ABOUT GEORGE FOX COLLEGE

George Fox College is the outgrowth of a desire by early Willamette Valley Quaker settlers who established Pacific Academy in 1885 for the Christian education of their children. The college division was organized in 1891 to provide more advanced instruction for students. In 1949, because of the many colleges in the Northwest with "Pacific" in their name, the college was renamed George Fox in honor of the founder of the Friends (Quaker) Church. The college is governed by a 42-member Board of Trustees elected by Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church, which comprises more than 8,000 members in 59 churches in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.

Today the 90-acre rural, tree-shaded campus a half-hour drive from Portland boasts $6 million in facilities, including 19 buildings, of which 13 are new or remodeled in the last several years. Enrollment is currently at a record 557, with George Fox this year being Oregon's fastest growing college with a 16 percent increase.

Accredited by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, the college offers 24 majors in six divisions: Education, Fine and Applied Arts, Language Arts, Natural Science, Religion, and Social Science. George Fox is one of 12 members of the national Christian College Consortium. GFC has a student-faculty ratio of 1:16, with more than 60 percent of faculty members having doctorates.

George Fox students come from 20 states and five foreign countries. Nearly 40 religious denominations are represented on the Newberg campus.

George Fox three years ago established a branch center in Kotzebue, Alaska, the farthest northwest educational institution in the United States, just 100 miles from Russia.

Alumni of George Fox are primarily in service-oriented vocations of Christian ministries, education, social work, and medical fields. The college's most prominent alumnus is the late President Herbert Hoover, who attended Pacific Academy.

GFC ATHLETICS

Intercollegiate athletics is an integral part of the overall educational program at George Fox. Varsity athletic teams represent the college in baseball, basketball, track, soccer, cross-country, and tennis.

George Fox College competes as an independent on the varsity level. Its schedules are coordinated with both the Evergreen Conference and the Northwest Conference and with other independents in the Northwest. George Fox is a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), District 2.

Women students compete in field hockey, volleyball, basketball, tennis, track, and softball. The college is a member of the Women's Conference of Independent Colleges and the Northwest College Women's Sports Association.

For students not participating in the varsity program, GFC has a complete intramural program including flag football, basketball, volleyball, and softball.

Athletic facilities include Hester Gym, which seats 1,100 and has facilities for wrestling and weight training; Colcord Field, which includes a football-soccer field and track; a baseball field; tennis courts; and nearby indoor swimming pool facilities of the Chehalem Park and Recreation District.

With a nearly two-third million dollar gift toward the project, the college currently is undertaking a $2.2 million drive for a new sports-recreation-convention center complex.

THE BRUIN NICKNAME

George Fox College is represented by the nickname and mascot "Bruin." But it's not always been so, even though it should have been.

The nickname comes from a real live bear captured in 1887 just two years after Pacific Academy (the college's predecessor) was established. The small cub was captured in the coast range foothills west of Carlton when its mother was shot. The young cub was brought to campus by a student and later lived with a faculty member. When it grew to adulthood it was kept in a pit in what is now known as Hess Creek Canyon south of the campus. It escaped one too many times and was turned into steak for the dining table and the hide preserved on a frame and displayed in an early campus museum. When it deteriorated several years later, it was taken to a campus furnace room to be destroyed, but the framework proved a problem in dismantling, so it was left sitting in a corner. Students found the old Bruin skin later and began skirmishes over ownership, a tradition that continues today 87 years later. "Bruin Junior," under a set of guidelines passed down for years, is fought over periodically in class competition with the class able to physically drag the Bruin replica off campus declared the rightful owner until it is next "flushed."

Even with the Bruin tradition, somewhere along the line, the "Quaker" tag to athletic teams came into popularity with sportswriters because of the college's church affiliation, and that nickname was used, along with a mascot "Foxy George," a little fox with a Quaker hat. Both gained acceptance for a period in the 1950s and 1960s until a vote of faculty, students, and administration in 1970 reinstated the Bruin nickname to its rightful place.

HOW IT LOOKS FOR 1975-76

The Bruins are back for their sixth year under Coach Lorin Miller, and there'll be some changes along with a retention of the old traditions.

"We've got a tradition established and we want to maintain it," Miller says. That tradition is winning and postseason championship games. As Oregon's top independent ever since Miller's arrival in 1970, the Bruins for five straight years have been the independent representative in the NAIA District 2 championship playoffs, including a national NAIA tournament berth three years ago, a runner-up slot in the district championships the following year, and another playoff bid last spring.

"There's a pride in being a Bruin basketball player now," Miller adds. "It's a positive thing and we aim to keep it."

There will be some changes from previous Bruin teams: there's more quickness, perhaps a better overall balance, and more depth. Quickness will come from the addition of some speedy guards, and the depth comes from a larger squad, 16 compared to 11 last season. But some of that help is inexperienced in collegiate ball.

With his usual quiet confidence for things ahead Miller, who's never had a losing season at Newberg, says the 1975-76 Bruins "will be as good as any we've had."

Bolstering that assessment are the preseason workouts and practices, which give observers a stronger impression of enthusiasm than in previous years. "They're the hardest working group of players we've had," Miller observes.

The Bruins will maintain their basic team style that has worked: good, solid defense. "We're a team that wants to play defense," the Bruin basketball boss says. "Hopefully, we'll continue that." "That" includes second in defense for the last two years among the 13 colleges in District 2.

The Bruins will be building around a nucleus of four returning lettermen off last year's squad that went 17-13. Missing from the lineup will be four of last season's seniors and three others who had a combined point average of 47.9 out of the Bruins' 80.3 average (opponents averaged 72.7).

Needed will be a replacement for last year's MVP, Ray Willis, selected for tryouts with the Portland Trailblazers of the NBA following his 13.5 point average with the Bruins, along with 8.31 rebounds a contest, and 3.34 assists per game, best in 10 years of Bruin NAIA action.

That leadership role will probably be assumed by senior defense specialist Steve Strutz, last year's Most Inspirational Player, and third in the all-time assists category. He'll have good backup from returners Nick Sweeney, an aggressive senior who was second in field goal accuracy at .516 and averaged 5.9 points last season; Tom Hewitt, a junior spark plug with coolness under pressure with a 5.3 average a year ago, and Paul Cozens, last year's super freshman who led the team in scoring with a 15.8 average and was the most accurate at .556. Much of the Bruin's hopes lie with Cozens, a 6-6 center-forward, who last spring was selected as the Northwest Player of the Week following a 37-point single game effort and who is even more aggressive and confident this year.

COACH LORIN MILLER

Sports media at various times have tabbed George Fox College as a "small college basketball powerhouse." That designation is to the credit of the college, but more particularly to the coach who brought it about—Lorin Miller.

Five times in five years since coming to George Fox in 1970, Miller has led the basketball Bruins to a postseason NAIA District 2 playoff berth as Oregon's top independent team.

The 40-year-old George Fox athletic director has brought a new look in athletics to the college: a winning atmosphere and recognition in Oregon for a remarkable change from doormat to title contender for the Bruins. From seven wins and 44 losses in the two years before his arrival, Miller has guided Bruin cage crews to a total 75-59 regular season record and 78-64 record including play-off and postseason games.

The turnabout was not just luck. It was planned by Miller, who confidently, but quietly, told college officials in 1970 he could have the Bruins playing in national competition within five years. He was ahead of schedule. In 1973 under Miller the Bruins traveled to Kansas City for the NAIA nationals as District 2 champions. There was never doubt in Miller's mind, even when the Bruins were 5-11 in midseason and others were questioning. In a soul-searching session, he convinced the players they could do it, they needed confidence. They believed him, and it worked all the way to the top in the Northwest.

A year later after a so-so season at 8-9, the Bruins again grasped Miller's idea of pride and came back to win 11 of their last 13 games, including eight in a row, and came within one point of a repeat trip to Kansas City, bowing 55-54 to Oregon Tech in the district championship game in Klamath Falls. Last season was nearly a repeat, with seven straight wins at one point, and another meeting in the championships with OIT in Klamath Falls, where the Bruins were halted by the hosts.

Miller's goal this year is to maintain that winning tradition and Bruin pride and confidence, hopefully for another shot at the nationals.

A popular speaker for school and civic organizations, Miller meshes his basketball coaching in with his teaching assignments on campus and administrative duties.

The Bruin basketball boss came to George Fox with a 45-22 record as freshman basketball coach at Seattle Pacific College for three years. His diamond teams in Seattle compiled a 56-36 record over the same span for SPC.

Prior to his college coaching career, Miller was a high school coach in Kansas (Pawnee Rock) for five years, with his football teams winning four straight conference titles.

A 1960 graduate of Sterling College in Kansas, Miller also holds a master's degree from the University of Washington. He and his wife Jan have four children—Mark, Mike, Shelley, and Monte.

COACHING STAFF

RICH ALLEN is in his seventh year as assistant coach for the basketball Bruins, coming to George Fox from Salem Academy to assume duties as head track coach and to aid in GFC's basketball campaigns. He's led the Bruins to success in both.

In basketball Allen is the defensive coach, works with the guards and helps with scouting assignments. It's his direction, in conjunction with Miller, that has helped the Bruins become noted for their strong defense, second in District 2 last year.

Since his arrival at GFC Allen has produced eight national competitors in track on the NAIA level. This fall he assumed cross-country coaching duties and again another national competitor. He is a 1960 graduate of Seattle Pacific College and has a master's degree from the University of Oregon.

ROB WUNDER, probably George Fox's most honored player ever, begins his second year as an assistant coach. The 6-5 center-forward in two years with the Bruins (1972-74) produced a career scoring average of 16.2 to become GFC's all-time leading scorer in NAIA competition and third leading rebounder at 7.95. Wunder, a native of Seattle, earned the team's Most Valuable award for two consecutive years, unanimous pick to the All-District team, and selection as one of just three NAIA players on United Press International's list of Pacific Coast All-Star.

Wunder serves as a coaching assistant while finishing a master's degree program in physical education teaching at Linfield College.

CRAIG TAYLOR this season adds basketball coaching to his other duties. In his third year as Bruin baseball coach, Taylor last spring led his baseballers to a 9-9 season. He and his wife Cheryl also are head residents for 100 students in Pennington Residence Hall on campus.

Like Wunder, Taylor also was a member of GFC's national-contending 1972-73 basketball squad. The native of Caldwell, Idaho, in his two years with the Bruins averaged 10 points a game, eleventh among all-time Bruin NAIA scorers; averaged 4.96 rebounds, eighth on the all-time list, and stands fifth in assists at 2.01.

Taylor currently is working toward a master's degree from Linfield College in physical education teaching.

THE BRUINS—AS INDIVIDUALS

DAVE ADRIAN, one of Oregon's most sought-after prep stars, captained the 1975 state high school championship basketball team. The 6-3½ forward averaged 13 points a game for his Sunset High team, which went 26-2. He was tabbed to the All-Tournament first team and named a Metro Area All-Star. A "mature" freshman, Adrian, who will be either a guard or forward, is smooth and poised. A good outside shooter and good all-around player, Adrian is a liberal arts major with interest in music.

SCOTT AUDISS transfers from Concordia Junior College in Portland, where he captained his team to a spot in the Small College West Coast Nationals and was elected to that organization's All-Star squad. The 6-7 center-forward, a potential starter for the Bruins, is a good rebounder (11.5 last season) with good aggressive inside moves. For Concordia, Audiss scored 14 points a contest with a 69 percent accuracy. The junior psychology major prepped at West Albany High but now resides in Salem.

TERRY BEEBE was Athlete of the Year for Winston Churchill High of Eugene last year. The three-sport player was a starting guard for Churchill as a senior, averaging 5.0 points a game after recovering from a broken hand. An All-League pick and team captain in football, Beebe also led his baseball team as a pitcher with a 5-2 record. Aggressive and with a good mental attitude, Beebe has a good shooting range. The 5-10 freshman is a liberal arts major.

JOHN BOARDMAN, a junior transfer, was team captain, MVP, and a league All-Star for his Tigard High squad when he scored 18.5 points an outing. In his first year at Blue Mountain (Ore.) CC, Boardman, 6-1, averaged 25 points a game, had a single game high of 54, and paced the Northwest Junior College Athletic Association in scoring, twice being named to their All-Tournament team. An excellent outside shooter, Boardman, a business-economics major, is a potential Bruin starter at guard or forward.

LINDSEY CATON as a senior last year at Seattle's Queen Anne High School produced a 9.2 scoring average. A 6-1½ guard, Caton, a walk-on for the Bruins, is a good shooter and could develop into a helper for Miller's Bruins. A liberal arts major, Caton got off to a slow start fall term with an early-season diagnosis of mononucleosis, but should be ready for action during the winter campaign.

PAUL COZENS is a complete player. The 6-6 sophomore standout is an excellent shot (his .556 average topped the team last year), a great rebounder (6.9 average last season), and has a nearly awesome physical ability. A starter for the Bruins, the impressive center last year led the team in scoring with a 15.8 average, third highest in GFC's NAIA history. In his initial year of collegiate ball, the former Seattle (West Side) standout was named Player of the Week in the Northwest after scoring 37 points in one game (SOSC) and 83 in three games. Last year's Most Improved Player, Cozens is a liberal arts major.

GREG GRIFFIN is another product of Seattle, where he captained his Queen Anne High team and as a senior averaged 12.4 points a contest. The 5-10 guard was an All-City honorable mention pick last year and for three years was given his high school's Most Inspirational nod. Quick, a good jumper, good outside shooter, and a sharp defensive player on the basketball court, Griffin also is a standout in track with a 9.6 clocking in the 100. He is a health and physical education major.

TIM HARDIE comes to the Bruins as an All-Conference coastal division pick of the Northwest Association of Community Colleges. Last season the 6-4 forward paced his Highline Community College (Seattle) team with a sharp .570 shooting average and 22 points a game plus 11.9 rebounds and a .820 percent accuracy at the foul line. A prep product of Kelso, Wash., where he was team captain and an All-Conference choice, Hardie, a junior PE major, is an honors student with good leadership ability.

TOM HEWITT returns for his third year with the Bruins and is a strong contender for a starting role. An excellent shot, the 6-0 junior guard has a good mental attitude that can pick up the team, handles the ball well, specializes in good "D," and is a nearly complete player. Another product of West Seattle High, Hewitt averaged 5.3 points a game last year and was second in free-throw accuracy at .821. A former ball boy for the Seattle Supersonics, Hewitt, a history major, last spring was named the Bruins Most Inspirational in baseball.

BOB LAUGHLAND brings to the Bruins experience earned as a guard on his El Dorado High School team that won the California Interscholastic Federation AA championship. The 6-2 freshman from Placentia, Calif., averaged 8.0 points a contest as a senior while grabbing five rebounds a contest. A smart player who is good on defense, a hard worker and unselfish, Laughland is an honors student majoring in psychology.

KURT MORGAN joins the Bruins as a sophomore. Ineligible to play until late January, Morgan, a 6-4 forward, prepped at Glacier High in Seattle, where he was captain and as a senior an honorable mention All-Conference choice, scoring 12 points a game along with 10 rebound grabs. Last season Morgan played AAU ball, averaging 10 points a game with the Renton (Wash.) Roadrunners. An excellent jumper and good rebounder, Morgan, a business major, is another possible starter.

GORDON SHEPHERD, at 6-7, is the tallest member of this year's squad. Strong, tough inside, and a good rebounder, Shepherd is a product of Durango (Colo.) High School, where he averaged 15 points and 14 rebounds a contest as a senior and earned first team All-Conference and Most Valuable Player honors. A transfer from Central Arizona Junior College, as a freshman he ranked ninth nationally among junior colleges in free throw percentage. He is a social science and recreation major.

class president and state

JON STRUTZ joins his older brother Steve as a Bruin basketballer. A 6-3 forward, Strutz started for Billings (Mont.) Senior High last season, averaging seven points a game and grabbing five rebounds. Still inexperienced but with potential for a good rebounder, Strutz is aggressive and has good desire. A liberal arts major, Strutz is an honors student with leadership ability, serving last year as church youth group president.

points a game. Named Most Inspirational the last two seasons, Strutz also earned the same award in baseball.

STEVE STRUTZ is the Bruins outstanding defensive player, perhaps the best in the district, and usually given the task of guarding the opponent's best scorer. The 6-3 senior, who does the job as either a guard or forward, is the likely team captain and a starter. An unselfish player, Strutz, from Billings (Mont.) Senior High, was third in assists last season with 98 and used his good outside shot to average 11

At Highline he scored 19 points a game while averaging 13 rebound grabs, earning both Most Inspirational and Team Captain awards. He is a social studies major and the only married player on the team.

NICK SWEENEY, a super aggressive forward, is back for his senior year with the Bruins. Deceptive and with a soft touch, Sweeney, 6-3, plays as big as anyone on the court. A potential starter, Sweeney last season averaged 5.9 points a game and 3.3 rebounds and was second in field goal accuracy (.516). Another transfer from Seattle's Highline Community, he's also a product of West Seattle High.

penetrates well. He is a physical education major.

MARK VERNON is another Bruin via the West Seattle-Highline Community College pipeline. A scrappy 5-10 guard, Vernon transfers as a junior from Highline, where he averaged 4.5 points a game and was given both Best Defense and Hustle awards for the Thunderbirds. Named his high school's top athlete, Vernon is aggressive, is unselfish on the court, and an excellent passer who

ASSISTANTS

FRANK KYTE returns for his fourth year as Bruin trainer. A 1975 graduate of George Fox, Kyte is currently enrolled in a sports medicine program on the master's degree level at Portland State University. A native of Albuquerque, New Mexico, Kyte now lives in Newberg. His duties include keeping the Bruins together physically with many hours and yards of taping and quick first aid for sprains, strains, gashes, and bruises.

MIKE WIRTA is the team statistician. A 1974 George Fox graduate and a Newberg native, Wirta is perhaps one of the Bruins' most loyal supporters, devoting many voluntary hours in compiling facts and figures on the players and team. The head of the George Fox custodial crew, Wirta arranges hours to follow the team statistically, heading a crew of student assistants.

STEVE BEESON is in his first year as basketball manager and his second as equipment manager for all sports. A biology major, Beeson is a sophomore from Meridian, Idaho, who hopes to go into agricultural business. His duties include seeing that Bruin equipment and uniforms arrive safely, intact, and on time for all games.

BRUIN HOSTESSES

From dozens volunteering, six GFC campus coeds are selected to become Bruin Hostesses, providing a service to basketball audiences, giving information, programs, refreshments to the press and statisticians, and smiles to all.

SPORTS/PHYSICAL EDUCATION CENTER

On the drawing board for the Bruins is this proposed $2.2 million sports/physical education center. Designed by famed architect, Pietro Belluschi, the athletic center will feature Northwest forest products. It will contain three basketball courts, seating for 2,500, saunas, handball courts, dressing rooms, classrooms, and offices for physical education and athletic staffs. A major gift initiated the complex project, and a fund raising drive currently underway calls for ground breaking this spring with occupancy for the 1977 season.

For the Media:

COVERING THE BRUINS

Facilities for the working press covering Bruin basketball are provided in the press section on the south side of Hester Gymnasium. Available for each game are team rosters, starting lineups, and pertinent pregame information, including accumulative statistics for the Bruins up to each game. Press booth service for each home contest includes quick team and individual statistics at half time and complete statistics immediately following the game.

Working space and telephones for members of the press desiring them are available. Dressing rooms for both teams are located on each side of the playing floor, with the Bruins located on the north side, visitors on the south.

George Fox College appreciates the cooperation it has shared with the news media. This book has been prepared as a service for area newspapers, radio and television stations, and wire services.

All requests for information, statistics, photographs, and press passes should be directed to Barry Hubbell, Sports Information Director, George Fox College, Newberg, Oregon 97132. Office phone: (503) 538-8383, ext. 217. Home phone: (503) 538-4332. Athletic Department phone: (503) 538-8383, ext. 233.
