CONTRIBUTORS

CHARLOTTE CONDIA-WILLIAMS is a member of the Las Cruces, New Mexico, Meeting and a sometime sojourner at Campus Meeting, Wilmington, Ohio. A busy mother and grandmother, she is currently working on a book and video to introduce elementary school children to archeology.

LUCY DAVENPORT has recently completed studies toward a Master of Ministry degree at Earlham School of Religion. She has been active in ministry among Friends in Illinois Yearly Meeting, and has traveled and led workshop presentations for the New Foundation Fellowship on the original Quaker message taught by George Fox and the first generation Quaker preachers. She makes her home in Portland, Oregon, where she attends Reedwood Friends.

DEAN FREIDAY is a former editor of Quaker Religious Thought. A Quaker theologian actively engaged in ecumenical affairs, including Roman Catholic dialogues, he is most widely known among Friends for one of his books, Barclay's Apology in Modern English. Dean is active among Friends locally in Manasquan, New Jersey, where he lives.

MICHAEL P. GRAVES is a professor at Regent University, Virginia Beach, Virginia. His article in this issue of QRT was presented as a paper at a meeting of the Speech Communication Association, Atlanta, Georgia, October 31, 1991.

T. VAIL PALMER, JR., taught ethics for many years at Rio Grande College, Ohio. An accountant, as well as a recorded minister, he is now an active member of Reedwood Friends Church, Portland, Oregon. He edited Quaker Religious Thought from 1974 to 1982, singly and jointly with Dean Freiday, and has been a frequent contributor of articles and reviews.
