Editor's Page

The Quaker Theological Discussion Group is sponsoring a conference to be held at Earlham College, July 3-5, on the topic, Called to Stand: Alone or Together? Arthur Roberts, Ross Flanagan, Francis Hall and some members of the New Swarthmoor community are being invited to present papers. There will be time for extensive discussion and for a QTDG business meeting, and a meeting for worship each morning. Further information may be obtained from Wilmer Cooper, Earlham School of Religion, Richmond, Indiana 47375.

We are also planning a panel on A Theology of Life and Death: Who Shall Live and How? at the Friends General Conference gathering at Ocean Grove, New Jersey, June 22-27. Henry Cadbury, Hugh Barbour, Kelvin Van Nuys, Canby Jones and, it is hoped, Marjorie Nelson Perisho will initiate discussions about ecology, population control and nuclear war, abortion, and related issues.

Readers interested in the discussion of psychology and religion in this issue of Quaker Religious Thought might also want to know of the Friends Conference on Religion and Psychology to be held at Haverford College, June 5-7, at which Maurice Friedman will address himself to the theme, Touchstones of Reality: Beyond Psychologism and "Self-Realization." Write: Virginia Davis, 811 Meredith Drive, Media, Pa. 19063.
