William T. Scott, a graduate of Swarthmore College, received his Ph.D. in mathematical physics in 1941 from the University of Michigan. He has taught at Amherst and Smith Colleges and since 1961 as Professor of Physics at the University of Nevada, Reno. In sabbaticals at Yale and Oxford he has studied theology and has come in close contact with the person and writings of Michael Polanyi. William Scott has directed programs, relating the sciences and the humanities, at the University of Nevada; he has applied Polanyi's ideas in the philosophy of atmospheric physics and in a course in Science and Religion. He joined Friends at Swarthmore in 1936; he and his wife Ann are now members of Reno Monthly Meeting, Pacific Yearly Meeting. They have been active in promoting the College Park Quarterly Meeting theology workshops.

Kara Cole is a teacher and businesswoman. A graduate of George Fox College and holder of an M.A. in English from Portland State University, she was Assistant Professor of English at Warner Pacific College for seven years. During the past five years she has held advertising and communications directorships in two large Oregon industries. She is currently managing her own business. An active member of Reedwood Friends Church, she has held leadership positions in Northwest Yearly Meeting, including five years as Clerk of Representatives. Kara Cole is a contributing editor of Evangelical Friend. She is on the boards of trustees of George Fox College and of the Center for Christian Studies; she is also a member of Earlham School of Religion's Board of Advisors. She and her husband Wayne are the parents of three daughters and one son.
