George Fox College, in its 104th year, is one of "America's Best Colleges." Six times it has been given that designation by U.S. News & World Report magazine. In 1994 GFC was ranked second in academic reputation among Western Regional Liberal Arts Colleges, including colleges and universities from Oklahoma to Hawaii. The magazine in 1993 also named George Fox to its list of "The Nation's Most Efficient Institutions," second in the West.

George Fox College is the outgrowth of a desire by early Willamette Valley Quaker settlers for a Christian education of their children. They established Pacific Academy in 1885, while the college division was organized in 1891 to provide more advanced instruction for students. In 1949, because of the many colleges in the Northwest with Pacific in their name, the College was renamed George Fox in honor of the founder of the Friends (Quaker) Church. GFC is governed by a 42-member Board of Trustees elected by Northwest Yearly Meeting of Friends Church, which comprises nearly 8,000 members in 53 churches in Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

George Fox is one of the nation's fastest-growing colleges. Enrollment has risen from 549 in 1986 to 1,658 in the fall of 1994, a 202 percent increase.

GFC students come from 30 states, one possession and 10 nations. More than 40 religious denominations are represented on campus.

The College's undergraduate program is administered through three schools: Humanities, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, and Professional Studies. The 15 departments offer 34 majors with more than 400 courses. An off-campus degree-completion program in management of human resources enrolls working adults in an evening program with classes in Portland, Salem and Eugene. The graduate program offers a Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.) degree in clinical psychology, a Master of Arts in Teaching (M.A.T.), a Master of Education (M.Ed.), a Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.), and a Master of Arts in Christian Studies.

The 73-acre rural, tree-shaded campus a half-hour drive from Portland has undergone major expansion in recent years with 12 new buildings constructed. Part of a $16 million Centennial Campaign, the $5.3 million Edwards-Holman Science Center opened in the fall of 1994.

Alumni of George Fox are primarily in service-oriented vocations of Christian ministries, education, social work and medical fields. The College's most prominent alumnus is the late President Herbert Hoover, who attended Pacific Academy.

The Centennial Tower was built to celebrate George Fox College's 100th birthday in 1991.

NAIA

George Fox joined the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) in 1965. The College's men's and women's basketball teams play in NAIA Division II, while the other nine sports are not divided into divisions.

The NAIA is a completely autonomous association administering programs leading to 13 men's and 11 women's national championships. The NAIA includes 391 accredited four-year colleges and universities in 49 states and Canada. The colleges are grouped in nine regions and 44 conferences.

Established in 1940 as the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball, the NAIB evolved from the institution of a "National Small College Basketball Tournament" that was inaugurated in 1937. In 1952, the NAIB expanded to include other sports and was renamed the NAIA.

The NAIA sponsors men's championships in Division I and II basketball, Division I and II football, tennis, outdoor and indoor track, golf, cross country, baseball, swimming and diving, wrestling and soccer.

In 1980, the NAIA initiated championships for women. Sports offered are Division I and II basketball, cross country, softball, indoor and outdoor track, soccer, swimming and diving, golf, tennis and volleyball.

NAIA national headquarters are located in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The NAIA is governed by two bodies. The Council of Presidents, composed of one president from each district, is responsible for fiscal matters and supervision of the national staff. George Fox president Edward F. Stevens represented NAIA District 2 from 1987 to 1993 and was one of the five college presidents selected to serve on the NAIA Council of Presidents Executive Committee, serving as chairman in 1992. The National Coordinating Council, elected by the membership, is responsible for organizing championship events, academic standards, and overseeing the committees and associations.

Eligibility rules within the NAIA govern all play of all sports recognized by the association and not just postseason play. All eligibility guidelines must be adhered to by all members, including those holding dual affiliation with other associations.

CONFERENCE INFORMATION

George Fox College is playing its second and last season in the Cascade Collegiate Conference (CCC). In 1995-96, GFC is joining the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges (NCIC).

Four teams will participate in the Cascade Collegiate Conference playoffs held February 25 and 28 at the sites of the highest-seeded teams. Selection and seeding are based on conference records, but in cases of ties, head-to-head results and the "Sempert" tie-breaking system will be used.

Winner of the conference playoffs will advance to the NAIA Division II national tournament, which this year expanded from 24 to 32 teams. Western Oregon State College is hosting the tournament in Monmouth, Ore. Berths not going to the 21 conference champions are available to the host institution and at-large selections.

The NAIA Council of Presidents voted in September of 1993 to eliminate the district format, by which teams had qualified for national tournaments since 1965, in favor of the affiliated conference structure. Until this season, GFC was a member of NAIA District 2, which divided into the Cascade Collegiate Conference and Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges.

George Fox College maintains one of the Northwest's premier small-college athletic programs. In the past five years, George Fox athletes have earned 52 NAIA All-American awards and 23 academic All-American Scholar-Athlete honors.

In the 1993-94 seasons, all 11 George Fox teams qualified for post-season play, with softball, women's cross country and men's soccer winning NAIA District 2 titles. Baseball, men's cross country and women's soccer finished as district runners-up. George Fox has won district titles in seven different sports during the 1990s. At the end of 1993-94, every GFC coach had been named district or conference coach of the year at least once.

George Fox's highest national team finish came in the fall of 1992, when the women's cross country team maintained a No. 1 ranking for its entire season before finishing as national runner-up.

Intercollegiate athletics is an integral part of the overall education program at George Fox. Men's varsity athletic teams represent the College in baseball, basketball, track, cross country and soccer. Women's teams are fielded in volleyball, basketball, track, softball, cross country and soccer.

For students not participating in the varsity program, a complete intramural program is available, including flag football, basketball, volleyball, racquetball, indoor soccer, skiing, floor hockey and tennis.

Athletic facilities include the Coleman H. Wheeler Center for Sports and Physical Education; Colcord Field, which received a new polyurethane surface in the fall of 1993; and the Curtis and Margaret Morse Athletic Complex containing baseball diamond, softball field and soccer field. In 1994, five tennis courts were installed in preparation for the addition of tennis as a varsity sport.

An all-district performer in baseball and soccer, Mike Nadeau rejoined the nationally ranked GFC soccer team in 1994 after being drafted and playing baseball for the Baltimore Orioles' organization last summer.

First-year women's basketball coach Sherri Murrell got off to a storybook start, earning Cascade Conference Coach of the Year honors while guiding the Lady Bruins to their first playoff berth in three years.

Murrell — the youngest coach in the conference at 27 — didn't lack for confidence at the beginning of the season. She expected her team to return to postseason play.

"That will happen," she said in November.

It did happen as the Lady Bruins — on their way to a 16-12 record and a surprise third-place conference finish — four times upset nationally ranked teams. Falling to GFC were 12th-ranked Lewis & Clark College, 32nd-ranked Pacific University, and 18th- and 22nd-ranked Southern Oregon State College twice. The Lady Bruins edged out Southern Oregon for third and finished behind eventual national runner-up Western Oregon State College and 12th-ranked Northwest Nazarene College.

NNC knocked George Fox from postseason play, 72-63 in Nampa, Idaho.

Three GFC players earned conference kudos. Kristy Fleming and Heidi Rueck made the all-conference team. Fleming, a senior center/forward from Aberdeen, Wash., was the conference's top rebounder all season, ending regular-season play with 11.9 per game, including a season-high of 21 against Pacific University. She was also GFC's leading scorer at 11.6.

Rueck, a junior point guard from Hillsboro, Ore., who moved up from honorable mention in 1992-93, finished second in the Cascade Conference in assists, averaging 5.1 per game.

Meagan Williams, a junior forward/center from Forest Grove, Ore., received honorable mention honors. Williams averaged 11.3 points per game during the regular season.

The Lady Bruins lost just two seniors: Fleming and guard Traci Blair, from Salem, Ore.

Veteran Team Eyes Conference Title

Four returning starters off last year's surprising George Fox College women's basketball squad buoy Lady Bruin hopes for a run at the Cascade Collegiate Conference crown.

"It's anybody's race this year in the conference," says second-year head coach Sherri Murrell, who won conference Coach of the Year honors in her inaugural season. "I think we're one of the ones to watch out for."

George Fox defeated nationally ranked teams four times last year and came within 10 points of advancing to the conference finals.

Murrell will guide six returning letterwinners, one transfer, three 1993-94 redshirts, and one freshman. Of the 11 players, eight played in a summer basketball league to improve themselves.

"I think we're strong in both the inside and outside game," Murrell says. "We pose a threat in both areas. This team really works well together. They know each other's strengths and weaknesses."

The starters all played together last season.

The team leader is senior Heidi Rueck, who Murrell considers the top point guard in the conference. Rueck is a four-year starter and is 144 assists away from the school career record. As a sophomore, she established the season assist record at 149.

GFC's other starting guard, senior Kerry Aillaud, gives the Lady Bruins an outside shooting threat. Her 3-point shooting percentage of .414 is the best in George Fox history.

With an injury-plagued sophomore season behind her, 5-9 junior forward Jamie Courtney has moved into the starting lineup. A pure shooter, Courtney also has good defensive instincts.

A two-sport athlete, 5-11 junior forward Liz Stephens is one of the strongest and quickest players in the conference. Stephens, a hurdler who last year qualified for the NAIA national track meet, should improve upon her 9.7 scoring and 5.8 rebounding averages. "Liz is twice the player she was last year," says Murrell.

A player with a history of dramatic off-season improvement is 6-0 senior forward/center Meagan Williams. She has more than doubled her scoring average each season at George Fox. Last year she was second on the team with 11.4 points per game, and her 5.8 rebounding average tied Stephens for second on the squad.

"We have good-quality players," says Murrell, "but the key to our success is how our bench contributes, whether they step up."

Freshman guard/forward Nancy Rissmiller should make an immediate impact in two GFC sports. Rissmiller averaged 10.0 points and 9.4 rebounds last year while helping Tigard High School to a fourth-place finish in the state 4A tournament. In track she has All-American potential. Rissmiller cleared 5-8 $\frac{1}{4}$ in the high jump, the best Oregon 4A mark in at least six years.

George Fox's tallest player, 6-1 sophomore center Angela Pettit, continues to adapt to the physical college inside game. She runs the floor well and is a good shooter, second on the team in free throw percentage. A broken finger will keep her out early in the season.

Junior guard Cori Gardea comes to GFC from Lower Columbia Community as part of a package deal. Her husband, Rick, plays for the men's team. Murrell says she has good shooting range.

Another two-sport athlete is 5-8 junior guard Katie Anderson, who plays on the Lady Bruin soccer team. After an injury-shortened freshman year, another knee injury forced her to miss last year.

Two other Lady Bruins are coming off redshirt seasons: Keelie Keown, a 5-9 freshman guard/forward from Oakridge, Ore., and Tonya Miller, a quick 5-4 freshman guard who earned Three Rivers League honorable mention at West Linn High School.

The Lady Bruins will pressure more on defense than last year and hope to get out and fast break. A lack of depth may be limiting. Injuries have cut preseason workouts to nine players.

"We need to stay healthy," says Murrell. "It's the guard position I'm worried about. I'm looking for help there. We can't play Heidi (Rueck) and Kerry (Aillaud) 40 minutes for 31 games."

Key losses from last year were freshman guard Mindi Loiodici, senior guard Traci Blair and GFC's leading scorer and rebounder, forward/center Kristy Fleming, now an assistant coach.

"We lost some rebounding from Kristy," Murrell says, "but Meagan (Williams) and our younger kids like Nancy (Rissmiller) will step up. We have the players that can fill that gap."

Murrell has lined up one of the toughest schedules George Fox has ever played. Seven opponents will be from divisions above the Lady Bruins, including NCAA Division I University of Portland.

George Fox is playing its final year in the Cascade Collegiate Conference and will join the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges next year.

Second-year head coach SHERRI MURRELL ended her first year as Cascade Collegiate Conference Coach of the Year.

The youngest coach in the conference, 27-year-old Murrell guided the Lady Bruins to a surprise third-place conference finish and back into the playoffs after a two-year absence.

Murrell, who spent one year as a George Fox assistant coach, brings six years of NCAA Division I experience as player and coach. She played two years at the University of Southwestern Louisiana before transferring to Pepperdine University. There she started two seasons as a point guard and was honored as a West Coast Conference all-star, averaging 14 points a game as a senior.

Murrell planned to play professional basketball in Germany after graduation but suffered a serious knee injury three weeks before departure.

Last year she played on the Portland Saints, a club team made up of former college players that finished third in the 1994 Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) National Tournament.

A 1985 graduate of St. Mary's Academy in Portland, Murrell played on the 1984-85 Oregon state championship team.

Murrell received a Bachelor of Arts degree in public relations from Pepperdine in 1991 and served one season as assistant basketball coach. She then moved to Brigham Young University for the 1991-92 season, travelling nationwide as a recruiter.

At George Fox, Murrell works half time with the College's graduate admissions office as a graduate admissions coordinator.

Murrell replaced 12-year head coach Craig Taylor, who voluntarily stepped down to concentrate on his administrative duties as athletic director.

Q & A WITH SHERRI MURRELL

Q. Last year, you were named Cascade Collegiate Conference Coach of the Year and your team finished higher than expected. What reasons can you give for those successes?

A. "I had a group of athletes that worked extremely hard for me and believed in themselves and what we — the coaching staff — were teaching them. Motivating players to work hard every time they walk on the basketball court is always a challenge for a coach. I was fortunate to have players who responded well to our motivation. They did what we asked of them and did it with enthusiasm and confidence."

Q. Describe your coaching philosophies.

A. "When players leave my program, I want them to fully understand what it means to be part of a team. Players will be pushed to reach their potential in my program. They will understand how to win and how to learn from losing. I teach players to work hard, be dedicated, and to have confidence in everything they do. I love to coach basketball, and I want each one of my players to love the game too."

Q. Why are you coaching at George Fox?

A. "There are two reasons. First, I believe in the College and its mission. There is something to say about a growing college that can maintain an outstanding education in a Christian environment. Second, it's the people. The people here genuinely care and support each other. When a recruit visits George Fox College, I tell her that this is not a place where she will be a number in a crowd. She is a face with a name, and people know and care about who she is."

SCOTT RUECK begins his second year as women's basketball assistant coach.

The 25-year-old coach previously was junior varsity coach at Santiam Christian High School in Corvallis, Ore. He currently teaches at Renne Middle School in Newberg.

Rueck has a bachelor's degree in exercise and sports science from Oregon State University and continued on to earn a Master of Arts degree in physical education teaching in 1992.

A 1987 graduate of Glencoe High School in Hillsboro, Ore., Rueck is the older brother of GFC's starting point guard, Heidi Rueck.

KRISTY FLEMING joins the GFC coaching staff as an assistant after leading the Lady Bruins in scoring and rebounding last year.

Fleming earned all-Cascade Collegiate Conference honors in 1993-94, leading the conference in rebounding with 11.9 per game. Her single-season total of 330 is best ever at George Fox. She was 13th in the conference in scoring with a 11.6 average.

Fleming, a 6-0 transfer from Lower Columbia Community College, finished No. 5 on GFC's career rebounding list with 533.

She currently is finishing up a degree in athletic training at George Fox and plays for the Portland Saints, a women's basketball club team.
