CONTRIBUTORS

SUSAN JEFFERS is a member of Ann Arbor Friends Meeting, Lake Erie Yearly Meeting, Friends General Conference. She graduated from the Earlham School of Religion in 1999, and leads Bible and Quaker studies courses and workshops for several organizations of Friends and others. Susan manages the QRT website and serves on the advisory council of QRT.

SHANE KIRKPATRICK is a member of Indiana Yearly Meeting. He earned his M.Div. from Princeton Theological Seminary and his Ph.D. from the University of Notre Dame. Currently, he serves as assistant professor of religion and director of the Peace and Conflict Transformation (PACT) Program at Anderson University in Anderson, Indiana. He teaches widely but specializes in biblical studies. His dissertation, Competing for Honor: A Social-Scientific Reading of Daniel 1-6, was recently published by E. J. Brill (2005).

DAVID L. JOHNS is associate professor of theology at the Earlham School of Religion. He earned the Ph.D. in theology from Duquesne University and taught at Malone College and Wilmington College before joining the ESR faculty in 2001. David's most recent publication is Mysticism and Ethics in Friedrich von Hügel (Edwin Mellen, 2004), and he serves on the advisory council of QRT.

PAUL ANDERSON is professor of biblical and Quaker studies at George Fox University. He has published more than 130 articles and essays, and he is currently involved in exploring the relations between Jesus, John, and history. His letter to the Vatican, "Petrine Ministry and Christocracy—A Response to the Vatican," was published this January in One in Christ, and he has received a major Lilly grant entitled the George Fox University Congregational Discernment Project.
