To the Members of the Board of Service of Oregon Yearly Meeting:

A situation has arisen which seems to call for immediate action, since the yearly meeting minutes copy must go to the printer very soon. Milo Ross has given assurance that he cannot accept the position as superintendent of World Service. This information was sent to the secretary of the Board, who at once wrote to the president, but has thus far had no reply from him for some reason. And so the members of the Board who could be readily reached have agreed to propose the name of Ross McIntyre for that position, apparently the logical man for it, and they are asking for your approval, disapproval or alternate suggestion by return mail, on the enclosed postal card. Unless there is failure to agree on the matter, the name will go into the minutes. If there should be serious disagreement, the matter can be further considered before the minutes are printed, but the name is submitted to the printing committee tentatively now.

Hoping that I may have an immediate reply, and with regret that the situation seems to require me to act without hearing from the president of the board, I am

Sincerely your friend,

Levi T. Pennington, Vice President.
