The College '66

George Fox College is celebrating its "Year of Jubilee", or seventy-five years of service as a private, Christian, liberal arts school. It is a long and thrilling road from the early days when two little wooden buildings housed everything from all the classes to chapels to dormitories, from the days when "Bertie" Hoover was a student and "Bruin" was only a rollicking cub in the Canyon, to almost three millions of dollars' worth of excitingly new buildings and an outstanding student body from many states and foreign countries. The Year itself is being marked with a series of special convocations, lectures, athletic "firsts", concerts and shows, which will demonstrate the work and programs of the many fields of study and experience. Not the least of these is the use of our Quaker Field for home games with all of its added equipment.

The seventy-fifth birthday is a happy and exciting time for one and all. Without doubt, it will mark the greatest year of accomplishment for the "good old Quaker college." We are glad that you are coming to the "party." We want to share all of the events with you all through the year and up to and including next June's commencement.

The Coaches 1966

Head coach Earl Craven, B.A. George Fox College; M.S. Kansas State University, begins his 19th year of coaching with a lifetime record of 70-75-5. Craven an advocate of the Oklahoma split T offense, is in his fourth year at G.F.C. He also serves the college in the capacity of Athletic Director and Director of Admissions.

Line coach Terry Haskell, B.A. William Penn College, Oskalooska, Iowa begins his third year at G.F.C. Currently Haskell is finishing graduate work at the University of Oregon. Coach Haskell heads the varsity basketball and baseball programs for the Quakers.

In his first year at George Fox College is defensive backfield coach Jerry Louthan, B.S., M.S. Kansas State College of Pittsburg. Louthan played defense for the Kansas State team which in the 1961 Camelia Bowl defeated Linfield for the N.A.I.A. championship.

The Team '66

CASEY: 6'7", 265 Tackle, likes defensive contact, good maneuverability, grown since last season.

McHUGH: 6'0", 170 Quarterback, three year senior letterman from Seattle, tough, aggressive signal caller, good passer.

CARLILE: 6'0", 185 Halfback, sophomore from Friendswood, Texas, led team with 3.61 yards per carry as frosh, should be great year for this strong, hard runner.

HADLOCK: 6'5", 250 Tackle, physically ready this year, big, strong and fast, should go both ways for Quakers.

LIVINGSTON: 5'10", 160 Fullback, strong runner with outstanding speed, converted from half to add balance to offensive punch.

BRIGHT: 6'1", 190 Defensive end, does some punting, good desire and hustle.

FORSYTHE: 6'0", 155 Defensive halfback, likes contact, looking forward to good year.

BEECROFT: 5'8", 155 punter with 31.2 average per kick as freshman, prefers defensive platoon.

STUCKY: 6'0", 200 sophomore letterman from Seattle, defensive tackle, weight down from last fall, tough to run through.

McNELLY: 5'8", 150, lettered '65 as defensive halfback, could see some action as signal caller, good hustler.

PETERSON: 6'0", 180 Guard, good desire, plenty of hustle.

CAYWOOD: 6'0", 175, End, plagued by injured ankle last season, good speed this fall, hard worker.

ANKENY: 5'10", 185, Halfback, quick starter with speed to match.

KIMBERLY: 6'1", 205 End, tough at this position, great desire, real prospect, uses speed to advantage.

KELLUM: 5'11", 225 Center, willing to make second effort, smart and likes contact.

CRAVEN: 6'1", 190 Guard, Linebacker, good mobility, tough defensive player, aggressive, led team in tackles last fall.

1966 Football

by Earl Craven

Maybe 1966, will be the year that results begin to pay off for a lot of hard work and effort. The Coaching Staff and the College Administration have been sincerely dedicated to a program of football that was legitimately Oregon Collegiate Conference. There have been a number of fine athletes that have dedicated themselves to this cause. Material is of the essence. I do not know for sure that the young men now assembled on the squad at George Fox College are ready to accomplish our goals and purposes in 1966. I do know that in 1966, they will make themselves felt. I am also certain that before this group ends their association together, they will be a winning football team. Hopefully, the time is here. The inspiration of the new facilities on the campus, the fine group of boys and the enlarged and capable coaching staff will go a long way to establish a momentum which has been hard to gain. We know that the competition is still tough and that the odds are great. We think we like it that way and plan to test everyone that goes on the field against us.

The Season 1966

An objective look of the 1966 Quakers would point out good defensive returnees, a fine first eleven players and strength in the kicking game. Junior college transfers and good freshmen prospects bolster the outlook. A scouting report would read something like this:

Offense:

Running attack has potential, much bigger threat passing this season.

Running:

Stronger.

Passing:

Stronger and will receive more emphasis.

Receiving:

Pleasant surprise in at least two new ends, two lettermen and one converted back are better than we have had.

Kicking:

We think this is one of our best strengths.

Defense:

Better part of our team last year, all returned.

Newcomers:

Had confidence early, but the crop is actually better than we had thought.
