CONTRIBUTORS

CORWYNN BEALS is Associate Professor of Philosophy and Religion at George Fox University. He teaches courses in agrarian philosophy and phenomenology and is currently writing a book about reconciling our broken relationship with the land. More importantly, he is partnering with his wife and two energetic boys (8 and 10) homesteading some land, recycling a house, building tree houses, and living in community with their neighbors in the attempt to recover from a lifetime of dualism. They worship with Friends in Newberg.

DANIEL L. BRUNNER is Professor of Christian History and Formation at George Fox Evangelical Seminary. He has taught at the seminary since 1995. Currently he is living in intentional community in north Portland, close by his two granddaughters. He is a Lutheran pastor, and enjoys gardening, reading, movies, music, and sports. Along with two colleagues, they have just submitted a manuscript to Baker Academic introducing ecotheology to evangelicals. That volume is tentatively titled On Earth as in Heaven: An Introduction to Evangelical Ecotheology for release in 2014.

ROGER S. NAM (PhD, UCLA) is associate professor of biblical studies at George Fox Evangelical Seminary and researches primarily on ancient Israel's economies and innerbiblical exegesis. He is the author of Portrayals of Economic Exchange in the Book of Kings (Leiden: Brill) and is currently writing a book on economies during the time of Ezra-Nehemiah. He is frequent contributor to workingpreacher.org and is active at Lake Grove Presbyterian Church in Lake Oswego, Oregon.

CAROLE DALE SPENCER is Associate Professor of Christian Spirituality at Earlham School of Religion. She is the author of Holiness: The Soul of Quakerism: An Historical Analysis of the Theology of Holiness in the Quaker Tradition, and many articles on Quaker history, theology, and spirituality. She is a recorded minister in Northwest Yearly Meeting, a member of Reedwood Friends Church in Portland, Oregon, and a sojourning member of West Richmond Friends Meeting in Richmond, Indiana. She travels regularly between Richmond, Indiana and Portland Oregon, where she enjoys hiking, kayaking, photography and simply breathing in the beauty of the great Pacific Northwest.

JAY MILLER is currently an MA student in English at The Pennsylvania State University. Early American literature, religion, and the environment are Jay's current areas of interest. His article, "Nature's Piercing Voice: John Woolman's Wilderness Habitus," is forthcoming in Religion and Literature. Jay grew up in and is a member at Newberg Friends Church, and has recently been attending State College Friends Meeting.
