

1-1-1972

Contributors--Quaker Religious Thought, no. 31

Chris Downing

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.georgefox.edu/qrt>

Part of the Christianity Commons

Recommended Citation

Downing, Chris (1972) "Contributors--Quaker Religious Thought, no. 31," Quaker Religious Thought. Vol. 31, Article 5.

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.georgefox.edu/qrt/vol31/iss1/5>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by Digital Commons @ George Fox University. It has been accepted for inclusion in Quaker Religious Thought by an authorized editor of Digital Commons @ George Fox University. For more information, please contact arolfe@georgefox.edu.

Contributors

Charles Fager is a member of Cambridge (Mass.) Monthly Meeting and serves on the executive committee of the New England Regional Office of AFSC. He is a writer, editor and journalist by trade, when employed. He came to the Society of Friends from a Roman Catholic background through the civil rights movement in the South and a term as a conscientious objector at Friends World College. He is a sometime student of religion at Harvard Divinity School, is married and has a daughter. This essay on simplicity he considers the opening chapter of a broader exploration of the contemporary demands which are being made on a spirit-gathered and motivated community.

Lawrence Scott has a Master of Theology degree from Central Baptist Theological Seminary of Kansas City, Kansas. He was coordinator of the voyages of the Golden Rule and the Phoenix, the vigil at Fort Detrick, and other nonviolent action projects. He was one of the initiators of A Quaker Action Group and its executive secretary for five years, and is now associated with the Movement for a New Society and the Life Center Association — the successors of AQAG.

Larry Kuening is a drop-out from Bethany Theological Seminary, the Selective Service System, the Society of Friends, the Church of the Brethren, the Brethren Action Movement, and the New Swarthmoor community. He is now one of the Publishers of Truth mentioned at the end of his comments. He is currently writing Exiles in Babylon, an interpretation of the biblical history and its relation to the present.