Otto M. Boetes and his wife Lia are members of Netherlands Yearly Meeting who are spending a sabbatical year at Pendle Hill. They joined the Society of Friends directly after the second World War. Otto Boetes studied theology, psychology and philosophy at Amsterdam University and now lectures in philosophy and political science at a Christian college for social work in Amsterdam. His involvement in politics dates from 1966 when he became widely known as an organizer of demonstrations protesting the Vietnam war. In 1967 he was elected as a member of the Dutch Senate on the pacifist-socialist ticket. That same year he visited Hanoi. In 1969 he resigned as a senator to give all his energies to the student movement for democracy at his college. Lia Boetes has been very active in the Dutch Training Center for Non-Violent Action. The paper included in this issue is a shortened version of one presented as Otto Boetes' fall term paper at Pendle Hill.

Hugh S. Barbour's essay in this issue is a revised version of the Illinois Yearly Meeting Lecture presented August 18, 1971. Hugh Barbour is chairman of the Department of Religion at Earlham College and Professor of Quakerism and Church History at the Earlham School of Religion. He and Arthur Roberts are co-editors of a forthcoming collection of the most important early Quaker writings (apart from Fox's Journal and Barclay's Apology), to be published by Friends United Press under the title, Truth Proclaimed.
