local church seminars involved another 350 to 400 youth. He also spoke at our annual missionary retreat and in seven other public presentations with good attendance in Cochabamba, Arequipa, and Lima.

5. A small medical clinic was opened early in the church year on the Max Paredes property, under the Socal Action Committee of the INELA, with funding from W.

ing from World Vision International.

6. An evangelism group from Max Paredes Friends, along with mission personnel, spent three months of surveying and in personal evangelism in the Patacamaya area of the Altiplano. This was a seed-sowing effort in a new area.

7. An Evangelism Committee and an Administrative Committee of the Mesa Directiva were formed, allowing for added personnel and time for planning and execution of Mesa Directiva business. This has been especially helpful in focusing efforts in evangelism and church planting.

Conclusion. The Mission Council joins together in praise for confidence and courage in the face of the health problems and social unrest we have experienced this past year.

PERII

Staff. In July the Randy Morse family returned, and were located in Puno in the house on Avenida El So. The Gilbert George family left for their furlough. The Mark Roberts family remained in Juli. The staff was soon joined by Jean Clark and Leland and Iverna Hibbs.

For several months Jean Clark lived with the Morse family while a search was made for a location that would be adequate for both a home for Jean and the space for the school she was to provide. The Hibbses were located in a small house in Arequipa, moving mission equipment from Tacna, where the house lease was terminated.

School for Missionary Children. Jean Clark established a school for missionary children in the Morse home and later in her apartment. The school has been a fine service and highly successful due to her great effort.

Jean has been an active member of the council, assisting with her secretarial skills and also serving as secretary of the Joint Council. She holds a resident visa.

Major Events of the Year. The first major event of the year was the arrival of new staff members increasing our number from four adults and two children to seven adults and three children. This required one more home and almost doubled the necessary travel on the field.

Antonio Mamani was commissioned for work among the Peruvian churches by the Bolivian Yearly Meeting for a month. Although the Peruvian INELA leaders felt somewhat threatened by his presence, he was well-accepted in the churches and encouraged much-needed local organization.

Christmas conference in Arequipa with Dr. and Mrs. Chittick and the Phil

Burgi family was an inspiration and refreshment for all.

The restudy of the mission program and objectives that took place in Arequipa during February was a major piece of work by the staff and was followed by a restatement to the National Church of the purposes and objectives of the Mission.

Getting the new Toyota out of customs and to Puno turned out to be a major undertaking.

Perhaps the most significant was the resumption of responsibility by leaders of the Peruvian Church just prior to Junta Anual held April 3-6, 1980. Junta Anual was a great success with the largest attendance to this date. Missionary participation mainly involved hauling the equipment and helping gather the produce and fuel.

The year ended with a new slate of officers. Georges returned to Juli, Hibbses returned to the States, and the Robertses moved to Arequipa. The new staff consists of seven adults and five children.

National Church and Mission. The Mesa Directiva experienced some painful divisions in its membership from July 1979 until December, impeding the decision-making process, with much of the authority taken over by one individual. The president assumed almost all decisions relating to National Church functions and business. This led to confusion and several decisions based on poor judgment.

When cooperation and support for the proposals and decisions of the Mesa Directiva faltered within the constituency, the president turned to the Mission to provide financial support. The denial of funds beyond the previous commitments made by the Mission contributed to frustration on the part of the Mesa Directiva leaders, which led to a declaration that there needed to be a contract drawn between the Mesa Directiva and the Mission before civil authorities requiring the Mission to perform according to the needs of the National Church. The Mission believed this to be an unwise action and declined the request.

The objectives of the INELA from July to December seemed to be the development of an expanded program centered around the National Church leaders and supported by funds and equipment provided by the Mission. Their objectives required the planning of missionary functions by the Mesa Directiva and access to the tithe of the missionaries' personal income. There appeared to be a widespread belief that the Mission had some contractual obligation with the Peruvian government to provide the National Church with such support. The National Church president felt that he should be able to dictate the use of missionary time, making them appear insubordinate when acting contrary to his personal plans and direction. These factors helped lead to the ultimatum of December 15 that the Mission agree to sign a binding contract or the representatives would dissolve the INELA. The Mission did not agree, thus bringing about the crisis that suspended active participation of the Mission in the affairs of the National Church until April 1980, when the INELA resumed its functions.

The present objectives of the INELA seem to be more realistic. There have been moves to slightly restructure the leadership to more adequately serve the local churches. Some functions of the organization that have been neglected are being activated. There is renewed interest in the planning and construction of the headquarters of the National Church. There is a concern for greater responsibility at the local level.

Mission objectives have basically remained the same after the crisis as they were before it took place. It is the desire of the Mission to foster an independent Friends Church in Peru, faithful to the Scriptures in doctrine, teaching, and practice. The Mission desires to provide help in theological education. Preaching of the Word and teaching consistent Christian conduct will be offered. Help in areas of social and economic need will be considered, based on the availability of local or other assistance and the capability of the nationals to care for themselves. The Mission will continue to function through the National Church organization and consider large requests for construction and equipment on an individual basis. It is the desire of the Mission to focus more attention on theological education by providing more missionary time in teaching.

KOREAN CHURCH

The Portland Korean Church work continues to grow and flourish as it ministers to families in Portland. Beaverton, Aloha, Hillsboro, Gresham, and Tigard, with a recent Bible study group being formed in Lincoln City also.

Average Sunday attendance grew to well over 200 the past year.

During the past few weeks a "satellite" congregation has been formed in Vancouver under the leadership of Pastor Kwan Kyu Kim. This group has met nine Sundays with an average attendance of 72. With this taking some 30 individuals, many of them leaders, out of the Portland Korean Church causing a temporary drop in attendance, the church is making a comeback and is again averaging around 200.

The Portland church is now engaged in refurbishing the interior and exterior of the building, with a special campaign underway to completely care for this at a cost of $25,000.

An English language service under the leadership of Associate Pastor Oscar Brown continues to meet a need of the Americans, a number of young Koreans, and a few Koreans in professional work who attend. All meet together in the sanctuary until time for the sermon.

Pastor Gye Wan Jin continues to give excellent and wise leadership to the whole work, conducting Bible Study groups and meeting spiritual needs in the various committees that comprise the Greater Portland Area.

CLOSING REMARKS

We continue to cooperate with EFM in the Mexico City mission work. The Clarksons are now serving there. The Rodney Routons are in language school and are soon to be on the field.

We have received excellent deputation ministry this year from the Thomases and Georges.

The full Department of Missions has met at Yearly Meeting, fall retreat, and midyear board meetings. The Administrative Committee met monthly to carry out the responsibilities of this department.

As we begin to celebrate our 50th year in Aymaraland let us realize this is an anniversary, not a memorial. Greater things are yet ahead as the Lord leads.

We shall work and pray together expecting great things.

Report approved.

STEWARDSHIP BOARD

47. The Stewardship Board report was given by Donald Millage:

The major areas of responsibility assigned to the Board of Stewardship are

1. Finance-including budgeting and financial control,

- 2. Stewardship Promotion—information about Yearly Meeting programs and budgets, including encouraging churches to support the budget through proportional giving.
- 3. Stewardship Education-providing individuals and churches with resource material and instruction in basic principles of stewardship.

The board has initiated several programs this year for stewardship promotion and education; probably the most significant has been the services of Eldon Helm, financial secretary of the Yearly Meeting, who has traveled widely throughout the Yearly Meeting. I'd like to ask Eldon to share with us his accomplishments of the past year and his plans for the coming year.

Eldon shared as follows: The position of a part-time financial secretary is a new experiment in Northwest Yearly Meeting. The objectives set forth for the position and what has been accomplished are herein evaluated.

1. To assist local congregations to evaluate where they are and where they want to go in the future, including assistance in the organization, planning, and development of a cash-flow budget.

One church has been given assistance in the development of a cash-flow budget and reporting techniques. Two have had planning weekends for setting of goals and objectives. We have worked with several treasurers in better reporting.

2. To do one-to-one management counsel with small businesses and families.

We have worked with one business and 25 families. This has involved setting up simple accounts and the making of cash-flow budgets for better control of their incomes and expenses and putting giving and saving in positions of priority in their budgets.

3. To conduct classes or workshops in churches available to church families and nonchurch families.

We conducted 19 such workshops in all areas of the Yearly Meeting, working with about 375 people on a full series basis. We always spoke on the "Purpose of Abundance" at the time of the greatest expected attendance, be it Sunday morning or Wednesday evening, when the attendance would be at least double the full-time attenders at the workshops.

It has been disappointing that there were not more who were interested in these presentations, but it was encouraging that in each and every workshop one or more couples-in one meeting eight-really got turned on with the idea of better financial planning.

4. To train volunteers to follow up with small groups presenting the vision of the church in positive ways, challenging people to open their lives to the joy God gives in committing all of life and material things to meeting needs of other people.

We have prepared a syllabus for such a training program, and a seminar is being held at Yearly Meeting time for members of the Stewardship Board and other interested individuals.

Objectives for 1980-81 should be to continue these four areas of service.

Don Millage continued his report.

Other resources developed this year include:

- 1. The newsletter, "NWYM Vision." Three issues of this have been mailed to the Yearly Meeting membership. It is designed to inform our members of the program and concerns of the Yearly Meeting.
- A videotape presentation by Jack Willcuts and other Yearly Meeting leaders explaining the Great Commission Budget programs and needs was made available for showing in every church of the Yearly Meeting.

- 3. The workshop "From Church Starvation to Motivation and Commitment" was presented July 25 to 30 attenders and recorded on videotape and is available for use in your church.
- 4. Russell Baker has assembled a broad range of resource materials on stewardship—books, pamphlets, tracts.
- Each member of the Stewardship Board is available for consultation, and each area representative on the board will contact churches to set up a time to meet with their Stewardship Committee.

The Stewardship Board works with a very limited budget, particularly for stewardship promotion and education. This has made it difficult to tell properly the story of our Yearly Meeting. One member of our board has felt a deep concern and believes firmly that if we communicate adequately the concerns and opportunities, the needs will be met. He has agreed to underwrite the cost of an expanded informational program with the understanding that if our 1980-81 income exceeds the budget, the first part of the excess will repay the cost of the program, so we expect to improve our communication this coming year.

Financial matters—The treasurer's report presented earlier showed income for the year of $421,066 and expenses of $444,340. The income was $32,640 below budget, and the expenses were $9,366 below budget, resulting in a net deficit of $23,274, which we covered by funds carried over from last year. We do not have any adequate carryover for the coming year, so our income must increase to match our needs.

Budget—You have all been provided a copy of the proposed budget for next year totaling $460,000. The budget represents a 1.8 percent increase over last year's budget, a 3.5 percent increase over last year's actual expenses, and a 9.2 percent increase over last year's actual income.

You should be aware that the budget does not represent what the Stewardship Board, the Executive Council, and all the other boards and departments would like to present. The budget needs as reported by boards and departments, to carry out the programs they believe are important and necessary, totaled $547,000. To really free the departments to meet the needs as they see them would require $1,251,000, including $600,000 for the Department of Evangelism to use in planting new churches in the Yearly Meeting.

We believe, however, that we must tailor our programs to fit the resources the local churches are willing to make available. Pledges from local churches for the 1980-81 Great Commission Budget total only $375,000, about 82 percent of the proposed budget. While this is an improvement over the prior year, we believe we must move, over the next two or three years, to a budget that is subscribed to the proposed budget.

subscribed 100 percent by the churches.

Churches that have pledged 100 percent or more of their proportional share include West Chehalem, North Valley, Hillsboro, Nampa, Star, Whitney, Ontario, Newberg, Sherwood, Peninsula, South Salem, Medford, and Woodland. In addition Reedwood, Tigard, and Vancouver pledged 97 percent or more. No other church pledged more than 83 percent, and it drops down from there to eight churches that did not make any pledge.

If we are to attain a realistic budget we must have every church in the Yearly Meeting pledging and paying its proportional share of the budget.

Approval of the budget on the floor of this meeting must include a resolve on the part of each of us that we will return to our local church and convince that body of the importance of participating fully.

We challenge each person here with the same charge that we made to Yearly Meeting Representatives last year:

 Return to your home churches prepared to report on the activities of Yearly Meeting.

- 2. Share the contents of the Great Commission Budget brochures with your pastor, Stewardship Board, and Administrative Committee.
- 3. Request time, preferably during a Sunday morning service, to share the approved Yearly Meeting program with your church.
- 4. Encourage your church to accept responsibility for contributing its designated "fair share" to enable us to continue the programs that we have agreed to do together, recognizing that these tasks are too large for any individual church.
- Be alert throughout the year to the activities of the Yearly Meeting and to the goals of your home church and serve as a continuing two-way channel of communication between these bodies.
- 6. Encourage your home church to invite Yearly Meeting staff and members of boards and departments to the church that you may be better informed as to your church relationship with the Yearly Meeting.
 - 7. Pray daily for the work of the Yearly Meeting.

We believe the Representatives should be one of the major channels of communication between the Yearly Meeting and the local meeting and charge them with that responsibility. They should constantly keep the Great Commission before the local meeting and encourage its full cooperation in fulfilling the Great Commission Budget—"Doing Together What We Can't Do Separately."

48. The Department of Missions urges the Yearly Meeting to consider disciplinary changes in regard to the Outreach Board, which in our judgment has not been a practical umbrella to facilitate the work of missions.

We feel it is perhaps time to restore missions to full board status. Specifically, we are concerned that each area appoint a person to serve on the Department of Missions.

The recommendation was referred to the Outreach Board and to the Executive Council, to consider or review alignment of departments.

49. Lloyd Pruitt dismissed us in prayer as we adjourned to meet this afternoon at 2:15 p.m.

PUBLICATION BOARD

52. Barry Hubbell, chairman of the Publication Board, introduced Richard Eichenberger, manager of The Barclay Press, who gave a report on the ministries of The Barclav Press during the past year. This afternoon there will be an autograph party for the new books published this year.

Jack Willcuts expressed appreciation for the work and ministry of The Barclay Press.

Jack explained the Publication Board has been considering the need of an additional position for editorial as well as production work.

Barry Hubbell said the Yearly Meeting archives under the direction of Charles Beals are open and available today for people to visit in the basement of Shambaugh Library.

Ralph Beebe expressed appreciation for the excellent work of Richard Eichenberger as manager of The Barclay Press.

The report was approved.

■ 53. Robert K. Johnson from Alliance, Ohio, First Friends and Horace W. Johnson, Northridge Friends, Wichita, Kansas, were introduced and welcomed to our sessions.

■ 54. A letter from Annie Tycksen was received:

"In response to your letter regarding my assignment as Assistant Recording Clerk, it is entirely impossible for me to have that job done by August 15. Please feel free to do whatever is necessary to name a new assistant recording clerk." The letter was accepted as a resignation.

55. The Representatives recommended Ruth Brown (with Rachel Hinshaw) as assistant recording clerk (effective immediately, due to the resignation of Annie Tycksen).

Approved.

- 56. The Representatives nominated the following as board presidents of Northwest Yearly Meeting: Education-Gene Hockett; Outreach-Bruce Longstroth; Spiritual Life-Roy Clark; Stewardship-Don Millage.
 - Approved.
- 57. The Representatives nominated the following for three-year terms on the Spiritual Life Board: Earl Perisho, Duane Roberts, Dan Nolta. Approved.
- 58. The George Fox College Board of Trustees presented the following nominations to its Board to serve three-year terms: Thelma Martin, Stanley Kern, Ronald Gregory, Floyd Watson, James Miller, Richard Evans. Approved.
- 59. The George Fox College Alumni Association placed the following people in nomination for three-year terms on the George Fox College Board of Trustees: Richard H. Beebe, Norman D. Winters.

Approved.

■ 60. The Executive Council nominated the following to serve three-year terms on the George Fox College Board of Trustees: Ivan Adams, Harold Clark, Philip Harmon, Dean Campbell, Earl Tycksen, Margaret Lemmons.

To serve a one-year term to fill unexpired term of John Almond: Kendall Smitherman.

Approved.

■ 61. The Executive Council nominated the following to serve three-year terms to Western Evangelical Seminary Board of Trustees: Karl Alteneder, Myron Goldsmith.

Approved.

■ 62. The Executive Council recommended that Jack L. Willcuts be called as general superintendent of Northwest Yearly Meeting to serve July 1, 1981, to June 30, 1982.

Approved.

63. The Executive Council recommended the following salary for the general superintendent for 1980-81:

| Salary and housing allowance | $19,450 |

■ 66. Earl Perisho closed in prayer as we adjourned to meet tomorrow at 10:15 a.m.

(George Fox College report at evening service. See page 50)

Thursday, July 31, 10:15 a.m.

- 67. Richard Beebe convened the meeting with prayer.
- 68. The minutes were read and approved.
- 69. A letter was read from Evangelical Friends Church—Eastern Region, Galen P. Weingart, presiding clerk, introducing Alvin and Lucy Anderson. They brought greetings to us from Eastern Region and shared a few words of testimony.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

■ 70. Gene Hockett, chairman of the Education Board, presented the board report, with the help of Hector Munn and Mark Kelley. Two skits graphically portrayed the work of the board.

DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH SCHOOLS: Area Dinner—Area dinners were held the fall of 1979 in Southern Oregon, Boise-Greenleaf, Portland-Newberg, Puget Sound, and Inland areas. The dinners were to familiarize Christian education leaders in the Yearly Meeting with the work of the Department of Church Schools (Sunday school, camping, youth). Dinners are planned for all areas of the Yearly Meeting for the fall of 1980.

Video Programs—One video cassette was developed this year in cooperation with George Fox College titled "It All Begins." The 40-minute cassette shows how pre-two-year-olds can be taught simple Bible concepts. The video cassettes are being made available through the George Fox College television center.

Youth Leadership—It was exciting to see the position of a Yearly Meeting Friends Youth coordinator become a reality this past year. In cooperation with George Fox College, Jim Settle has been released to serve part time in this capacity. Jim and the Friends Youth Exec have made several church visits giving assistance in organization and leadership. Further assistance was given with a Youth Sponsors' retreat this spring.

Christian Education Camp—The Christian Education Camp at Twin Rocks was March 28-30, 1980. About 100 Christian education workers from throughout the Yearly Meeting met for a weekend of information, inspiration, and fellowship.

Sunday School—We are praising the Lord for an increased Sunday school of 4 percent. It is encouraging to see quality teaching from committed teachers in Sunday school across the Yearly Meeting.

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN TESTIMONIES experienced a broadened vision of its ministry this year. Charged by the Discipline with "promoting the production and dissemination of information to all ages regarding the Christian testimony of Friends," the department has started to take a more active role in the writing, editing, and printing of new materials explaining Friends beliefs.

In this area, the Department of Christian Testimonies has reprinted in tract form "Will a Man Rob God?" by Richard L. Wiles and prepared for printing a cartoon on stewardship, and a reprint of Donald Green's recent Evangelical Friend article "Blessed Are the Peacemakers."

Continuing other ministries, the department has purchased Quaker books and dissertations for the Western Evangelical Seminary library and promoted our Friends display stands for the dissemination of Friends literature in local churches.

DEPARTMENT OF GENERAL EDUCATION: The General Education Department has supervised scholarship aid totaling $9,922 to two students at George Fox College and four full-time students and six part-time students at Western Evangelical Seminary.

Funds were allocated to George Fox College and Greenleaf Friends Academy through our budget.

A task force in cooperation with the Department of Ministry studied ways by which a pastoral internship program could be started.

Meetings of the Northwest Yearly Meeting report that over 110 Friends students attend George Fox College and 12 students are in seminary training.

A preliminary study of Friends children not in public schools shows that 48 children attend private kindergartens, 106 attend Christian elementary schools, and 38 children attend Christian secondary schools. Eleven meetings report that their facilities are used for private school programs.

The report was approved.

■ 71. Jack Willcuts introduced Andrew Hanners, president of the Oregon Council on Alcohol Problems, who shared concerns about social drinking leading to alcoholism, and drugs, and for the need of adults—especially in our public schools—to set an example of abstinence from drugs in front of young people.

An applause of approval was given for Andrew Hanner's presentation.

■ 72. The Spiritual Life Board in session July 30, 1980, approved the recommendation of the Department of Ministry and requested the Yearly Meeting to take the final action according to the Constitution and Discipline and record Bruce Bray as a minister of the Gospel in Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church.

Approved.

■ 73. The Spiritual Life Board in session July 30, 1980, approved the recommendation of the Department of Ministry and requested the Yearly Meeting to take the final action according to the Constitution and Discipline and record Mark Kelley as a minister of the Gospel in Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church.

Approved.

■ 74. The Spiritual Life Board in session July 30, 1980, approved the recommendation of the Department of Ministry and requested the Yearly Meeting to take the final action according to the Constitution and Discipline and record Randal Morse as a minister of the Gospel in Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church.

Approved.

■ 75. The Spiritual Life Board in session July 30, 1980, approved the recommendation of the Department of Ministry and requested the Yearly Meeting to take the final action according to the Constitution and Discipline and record Roger Sargent as a minister of the Gospel in Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church.

Approved.

■ 76. The Representatives nominated the following to three-year terms on the Stewardship Board: Bertram Frazier, JoAnne Magee.

They nominated Wally Miller to fill the one-year unexpired term of Ted Hodgkiss on the Stewardship Board. The Stewardship Board has gone through the disciplinary channels to declare this vacancy and has requested the Representatives to fill this position (p. 52 of Discipline, last paragraph).

Approved.

■ 77. The Representatives nominated Roger Minthorne to a five-year term as a Yearly Meeting Trustee.

Approved.

- 78. The Representatives nominated the following to three-year terms on the Outreach Board: Lloyd Pruitt, Catherine Sherman, Richard Bishop.

 Approved.
- 79. The Representatives nominated the following to three-year terms on the Publication Board: Melvin Kenworthy, Ralph Beebe.
 Approved.
- 80. The Ministerial Association nominated J. Earl Geil for a two-year term to the Northwest Yearly Meeting Pension Board. Approved.
- 81. A communication was read from the Reedwood church:

In an action of the Monthly Meeting of Reedwood Friends Church, it was determined that we share with the General Sessions of Northwest Yearly Meeting the following concerns. We are concerned that NWYM:

1. Recognize the importance of training for ministry among our men and women who sense the call to ministry in Northwest Yearly Meeting.

Recognize the importance of these men and women seeking the finest training theologically and spiritually among the many fine theological seminaries in the United States.

3. Continue our encouragement of young leaders to train at seminaries whose theological orientation is consistent with the Constitution and Discipline of Northwest Yearly Meeting as much as possible.

4. Continue to support financially, where possible, the attempts of our young men and women who seek seminary education at a variety of seminaries, some seeking specialized training in unique programs across the country. Reedwood Friends Church strongly suggests that support for students be reviewed by each individual case presented to NWYM from a local meeting for consideration of financial support. Reedwood further strongly recommends that support for students training in the ministry should no longer be limited only to those students attending Western Evangelical Seminary, Nazarene Theological Seminary, and Asbury Theological Seminary, but that each individual student recommended by a local meeting for support be considered on the basis of

a. Christian commitment

b. call to leadership in NWYM by the Holy Spirit

c. reasons for selecting the specific seminary they plan to attend.

Consultation on decisions for or against NWYM support for seminary students receiving this support should hereafter be conducted by the Department of Ministry and appropriate Yearly Meeting officials, AS WELL AS a representative from the monthly meeting that has recommended an individual for support.

It was approved and minuted that this concern be sent with Reedwood's Yearly Meeting representatives to the General Sessions of Yearly Meeting 1980 for adoption by the entire body.

COMMENTARY—It is important that NWYM understand that this concern is not in any way a challenge or questioning of NWYM's historic support for Western Evangelical Seminary; rather it is meant to be a move toward more inclusive support and encouragement to many NWYM young people who have chosen to study at theological schools other than the three listed above. Reedwood Friends Church felt that it is wrong that these students at other schools have been previously ignored, or given little support of any kind, and have NOT been eligible for financial support of any kind as ministers in training for leadership in Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends.

(signed) R'Dean L. Smith, clerk

This communication was sent to the Representatives and their response is as follows:

The Representatives have spent much time in consultation with board members, and prayer concerning this recommendation on support to our students in seminaries. We express the following concerns and recommendations in response to this letter:

1. We are concerned that all our ministerial students feel the emotional and spiritual support of their local meeting and the Yearly Meeting; that they are not caused to feel isolated or rejected in the event they are led to attend schools other than Western Evangelical Seminary, Asbury Theological Seminary, or Nazarene Theological Seminary.

2. We are concerned with the implication that these named schools are acceptable and all other schools are unacceptable.

We recognize both the limited funds of NWYM and the unlimited power of God to provide funds for His called, wherever He may lead them.

- 4. In order to implement these concerns we recommend that financial support from NWYM Board of Education be for our ministerial students enrolled in George Fox College and Western Evangelical Seminary for the following reasons:
 - a. These are schools supported and partially governed by NWYM.
- b. Our Yearly Meeting appoints trustees to these schools and thereby has a voice in the policy and doctrine of these schools.

c. These schools are in our own geographic area.

We recommend that these schools be periodically evaluated to see that they continue to be compatible with NWYM doctrinally and spiritually.

6. We recommend an awareness by our Committee on Ministry of both the strengths and weaknesses of seminaries attended by our ministerial students and that these students be given guidance and encouragement to assure their development in sound doctrinal teaching.

Approved. This will be referred to the Discipline Revision Committee.

82. Richard Beebe dismissed in prayer as we adjourned to meet at 2:15 p.m.

In the keynote address of our general superintendent, Jack Willcuts, he used, "I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit in you." (Ezekiel 36:26) He called each one of us to make a new commitment, not to Quakerdom or to the church or to a great cause, but a commitment to Christ. The person who believes something strongly, such as in the reality of God and the resurrection and coming of Christ, is convinced of a faith that penetrates lives.

This year of 1980 Northwest Yearly Meeting celebrated 50 years of missionary service in Bolivia. To give you a glimpse of the reality of missions the following story will prove again that missions are effective. Roscoe and Tina Knight have spanned 35 years in Latin America. During this last year they had the privilege of returning to the Yungas, the field in which they had served seven years. Let them tell what they found after 17 years of absence:

"While we sat drinking coffee, a fiery little Aymara pastor, Felix Paredes, talked excitedly. 'Remember when you pitched the old green tent down on the soccer field and held our first meeting in the community?' Yes, we remembered. It was the only level spot on that mountainside.

"Then he pulled a faded piece of orange construction paper from his Bible and continued, 'You gave me this picture and I've saved it for all these 17 years.' We peeked and saw a picture of Jesus calling Matthew. FOLLOW ME was printed at the bottom in English. Felix had obeyed. He had followed.

"That tent meeting was the beginning of our Christian walk with the Lord,' he said. 'My father, Salustiano, suffered much persecution because he was head man in the community, but he never once thought of turning back.'

"Later as we climbed a zigzag path up the mountain to Salustiano's home, Felix continued reminiscing. 'The community was against the Gospel and often worked against us. One Sunday a gang gathered rocks and waited at the foot of this path. They knew you had left your car on the road below and walked up to our house for a Bible study. In late afternoon as you came down the path you arrived right here and then turned down that other trail. We wondered then, but we know now that God led you down that trail to escape the angry mob awaiting on the path below.'

"We marveled at God's care through dangers of which we knew nothing!
"Later, in the church, as believers gave their testimonies of God's keeping power, Salustiano stood to his feet and told how God had not failed them during the past 17 years. The church had grown. Many new ones had been converted, and they had built their own church buildling. Persecution had subsided. Then with tears streaming down wrinkled cheeks, he turned to the missionary saying, 'We'll go to heaven because you came.'

"We felt humbled. To carry the Gospel to others is a calling with in-

The "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature" brings a great inspiration to the heart of the missionary. At the annual banquet of the Women's Missionary Union the group was moved by the stirring message of Tina Knight. Over $1,200 was raised to defray the expenses of a new couple in language school.

The 250 men gathered in the annual dinner were challenged to give an offering over $2,200 to the Great Commission Budget of Northwest Yearly Meeting.

George Fox College continues to grow in enrollment, curriculum, and financial support. The beautiful campus, the competent faculty, and the 730 students are a credit to the commitment to quality education made 90 years ago. This year the challenge to Friends is to build a lovely new chapel.

The Yearly Meeting speaker this year was Donald A. Green, pastor of Reedwood Friends Meeting in Portland, using the theme "The Way, the Truth, the Life . . . Today." We are called to preach the whole message of God. The Lord delights in providing a second birth uniquely suited to the believer. As we grow in God's family, we lose the need for constantly contending for personal viewpoints and can seek together the teachings of the Holy Spirit.

The speaker for the morning inspiration hour, Jack Willcuts, spoke from Matthew 5 on "The Blest Way to Live." The whole world seeks for happiness while we seek for righteousness in character as well as in conduct—a quest that produces genuine happiness and peace. Those injured by life's situations are to be accepted where they are, even in divorce, and to be led to a new beginning, obeying God in righteousness, worship, and service.

The youth of our Yearly Meeting have dedicated themselves to the work of the kingdom. To help support the young couple who are preparing themselves to go to Bolivia as missionaries they have pledged $1,200 by means of sacrifice and work of all kinds. Youth teams are visiting each church of the Yearly Meeting. Excitement prevails as they give themselves to the work of the Lord.

In His Name

- 90. Paul Anderson from Earlham School of Religion was introduced and brought greetings to us.
- 91. Gene Hockett introduced Richard Tusant, Oregon-Washington representative of Bible Literature International and president of the Oregon Association of Evangelicals. He brought greetings.
- 92. The Memorial Committee conducted a time of remembrance and thanksgiving for the lives of 4 ministers and 43 other members who passed away during the year.

Marilyn Horne sang, "Face to Face."

Memorials were read for Rose Koch, Rachel Aldrich, Milo C. Ross, Carol Bailey, Ludlow Corbin, Clayton S. and Louella Beals Brown, Mabel Smith, Leslie Hefflin, Richard Cossel, Ronald Willcuts, Mabel E. Hockett, and Fred Sherland.

There were expressions of appreciation for the contribution these have made in their lives and for the Lord.

■ 93. Ruth Houston led in prayer as we closed the Memorial Service and adjourned to meet tomorrow at 10:15 a.m.

Friday, August 1, 10:15 a.m.

- 94. Duane Comfort led us in prayer as we convened our meeting.
- 95. The minutes were read and approved.
- 96. The following names suggested as appointments to the NWYM Pension Board by the Pension Board were approved by the Executive Council and sent to the Yearly Meeting:

For two years—Donald Millage and LeRoy Benham.

To continue for one year-Clynton Crisman.

Approved.

■ 97. The Department of Social Concerns submitted the following appointments for Yearly Meeting approval:

For three-year terms on Friends Action Board—Shawna Lee, Andrea Bales, Wesley Hadley-Voth.

For a three-year term on the Friendsview Manor Board—William Rourke. For a two-year term on the EFA Social Concerns Commission—William Rourke.

Approved.

■ 98. The Executive Council presented the following nominations for officers of Northwest Yearly Meeting:

| Treasurer Beatrice Goldsmith |
|---|
| Financial Secretary A. Eldon Helm |
| Archivist Charles A. Beals |

Approved.

- 99. Earl Perisho gave a brief report on the National Association of Evangelicals annual convention in Los Angeles. He stated that he felt it is important and valuable for us to belong to the NAE.
- 100. We paused for a few moments of prayer prior to the following presentation from the Spiritual Life Board. Richard Beebe led in prayer.

■ 101. Roy Clark, chairman of the Spiritual Life Board, presented the recommended changes and additions to the Constitution and Discipline of Northwest Yearly Meeting.

On February 1, 1980, the Yearly Meeting Spiritual Life Board took the following action: A committee was appointed to work with the Discipline Revision Committee to submit statements regarding the issues of alcohol, divorce and remarriage, abortion, gambling, and the gay life-style. Named to the committee were Paul Cammack, Bruce Hicks, Glenn Armstrong, and Jack Willcuts (to serve as chairman).

This committee met several times, with Earl P. Barker of the Discipline Revision Committee, Gerald Dillon, and Bruce Longstroth invited as additional members or consultants. Roy Clark, chairman of the Spiritual Life Board, with Jack Willcuts prepared a final draft for presentation to the board and then to the 1980 sessions of the Yearly Meeting. It was to be presented, but due to typographical and other errors it was referred back to the presiding clerk, who requested the Discipline Revision Committee to review and edit it. This was done.

■ 102. The following is a recommended change in Number 3, page 12, in the Discipline titled "Respect for the Body." The first paragraph would be deleted and replaced with:

Believing that one's body is "the temple of the Holy Spirit," and that we should therefore "glorify God with your body" (1 Corinthians 6:19-20), we exhort all believers to "present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." (Romans 12:1) In view of this, we encourage members to give prayerful and conscientious consideration in regard to their reading matter, the amusements they attend, and the activities in which they participate. In contrast to any sensual obsession evidenced in the media, in styles of dress, and in printed matter, Friends positively affirm the sacredness of the body and mind and urge Christians to deport themselves in a way that glorifies God.

Approved as first reading. (The above includes revisions by the Discipline Revision Committee following Yearly Meeting).

■ 103. The following is a recommended change and addition to Section 3—Testimonies Number 3, page 13 in the Discipline titled "Respect for the Body." The second paragraph would be replaced with the following:

Members are warned against the production and use of alcoholic beverages and other habit-forming and body-defiling drugs, including marijuana, tobacco, beer, and wine. We urge vigorous opposition to the persistent traffic by society in such products.

Approved as first reading with the addition of the word sale.

■ 104. We recommend that Query 5, page 84 of the Discipline be restated as follows:

Do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you, whom you have received from God? Do you seek to glorify Him in your body and mind by abstaining from the growth, manufacture, sale, or use of beverage alcohol, tobacco, marijuana, and other harmful drugs? Are you careful to abstain from amusements inconsistent with a Christian witness and character? Do you pursue temperance in all bodily appetites in order that you by your manner of life may present a positive example to others and may be pleasing to the Lord?

Approved as first reading. (The above includes revisions by the Discipline Revision Committee following Yearly Meeting).

■ 105. The following is a suggested addition, a new section on page 13 of the Discipline between present sections 3 and 4. The new section would become number 4 and would be titled "Human Sexuality" and would read:

The divine intent of marriage is to fulfill the emotional, spiritual, and physical needs of mankind. Only within the bonds of marriage divinely ordained is there a beautiful sexual relationship for the purpose of reproduction and life enrichment.

The practice of sexual perversion in any form is sinful (Genesis 19:1-13; 1 Corinthians 6:9-11; Leviticus 18:20-22; Deuteronomy 22:5) and contrary to the God-ordained purpose of sexual relationships. The sin nature is capable of all manner of vile affections when mankind rejects the moral laws of God, Romans 1:24-28. Neither historically by the church, nor in the Scriptures, has homosexuality been regarded as consistent with righteous living.

Friends believe that the grace of God is adequate to cleanse and deliver from all sin (1 John 1:9; 2 Corinthians 5:17) and do not accept homosexuals as members, as ministers of the Gospel, nor do we permit using such persons in positions of leadership or as workers with children and youth. Nevertheless, Friends are tender and sensitive to all people, expressing kindness, love, and forgiveness. See also Jude 7, 8; Colossians 3:5-7; Revelation 21:8, 27.

This paragraph to be inserted in Discipline, page 12, under Section B, Testimonies, No. 2, "Marriage and Family." Friends affirm the state of singleness (nonmarriage) as an appropriate life-style chosen by some (1 Corinthians 7:6-9) as well as a state in which one may unwillingly find oneself. Not all are expected to marry and some may find the state of singleness preferred. A single person is considered qualified equally with others in regard to spiritual gifts and abilities for use in the Lord's work.

Decision on this recommendation was delayed until after lunch.

- 106. Ralph Beebe brought greetings from John Perkins and Dan and Jan McCracken serving the Voice of Calvary Ministries in Jackson, Mississippi.
- 107. Lloyd Pruitt dismissed in prayer as we adjourned to meet at 12:45 p.m.

Friday, August 1, 1:00 p.m.

- 108. Evert Tuning led in prayer as we convened our meeting.
- 109. The minutes were read and approved as corrected.
- 110. Discussion continued on minute 105.

(The recommendation in minute 105 includes revisions by the Discipline Revision Committee.) Approved as first reading.

111. The following is recommended to replace the second question in Query 8, page 84: Are you careful to exemplify and teach the Christian standards of human sexuality in accord with biblical truths?

Approved as first reading.

■ 112. The following is recommended to be added to the section titled "Divorce" under B—Testimonies, number 3, page 12, and would read:

Based upon the Old Testament teaching of Deuteronomy 24 and Jesus' teaching in Matthew 5 and 19, we understand that the act of adultery is the biblical reason for divorce. Once adultery (sexual sin of married people) has occurred and divorce follows, this fact dissolves the marriage. Since the primary meaning of the Old Testament and Jesus' use of the word divorce is to set free innocent parties, they should not be held in disgrace, or their children stigmatized by the divorce.

Where divorce has occurred and there is evidence of consistent Christian life, it is the responsibility of Friends to demonstrate forgiveness so that the divorced person may live purposefully within the Christian fellowship, and perhaps enter into a new marriage relationship centered in Christ's love. If a remarriage has been consummated, the church is to accept and love the persons involved. A central purpose of the church is to assure men and women that Christ brings a new beginning in life and its potential fulfillment. When there is forgiveness, there is no desire to remember the past. Just as Christ called and blessed those whom He forgave, so must we.

Approved as first reading to be sent to the Discipline Revision Committee with consideration of the spirit and concerns expressed in the wording of this recommendation. (The above includes revisions by the Discipline Revision Committee following Yearly Meeting).

113. The following on the subject of proper use of natural resources is recommended as a new section in B—Testimonies, page 13, to be titled "Christian Living," and reads:

Because God entrusted man with the responsibility in the care and use of His creation, we encourage the wise use of earth's natural resources. Christians ought to maintain a life-style that will help to conserve or replenish resources important for the life of future generations. As Quakers, who have a long tradition of adhering to scriptural injunctions for plain living, we should seek to transform the values of our culture rather than to conform to them in this important area (Matthew 6:24-34; Philippians 4:6; Romans 12:2; Genesis 1:28).

Approved as first reading with the change of the word or in "to help conserve or replenish" to "to help conserve and replenish."

■ 114. The following is recommended as a new query with questions corresponding to the new testimony just suggested on the subject of the proper use of natural resources. This will become the opening sentence of the present Ouery 7, page 84, and will read:

As a steward of God, do you seek to glorify Him in the management of natural and financial resources? Is your life freed from excessive attachment to material things?

Approved as first reading.

■ 115. The following is a recommended addition to Section B—Testimonies, Number 6, page 13 of the Discipline, titled "Capital Punishment." Instead of this heading would be the heading "Sacredness of Life," and under this would be included the statement on capital punishment and also a new statement on abortion. The recommended statement follows:

Because we believe human life is sacred and created in God's image, we oppose induced abortion for personal convenience or population control. We believe induced abortion should be considered only in cases of rape, incest, or when the life of the mother is endangered. Such a decision should be made only on the basis of competent medical, psychiatric, and spiritual counseling.

Approved as first reading to be sent to the Discipline Revision Committee with consideration of the spirit and concern expressed in the wording of this recommendation. (The above includes revisions by the Discipline Revision Committee following Yearly Meeting.)

■ 116. The Spiritual Life Board presented for possible first reading a statement regarding the use of glossolalia, to become a part of the Constitution and Discipline of Northwest Yearly Meeting.

After a lengthy discussion on the floor of the meeting, it was approved to refer this statement to a panel to be named by the Administrative Committee of the Executive Council. The panel will give further consideration to this subject during the year.

The clerk determined the statement was not a first reading.

■ 117. The following letter from South Salem Friends Church was read:

"We are concerned about the effect of minute 27 of the 1979 Minutes (see p. 61, 1975 Constitution and Discipline) on our church governing body as well as that of other Northwest Yearly Meeting churches. [The minute, regarding affiliate members, reads 'They are encouraged to accept various responsibilities in the local church. Only active members, however, may serve as officers, elders, ministers, trustees, chairman of standing committees, and as representatives of the local church to the Yearly Meeting']

"God has sent us two young couples who are committed Christians. The young men have each pastored a church for a year or more. Currently, one young man is our Christian education chairman and the other is youth activities director. One of the young ladies is our recording clerk.

"For our church and other churches with similar situations, we question the desirability of making this decision."

The Representatives have given careful consideration to the communication from South Salem Friends meeting and empathize with their situation. We believe the situation is common to smaller churches. We recommend that minute 27, page 9 of 1979 Minutes regarding affiliate members be approved as stated. We suggest that churches in similar situations use the special abilities of affiliate members to the fullest extent, but with the counsel and supervision of the pastor and elders.

Approved.

■ 118, The Discipline Revision Committee presented for second reading and final action the recommendation that on page 61 (1975 edition; pages 74, 75 1979 edition) of the Constitution and Discipline, under D—AFFILIATE

MEMBERSHIP, the fourth sentence, reading "They may hold offices in the church, except those of minister, elder, presiding clerk, and trustee," be stricken out and replaced with the following:

They are encouraged to accept various responsibilities in the local church. Only active members, however, may serve as officers, elders, ministers, trustees, chairmen of standing committees, and as representatives of the local church to the Yearly Meeting. Affiliate members are encouraged also to attend a membership class or to enjoy pastoral counseling, thus to prepare themselves for active membership.

The Committee recommended also that the last sentence of section D be deleted as redundant.

Approved.

■ 119. The Representatives nominated the following to a three-year term on the Epistle Committee: Rosalie Sigler, Corlys Hubbard.

Approved.

■ 120. A returning minute for Alvin and Lucy Anderson was read as follows:

"We were grateful to have Alvin and Lucy Anderson in attendance at Northwest Yearly Meeting. Their testimony and fellowship has been a real blessing, and we trust God will let them come again. May He bless them in service there."

Edna M. Willcuts, Committee on Returning Minutes Richard H. Beebe, presiding clerk

Approved.

■ 121. The Representatives nominated Brenda Bray to serve as announcing clerk for 1981.

Approved.

- 122. The Representatives nominated the following as officers of Northwest Yearly Meeting:
 Presiding Clerk Richard H. Beebe Assistant Presiding Clerk Lon Fendall Recording Clerk Theresa (Terri) Bowen Assistant Recording Clerk Ruth Brown with Rachel Hinshaw Clerk of Representatives Harold Ankeny Recording Clerk of Representatives Anna Baker Statistician Ralph E. Chapman Approved
- 123. Richard Beebe summarized the work of the Executive Council since last year's Yearly Meeting.

Approved.

- 124. The statistical report was read and approved.
- 125. It was approved to send a letter of appreciation to Dr. Le Shana, president of the college, and to the Maintenance Department.
- 126. The caretakers were glad to be of service to you in the 1980 Yearly Meeting sessions. Thank you for your cooperation. Virginia Millage, chairman; Marcille Comfort, Ellouise Chandler, Mary Meireis, Naoma Wilson.

The Yearly Meeting has appreciated the services of the caretakers.

- 127. Applause indicated appreciation for the work of Kathryn Eichenberger, Yearly Meeting hostess and coordinator.
- 128. Appreciation was expressed for the work of the clerks and staff.
- 129. The Representatives request that the Yearly Meeting instruct our WES trustees to recommend the expansion of Friends studies to a full four-hour course incorporating Friends Doctrine, History, and Polity, and require this for Friends students.

Approved with the recommendation that the studies be coordinated with George Fox College.

- 130. The dates for Yearly Meeting next year are July 25-31, 1981.
- 131. Richard Beebe expressed appreciation for the work of Superintendent Jack Willcuts.
- 132. Jack Willcuts dismissed us in prayer as we adjourned to meet July 25-31, 1981.

"Faith and Praise" Romans 4.

Genuine praise arises not out of emotion but out of a deep understanding of the will and plan God has for us. It is acknowledging what the kingdom of God is all about and sensing what His will is for us to do.

Abraham, being not weak in faith:

1) refused to be swayed by feelings, people, or circumstances (enemies of faith);

2) staggered not at God's promises;

3) gave glory to God;

4) exercising faith and finding it worthy, gave praise.

Results: "It was imputed unto him for righteousness" (Romans 4:22). When Christ returns, how many will He find that have this kind of faith that issues forth in praise?

TUESDAY

"Praise" Psalm 34:1-7, 18, 19

Prayer releases the power of God. God answers all prayers made according to His will... but Satan does not relinquish ground without a fight. This is the role of persistent prayer. We are being trained for spiritual warfare. If we do not pray, God will not act! In prayer, our greatest tool is praise.

1) God is surrounded by praise.

The earth was created in an atmosphere of praise.

Let everything alive praise Him, you praise Him (Psalm 150:6).

Praise is the highest function of the angels.

2) Praise and health

Mental and nervous disorders result from overoccupation with ego or self-

Praise decentralizes self.

3) Praise and power

Satan fears praise.

God inhabits the praise of His people.

His presence always expels Satan.

4) Continuous praise

A way of life

5) Praise as a sacrifice (Hebrews 13:15)

To sacrifice, something must die.

The only time we can offer a sacrifice of praise is when things seemingly are going wrong.

Praise is the highest form of prayer, and the greatest privilege of a Christian.

"Finding the Task Too Big" Judges 6:11-7:1

Guidelines for getting the job done

1) Seeing God's working plan. 1 Corinthians 1:26-29; Acts 4:13

2) Discovering your own potential:

Availability

Obedience

Living with a sense of urgency-don't be consumed by things.

3) A shared ministry. Romans 12; Ephesians 4; 1 Corinthians 12.

4) Tapping the unlimited resources of God.

Are you an open vessel for God's power to flow through freely? Is God released by your availability and readiness? Are your excuses valid in the light of God's plan? Are you letting your weaknesses become God's strengths? If every Christian were like you, would Christianity be an exciting, vital force in today's world?

THURSDAY

"Releasing God's Power Through Prayer" 1 John 5:14-15; Jude 1:20; Luke 18:1-5

The mystery of unanswered prayer... God promised to respond to all prayers that are according to His will. Why are so many prayers not answered to our liking?

1. Selfish motives

God will not violate one principle to fulfill another.

Ego is the greatest diversion to growth.

2. The Church, what is it really?

God's chosen method of working and accomplishing His will.

Prayer is the means God has chosen to release power to the Church.

God's main purpose in prayer is to train the church to use His power to overcome the forces of Satan.

There is no authority apart from persistent believing in prayer.

3. Prayerlessness

You are not receiving, because you are not asking (James 4:3).

The average local church—a religious treadmill of super programs; if they ever become substitutes for an effective church prayer life, they will be virtually useless in damaging Satan's control.

4. Prayer is where the action is:

Real action on the mountaintop (Exodus 17:9-11)

Highest privilege held by the church

5. The battle for control

You never have to plead with God to do what is already His will, but . . . be persistent in prayer.

6. Persistence in prayer

Satan yields only what is taken by released power.

Part of our training is to learn to overcome and persist.

Pray out of authority of God's Word (Ephesians 6:18).

FRIDAY

"The Man Who Forgot to Remember" 1 Samuel 9

Satan uses people, feelings, and circumstances to divert our attention away from God and cause us to react. Anytime we are reacting, God is not in control, and the fruit of the Spirit is not being produced, and we are out from under God's protection.

Samuel was commissioned by God to find a leader who would know the mind of God and do his will and execute His judgments. They chose second-best and reaped the sad results. Sometimes, the severest penalty God can inflict upon a nation is to give them what they want when they reject what they need.

Saul met Amalek, but forgot to remember God's words in Exodus 17:16. Saul's error: he presumed he could find something good in what God had totally condemned as evil. He kept the best of what God hated.

Satan masquerades as an angel of light to deceive the very elect. Can Satan lure you out of God's protection? Do you react? What areas of our lives are we not seeing as God sees?

"The Blest Way to Live"

"But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well." (Matthew 6:33)

None of us knows all this statement means, but it is just about the whole meaning of the Christian life.

As Christians we live now in a new kingdom (citizenship), born into it by faith. Now the search begins for righteousness. Seeking the way of righteousness results in all of life working out properly. This is the "blest" way to live . . . more than a play on words, it is a profound, beautiful principle of life. The principle:

1. The spirit of the law is more important than the letter. Given the legalism of our day-the search for spiritual formulas that quickly become cold, hard religious rules-this truth is vital. The citizen of this kingdom views everything from the standpoint of what pleases God.

2. This principle applies to all of life: housing, wardrobe, jobs. It is an expression of an attitude.

3. This truth is not just for exceptional people, but for all Christians. It is a matter of character more than of conduct. This is true of all the Beatitudes.

What is kingdom citizenship? It means living in a society where Christ rules, in a realm in which God is now in charge of everything. It is putting His authority into daily practice. It is recognizing Christ as Lord . . . now, as much as in the next life.

WEDNESDAY

"Jesus' Teaching on Divorce" Matthew 5:3, 32; 19:1-10; John 4:1-26

What Jesus says specifically in these passages about divorce leaves room for different interpretations; not that Jesus is unclear, but His common practice of working primarily with people as they were often makes His teaching fit that particular person. Yet, He was stating principles on which all relationships are built. Again, the spirit of the law (on divorce) is more important than the letter.

The prevalence of divorce requires our loving attention . . . we cannot "pass by on the other side"; divorce is a heavy burden many are carrying.

Divorce has always been a controversial and many-sided problem. Even the Pharisees could not find a more delicate subject in which to try to trap Jesus. With all that Jesus said and did (the woman at the well), He showed compassion for each person rather than stating an inflexible definition for every circumstance and marriage.

Every pastor and Christian counselor finds there are as many reasons for divorce as there are people, yet all fit within the principle of Christ's forgiveness, love, and concern. Jesus was relentless in judging those who cleverly twisted His teaching around to their advantage. Yet, Jesus knows each life, accurately, and He loves all. It is His desire to redeem us from all sin. Divorce is not the unpardonable sin.

Jesus places man and woman on an equal basis. Husbands and wives are to be treated alike in God's sight.

Summary: God intends marriage to be lifelong. But divorce does not keep one from finding the gift of eternal life. This does not weaken the sanctity of marriage. God uses forgiven divorcees: this is a truth we must observe. Disciples need to recognize this today. Those divorced must face their failures; don't lie, run from God, or cover up truth. A breakdown in obedience is the root cause of all sin, including divorce.

THURSDAY

"How Does a Christian Get Even?" Matthew 5:38-42; 21-26

Getting even takes the time and thought of many people. We call it retaliation. It was an old problem when Jesus addressed it.

The Gospel is seen by many evangelicals as the way to life; Friends see it also as a way of life. The role of peacemaker is for every Christian in every situation where antagonisms exist-in the family, church, community, world.

St. Paul wrote the Quaker "Faith and Practice" on this subject in Romans 12:17-21. This is what the early church understood Jesus' teaching about retaliation, peace, and war to be. Again we see the spirit of the law elaborated beyond the letter of the law. This Beatitude is one Quakers have taken literally while other Christians often take it symbolically. Friends believe evangelism and peace belong together.

Peace is integral to the character of Christ and therefore normative for His followers. Note Isaiah: "The Prince of Peace," John: "The Lamb of God," Paul: The reconciler of all things "making peace by the blood of his cross." (Colossians 1:20) This principle works itself out in our way of life. Salvation replaces hate with love, wickedness with righteousness. The Gospel of peace and the power of God are meaningful realities to be put into practice today. This can be done only with the Holy Spirit in our hearts in tenderness. Nothing is more obnoxious than an arrogant pacifist.

FRIDAY

"Bank on Your Stewardship" Matthew 6:19-34

It surprises some to find Jesus talks a lot about money, which includes all our possessions-real estate, clothing, furniture, cars, things like that. Furthermore, this includes the things we are paying on, or would like to have if we could. This means the difference between greed and generosity, selfishness and sharing, good management and impulsive spending, waste and simpler living.

Christian discipleship involves two specifics: a detachment from the acquisition of unnecessary things, and a careful accounting of one's resources. Jesus warns of the terrible danger of wealth, "where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." The positive side of this is that our giving should be first and consistent if our heart remains in the church.

The Christian realizes all he has been given in intellect, health, opportunities are gifts of God and make him debtor. He can never say, "This is mine now to enjoy as I wish."

Storehouse tithing is God's plan. This is proportionate giving. This is planned giving. We all know the interest percentage with our house mortgages or other payments; should we not be as conscientious in our proportionate giving? Impulsive giving is a religious cop-out; consistent giving is a Christian commitment.

A clear principle is that tithing is giving to the church. It is never paid; tithing is just not using what already belongs to God.

SUNDAY

"The Whole Message" John 14:6

I. Anything short of the whole message is not the Gospel at all.

a. We may face the danger of making a part of the Gospel the whole Gospel.

b. We may unintentionally ignore a part that perplexes.

II. Our message is of the whole of life.

III. This whole message allows me wonderfully to put myself in God's perspective of me.

MONDAY

"The Way: Conversion" Mark 1:14, 15

I. The message of the kingdom and Friends is initially a call to "turn around."

a. It is conversion to Christ.

b. It involves a decisive surrender of loyalty to Him.

- II. A look at the church today demonstrates how confused we are about this event.
- III. The experiences of Paul and Timothy are instructive to the modern church. Acts 9:1-9. 2 Timothy 1:5, 6
 - a. Both turned and faced the living person of Christ.
 - b. Their conversions were the work of the Holy Spirit.
 - c. The decisiveness of their turnaround is underscored.

TUESDAY

"The Truth: the Wrongness of Being Right" Acts 15

Most of us need to be right! or do we?

I. We develop a number of personal strategies in our daily effort to be right.

a. Some of us erode away another's position with sheer volume of words.

b. Some of us use a "facts-or-file" method.

c. some of us drop names as bombshells to win arguments.

- d. Some of us use a "when-you-are-older" method for the same purpose.

 II. A close study of the Jerusalem Council reveals how sharply divided Christians were on the question of circumcision and authority.
- III. There were four discoveries made by this meeting:
- a. Each side recognized that mutual loss was possible.
- b. Each participant found the sufficiency of the Spirit.

c. Wisdom for each led to the essentials of the faith.

- d. The final decision was something better than either side proposed alone.
- IV. There are some clear and practical implications of this today.
 - a. Both the problem and its solution lie in people.b. Decide now that you do not have to be right.

c. Seek wisdom, not knowledge.

d. Focus on the presence of the living Christ.

WEDNESDAY

"The Life: When Love Dies" 2 Samuel 6; 1 John 4:7-21

The love story of David and Michal is descriptive of many modern relationships.

I. How love dies.

- a. Love dies through loss of respect.
- b. Love dies through loss of trust.

II. Love can be reborn.

a. God kindles love afresh.

- b. Reborn love is fostered when I seek to understand as much as seek to be understood.
- c. We must acknowledge differences in the one loved as a treasure entrusted to us.

THURSDAY

"The Life: The Story of a Bronze Serpent" 2 Kings 18:1-6

I. The bronze serpent of Israel originally consecrated to a holy purpose became in time an object of idolatrous worship.

a. An examination of the history of the bronze serpent in Israel reveals it descended from usefulness to profaneness.

II. What can we gather from this passage of Scripture?

a. Bronze serpents in the temple are evil; pillars are not.

b. Hezekiah invited Israel to choose a gain rather than suffer a loss.

c. There was an attitude of heart that tied Hezekiah and Moses together.

III. The challenge to us today is clear. We are not to drown out the quiet whispers of heaven's gentle voice with the noise of our campaigns for or against bronze serpents.

"Fifty Years in Aymaraland—Is It Worth It?" Scripture—Mark 1:21-28

Introduction: Jesus had authority over Satan and combated demon power, delivering and ministering to those oppressed.

I. Jesus has conferred this same power and authority on us as His ministers.

II. We must hang on, even when discouragements come.

III. Jesus reached out. He wants us to reach out. We must sow before we can expect a harvest.

IV. We must not let the "cares of this world" choke out our spiritual life.

V. Aymara Christians demonstrate that happiness and contentment do not depend on material things.

Conclusion: Is it worth it? When we see second- and third-generation Christians, we can without any doubt or question answer, IT IS WORTH IT!

1979-80 GEORGE FOX COLLEGE REPORT

The compilation of this 1979-80 annual report provides opportunity for reflection on the present, thanksgiving for the past, and thoughtful consideration of the future. God's presence and blessing have been very evident in the life of George Fox College, and the fulfillment of His purposes remains our supreme objective. Therefore, in the following report you will find evidence of reflection, rejoicing and thoughtful planning. We are at a most strategic time in the life of George Fox College, not only chronologically in terms of decades of service, but in terms of future patterns of growth and emphasis.

During the last year, as we left the decade of the 1970s and began the 1980s, we have been confronted with new challenges and I believe we've been successful in responding. We have grown in effectiveness and are receiving wide recognition of our role in Christian higher education. I am convinced of the validity of our enterprise. And so too, apparently, are our own peers. George Fox College in the spring was visited by a team of 18 evaluators for the Northwest Association of Schools and Colleges. In opening their formal report the team stated:

"George Fox College is one of the success stories for church-related colleges during the decade of the 1970s. Beginning with its declared mission as a Christian liberal arts college in the Quaker tradition and building upon the strengths of visionary leadership and faculty commitment, the institution has stabilized its finances, constructed new facilities and accommodated substantial enrollment growth. All of this has taken place within a constructive climate of continuing self-study and long-range planning, which has added momentum to the distinctive character of the college."

The College was again granted full accreditation!

That highlight of our academic year, of course, did not occur by accident, but by God's design and working through His people. George Fox College is composed of persons—individuals whom God has called to serve and study in this community of learning. We have a good college because we have good people. Administrators, staff members, faculty and students are confident this is the place the Lord has prepared for them at this time and are committed to doing His will.

During the last year the College has grown in enrollment, has added major new campus facilities, and has balanced its budget with continued fiscal expansion. While this report is filled with facts and figures and measured assessments of growth, it is a statement of God's outpouring. It is a report of testimony of praise for His superintendency over the entire College. To Him is due the honor. We believe our commitment to Him is showing to a secular world. Here are the words from the report of a visiting accrediting review committee: "To be a Christian college is an identity that guides the policies, motivates the people and pervades the programs of the College. There is always the danger of making the label 'Christian' an excuse for legalism or isolation, but the George Fox community has breathed spirit and life into the term so that a genuine sense of Christian community pervades the campus." George Fox College is God's work—and yours through your stewardship. This is a report of your College—a college with a mission, purpose and successes about which you should know.

ACADEMIC:

George Fox College opened its 89th academic year—the last one of the 1970s—with a record enrollment of 734 students, as it continues to be one of the Northwest's fastest-growing colleges. Enrollment now has increased by two-thirds in eight consecutive years of growth. Each of the year's three terms continued at a record level of registration with the fall term equivalent enrollment (based on 15 credit hours) at 701. A total of 29,513 credit hours were taken in the three terms of 1979-80.

An analysis of student enrollment shows two-thirds of the incoming freshmen (67.7 percent) have a "B" average or above, with 37.8 percent above a 3.5 level. Students during the year came from 25 states, ranging from Florida to Alaska and Hawaii to Vermont. Four foreign lands were represented. Together, the four western states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California contributed 91 percent of the students with 74 percent coming from Oregon. Just over 5 percent of the students are minority students, half of those black.

Although the College was founded and is still governed by the Friends Church (Northwest Yearly Meeting), more than 34 denominations were represented on campus. Quaker students composed 22 percent of the student body with 14 percent Baptist and 9 percent members of the Evangelical Church of North America. Those three denominations accounted for just under half of all students.

The 1979-80 academic year began in mid-September with the annual fall faculty conference with Dr. Ernest Ettlich, dean of Southern Oregon State College, as the guest speaker. The conference was at the Twin Rocks Conference Center. Discussions, reports, presentations by administrative leaders and a special emphasis on the self-study project leading to accreditation highlighted the sessions. The conference is designed to foster sharing and a building of community.

The fall miniterm, "Oregon Adventures," was the opening academic program of the year. Seven classes were offered, ranging from the Eastern Oregon high mountains to the Oregon coast, and involving history, drama, physical education and Christian ministries. Eighty-three students joined 11 professors for 256 credit hours.

Although classes started Oct. 4, the formal opening came Oct. 15 with the traditional convocation, featuring Joel C. Aldrich, president of Multnomah School of the Bible, Portland.

In the areas of special programs the College's Independent Study Courses program, in its sixth year, continued to expand with 5 new courses to bring the total offered to 21. More than 150 persons registered, including 31 persons who had previously enrolled, indicating a strong satisfaction with the program. Nearly half (44 percent) of the participants are from the Portland-Vancouver area, but students range from Alaska and Seattle on the North to Klamath Falls, Ore., on the south and Idaho on the east. To date more than 450 teachers have taken Independent Study Courses (in math, science and language) exposing more than 13,500 school students at least once to the materials offered in the George Fox courses.

The Field Education program (Kellogg Project) for experiential education continues to grow in both student and faculty internships. The objective of the program, begun four years ago with a $125,000 grant, is to translate the theory of the classroom into practice, to develop knowledge and skills in the working community, to integrate relevant examples with the instructional program and to establish professional rapport with segments of the business community. During the year (including the summer) some 250 students were in internships in more than 75 occupational areas. As part of the program, nine faculty members during the summer spent 5 to 10 weeks in business and industry learning how they operate so as to better relate their needs to students. Twenty-six faculty members now have been involved in the community-oriented program. These experiential and informational interludes are enriching the curriculum and advisement process for students with current and practical insights gained. Related to the program, there has been a marked increase in the cultural experience program. Twenty students were expected to complete "cultural" assignments during the year.

George Fox College in the 1979-80 academic year was one of just three in the United States to be approved for a new campus Small Business Institute. It is a program of the U.S. Small Business Administration and subsidized by it. Business professor Dr. Roger Crabbs, who during the year was cited by President Jimmy Carter for supervising the best case study of the year for the preceding year, administers the program, guiding senior students in consultant-ship teams as they work with and analyze actual business clients in the area. Eight students participated in the first year at George Fox in this unique and valuable program.

The College's Lifelong Learning program was expanded and reemphasized with an expanded slate of evening courses for the Newberg community. Thirty courses were offered during the year, a deliberate effort to make more courses available to local residents outside of the traditional daytime hours. The availability of noncredit Continuing Education Units (CEUs) was stressed, as well as the availability of the courses free to senior citizens 62 and over.

Minorities Studies were expanded with several courses added and others emphasizing additional material within the existing course work, but without a separate Minority Studies Department. "Minorities History" was added to the curriculum, and other courses in literature, history and education were altered.

During the year the College began its new Athletic Training Program, becoming the first small college in Oregon to offer such a program. Students are offered the program as an elective minor in the Health/Physical Education Department and receive certification through the National Athletic Trainers Association.

George Fox College during the year sponsored and hosted several significant conferences, seminars, and special events. Fall term offered the annual Spiritual Life series, featuring Mike Hilty, copastor of the Calvary Baptist Church in Eugene. And the complete cycle of 32 Beethoven sonatas was featured in a series of seven recitals by noted pianist Istvan Nadas, a former visiting artist at George Fox. Classical guitarist Ron Hudson performed on campus, and the College hosted high school and college students in Oregon for the fourth annual Home Economics Career Day in November.

The third annual Quaker Heritage Conference had the theme "Quaker Worship and the Impact of Joseph John Gurney." Featured was Donald Green, pastor of the Reedwood Friends Church of Portland.

The 14th annual campus Missions Conference highlighted winter term. Guest speaker was Silas Hong, executive director of United Evangelism to China. Representatives from 14 missions organizations were on hand to talk with students informally and in classes. The annual Minority Conference featured Dolphus Weary, executive director of Voice of Calvary Ministries, Mendenhall Mississippi. The Christian Education Conference had as its main speaker Elmer Towns, editor-in-chief of Old Time Gospel Hour Publication.

Spring term featured Vernon Grounds as the Staley Distinguished Lecturer for the annual Deeper Life Conference. He is the coauthor of Is God Dead? and for 24 years was president of Conservative Baptist Seminary of Denver. The Women's Awareness Conference in April had as its topic "Mature Christian Womanhood" and "Women and Music." The first theological conference featured Bernard Ramm, professor of Christian Theology at American Baptist Seminary of the West, Berkeley. The second Herbert Hoover Symposium had several national Hoover scholars speaking on the topic "Understanding Herbert Hoover: Two Approaches."

For the seventh year the College participated with some of the nation's leading evangelical Christian colleges in the Christian College Consortium, with emphasis on the integration of faith, learning and living, and upon cooperative endeavors. Six George Fox students attended a term on other campuses during the year, and the College hosted nine students from other consortium schools.

Dedicated Christian professors, of course, are the heart of the George Fox educational experience. The faculty this year included 41 full-time professors and 27 on a part-time basis. Fifty-four percent of the full-time instructional faculty have earned doctorates. These committed, competent, and caring persons are involved in a wide range (too numerous to mention here individually) of professional activity in addition to their classroom teaching. They have participated in professional associations, written articles and books, collected data in research, conducted workshops and seminars in their areas, and won awards for their activities—all of this in addition to the George Fox emphasis on classroom teaching.

The average class size during the year was 26.1 and the faculty/student ratio was 1 to 16 with a goal of 1 to 20. It is important to keep in mind that our primary goal is for a college of quality and significance and the ratio goal is secondary, reflecting stewardship and good management.

The 89th academic year closed May 31 with commencement ceremonies featuring Denny Rydberg, former editor of The Wittenberg Door, now a free-lance writer. The Baccalaureate service featured Leo Thornton, president of Western Evangelical Seminary, Portland. Rydberg addressed the 112 graduates and an audience of nearly 1,500.

The College's retreat and conference center, Tilikum, completed its fifth year as a special ministry of the College. During the year more than 530 students took part in 13 retreats and classes ranging from botany to discipleship meetings. Students also use the 75-acre center for quiet times and for classes in physical education and Christian camping.

Tilikum during the summer in 11 weeks of day camps hosted just under 1,000 children in a creative outdoor environment, including the first evening camps. The center added three "Squirrel's Nests," individual outdoor shelters, constructed a new dock serving the handicapped, and started construction of a bridge across the narrow end of the lake.

STUDENT LIFE:

George Fox College exists for students and they must always be our prime concern. That concern is expressed through a program of Christian higher education that provides for the integration of faith and learning and living. While the learning comes under the academic area for this report, the faith and living are considered in the student life area. It is a broad category encompassing activities ranging from career planning and financial aid to living situations and health care. It also concerns religious life, athletics and, in essence, anything outside of the classroom itself.

Perhaps the major area is the religious life of the campus. It must never be taken for granted. It is not an additive to the curriculum but must be, and we believe is, thoroughly integrated, providing a perspective and a point of reference to the entire learning and living enterprise. But there also are specific programs-chapel, spiritual emphasis weeks, projects.

Hundreds of students during the year were involved in deputation teams throughout the Northwest, traveling in small groups, sometimes at their own expense, to minister to churches. This year 10 Action Teams were formed, each consisting of a leader and six other students. By the end of the school year more than 50 teams were sent as far as Idaho and Canada. Students work through the chaplain's office and are briefed first in proper protocol, timing, and programming and possible problems. Individual students ministered in local rest homes, taught Sunday school classes, and tutored special students. Students also reached out through the music group "Dayspring," and the drama troupe, "Inter-Mission."

Throughout the year students were organized into 13 discipleship groups on campus for prayer and sharing within organized living units. In addition as a result of Missions Week, students raised more than $2,000 to help send 19 students on summer missionary assignments around the world.

Especially noteworthy was a spontaneous giving project, mentioned briefly in a Thanksgiving chapel, that grew to an outpouring by students of $3,400, enough to provide seven tons of rice to the starving in Cambodia. It was a project that drew national attention. Similarly, but on a scheduled basis, students gave nearly $5,000 representing a 10 percent tithe of their total student government budget, to various projects in the Newberg area and even worldwide.

Students also showed their care and concern for their fellowman directly in contributing 377 pints of blood during the year, averaging 125.6 in each of three campus drawings. Since donation drives started 11 years ago students now have contributed 2,865 pints of blood to the American Red Cross program.

In music and drama students brought inspiration and entertainment through a series of major events and small productions, produced both by campus personnel and through visiting artists. In a new program, the student government brought leading national Christian entertainers to campus, with crowds of up to 2,700 attending. Fall term featured Randy Stonehill/Daniel Amos and Ann Kiemel. Winter term singer Sharalee Lucas was featured and the spring presentation was comedian/speaker Mike Warnke and singer Leon Patillo.

Fall term the 127-voice oratorio choir sang Handel's oratorio Israel in Egypt, accompanied by the newly formed college/community orchestra known as the Chehalem Chamber Orchestra. The College's music theater program staged the Operetta Pirates of Penzance, hosted for the first time a "Dinner Music Theater," featuring selections of several well-known musicals performed before a dining audience, then performed for its major musical of the year The King and I. Drama productions included Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon, a series of one-acts "You Turn, OK!" and a spring drama, The Vigil. All of this was in addition to the regular performances by the 50-piece band, 52-voice choir, and the 35-piece orchestra, the 50-member New Vision Singers, and the 18-piece jazz ensemble.

Special events also included the traditional Homecoming activities in January and the annual spring rites of May Day, this year marking the 75th year since the holding of the first May Day celebration in 1905.

Athletically, the Bruins gained prominence as the men's track team, for the second year in a row, won the NAIA District 2 title, after last year becoming the first independent school squad to take the championship in more than 25 years.

And the track women matched that by repeating as champions of the Women's Conference of Independent Colleges. The men's basketball squad, for the eighth time in 10 years, entered the NAIA district playoffs, with an 18-12 record. We offered six women's sports and five for men.

During the year students formed two new organizations—a Psychology Club and an Outdoors Club—and established a new program that allows students to "take a professor to lunch" with the purpose of establishing better communications among students and faculty. It proved popular.

On the administrative level, the Career Planning and Placement Center continues to counsel and work with current students and alumni and drew nearly 100 to "System for Identifying Motivated Abilities" (SIMA) workshops on campus. The financial aid program of the College continues to expand its base and during the year distributed, from all sources, more than $1 million in financial aid.

DEVELOPMENT/FINANCE:

Growth and expansion continues to characterize George Fox College—especially in new facilities. During the 1979-80 fiscal year the College was involved in five major projects. They bring total investment in the last four years in 11 construction and expansion projects to just over $7 million, with all projects (except revenue-producing residence halls), by College policy, paid for in advance through gifts and donations.

In October the College opened the school year with a 7,500-square-foot addition to the Student Union Building/Heacock Commons. The project, costing $520,000, includes a larger main eating area (expanded from 300 to 500 seating), new student lounge, dining room, snack/coffee shop (now named the SUBway), and a conversation area. The project reoriented the building complex to the new campus quad.

In December work began in a 4,250-square-foot addition to the Coleman Wheeler Sports Center. The project, estimated to have a final value of $132,000, enclosed an open deck on the south side of the building, providing a mini field house, allowing two additional activity rooms for general use.

In March work was completed on a new all-weather rubberized surface track for Colcord Field. The $100,000 project provides eight lanes, reorients the start for dash events, and gave the College for the first time a steeplechase course.

Throughout the year baseball coach Larry LaBounty and volunteers created a new baseball field on the new 10-acre athletic field complex. The project included leveling, drainage and seeding of the field, erection of fences and backstops, and completion of dugouts. It was ready to go in time for spring season. Work also progressed on the new adjacent soccer field.

In April work was begun on a new minidorm, the first of its kind for the campus. The $320,000 project will provide housing for 32 students in 16 rooms on two levels in a 6,400-square-foot facility located in Hess Creek canyon near other campus housing.

The College during the year received a $275,000 grant from the M. J. Murdock Charitable Trust in Vancouver, Wash. The gift, the largest single grant to the school during the year, is a follow-up to an earlier $260,000 grant, both used to establish and provide for operation of the Television Center project on campus, one that is producing videocassettes for use by industry, churches and in private homes. Several other major deferred gifts were received.

A major acquistion for the college was a Digital Equipment Corporation P.D.P. 11/34 computer. The $60,000 endeavor, with four terminals in Wood-Mar Hall, is being used initially for classroom purposes and is to be programmed for use by administrative offices of the college.

During the year the Development Department guided the campaign within Northwest Yearly Meeting and other church groups to raise funds for the new $2.5 million project to build a chapel/performing arts center on campus. The campaign continues.

And the Newberg community set a record level of giving to its Student Help Investment Program (Project SHIP) as businesses and corporations gave $28,500 to the drive. All funds are used for student employment opportunities on and off the campus.

The physical growth at George Fox College is easy to depict and see. It is not as easy, however, to illustrate the growth in quality. But we believe the improvements in facilities merely mirror the improved quality of our total academic program and the overall position of the College.

While the new construction has been evident, it has not been at the expense of the current (or general) fund operations. The College again, for the ninth consecutive year, operated soundly in the black. Assets of the College climbed by more than one million to nearly 17.5 million during the fiscal year, with a fund balance of nearly 12.5 million.

CHURCH/COLLEGE RELATIONSHIP:

Through the years—nearly nine decades of them—George Fox College has maintained a close relationship with Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends. I have now been at George Fox College for 13 years, and many good things have occurred in that time to bring an even closer bond between the church and its college: the Yearly Meeting superintendent and the College president are both ex officio members of the College board and of the Yearly Meeting Executive Council, encouraging direct communication; the Yearly Meeting has for several years placed a contribution to the College as a line item in its budget; the College has sponsored pastors' short courses, and with the Yearly Meeting has sponsored the successful Christian education conferences. Mutual efforts also have been undertaken in the identification and cultivation of potential pastors; College personnel have helped in the leadership of various levels of the church organization, and the College now is working very closely with the Yearly Meeting in its youth program, with Jim Settle, our director of admissions serving also as NWYM youth secretary.

Still, there always is more that can be done together, and this should be our mutual goal.

SUMMARY:

There is much more, of course, that could be said about the 1979-80 year. As we enter into the decade of the eighties, and as we approach the 90th year of the ministry of George Fox College, some specific observations may be in order. First, qualitative growth must accompany quantitative growth. We need buildings and growing enrollments, but we must renew our focus upon quality in teaching and service. Second, we must not lose sight of our objective to be a liberal arts college. There must be a balance between professional training and the humanities. Third, we must be responsive to the needs of the consumer student, yet strong enough to lead the student to new insights. Fourth, we must effectively use all available resources with wisdom and creativity to assure the success of George Fox College.

The evangelical Christian college, like George Fox, has its own unique problems and challenges within the overall context of American higher education. But I am optimistic about our future, provided clear goals of mission, quality learning and in the context of the context of quality learning and careful management are all evident.

George Fox College is a commitment made generations ago by Quaker pioneers seeking Christian higher education for youth. It is still our commitment we make to the future—to serve more effectively and more responsively. The challenge is upon us now. We count upon your continued commitment and support.

DISCIPLINE REVISIONS OR AMENDMENTS

A new edition of the Constitution and Discipline was published following the 1979 Yearly Meeting sessions. The 1979 edition contains all additions and revisions approved as second readings through the 1979 sessions. The items listed below are those Discipline revisions that were approved as second readings at the 1980 sessions.

If you already have a 1979 edition of the Discipline, cut out the paragraphs and tape into the proper place as instructed, and this will bring your Discipline up to date. If you do not have a new Discipline, you may order copies from The Barclay Press and then insert these corrections as indicated above. Prices are $4.00 for standard binding and $4.50 for plastic ring binding that opens flat. Please add 15 percent for shipping—10 percent for orders over $10.00. Thank you for your cooperation.

—The Barclay Press For the Publication Board

(To be clipped and inserted in Discipline as indicated. Replacement copy is in light face type; instructions are in bold.)

In Part II, Chapter II, Section III, subsection C, item 5, page 46, change as follows:

5. TREASURER

The Yearly Meeting appoints annually, on nomination by the Executive Council, a person to serve as treasurer. He receives money from the churches and from other sources for the Yearly Meeting's use and pays out the same as directed by the Yearly Meeting. He is authorized to receive and to issue official receipt for all legacies, donations, or other funds requiring a formal legal acknowledgment. He submits his report annually.

In Part II, Chapter II, Section III, subsection F, item 3a paragraph 3, page 63, change as follows:

The board appoints each of its members to serve in one of its constituent departments: department of Yearly Meeting finance, department of stewardship promotion, department of ministers' aid. The board appoints also one person, not necessarily a member, to serve for a two-year term on the Northwest Yearly Meeting Pension Board, and one of its members to the Ministers' Retirement Fund. The department of Yearly Meeting finance receives the budget request of the boards and other administrative bodies, analyzes them, and formulates recommendations for presentation to the Yearly Meeting Executive Council (see page 49). It determines the amount, as computed by a formula approved by the Executive Council (see page 70) that would be recommended to the local and extension churches as their proportionate share of the approved Yearly Meeting Great Commission budget. The board is authorized to borrow money for the Yearly Meeting when in its judgment such procedure becomes necessary

In Part II, Chapter II, Section III, subsection H, item 5, page 70, change as follows:

5. PROPORTIONATE SHARING

A formula for the apportionment of requests to the individual churches is developed by the stewardship board, subject to the approval of the Executive Council.

The development of this formula may take into account the attendance, the income and expenditures, and the record of past giving or other pertinent data relative to the formulation of a "fair share" giving program.

In Part III, Chapter I, Section D, pages 74 and 75, change as follows:

D—AFFILIATE MEMBERSHIP

In situations where persons not Friends (or Friends temporarily located) are actively interested and engaged in the work of a church, such may be admitted to affiliate membership without severing their relations with another denomination or the home church. Non-Friends should be able to subscribe to the Statement of Faith of the National Association of Evangelicals, in which Northwest Yearly Meeting has membership (see Statement and suggested certificate on page 95). Affiliate members recognize and fulfill the obligation of regular attendance in the services, active moral support of the church and its work, and liberal giving toward its financial program. They are encouraged to accept various responsibilities in the local church. Only active members, however. may serve as officers, elders, ministers, trustees, chairmen of standing committees, and as representatives of the local church to the Yearly Meeting. Affiliate members are encouraged also to attend a membership class or to enjoy pastoral counseling, thus to prepare themselves for active membership. They are not counted in the annual reports of membership but may be reported separately if desired. Children of such members may become affiliate members also, or, at the request or by the consent of their parents, may become associate members of the church. All affiliate members are given certificates indicating their relationship to the churches and the rights pertaining thereto.
