Most of us are gearing up for the beginning of a new school year. Anticipating the changes that are always part of the start of the term: new student workers, new class offerings, new faculty and the excitement that these changes bring.

For one of our editors the new term brings more than the usual changes. Diane Garber has accepted a position in the new Liberty University Law Library. With this new job Diane has decided to make some other changes: she will no longer be able to participate in ACL and, much to our regret, no longer serve as Design Editor for The Christian Librarian. This will be her last issue.

Much of what you are now holding in your hand, in looks, content and style are products of Diane's excellent work. Many changes have taken place in the years since Diane came aboard the TCL team and we owe her a great deal. It is with real sadness that I attempt to say good-bye and to thank her for her contributions to this journal and the Association.

Diane's name first appeared on the TCL staff page in 1996 as Diane Sullivan, Managing Editor. She has since moved to the position of Design Editor, gotten married, and also written articles, book reviews and editorials.

The TCL editorial staff is truly a team and we have developed a friendly camaraderie that we share at meetings, over the phone, via email and when we are together at conference. Diane is not only an excellent editor she is fun to be around and has a fresh voice to add to the library discussion.

Please join me in thanking Diane for her service to ACL and for the product she has so ably assisted in bringing to the Association 3 times a year for almost a decade.
