ATHLETICS AT GEORGE FOX

At George Fox University, student-athletes pursue conference and national titles at a Christ-centered university where athletic competition hinges on what is learned in classrooms and practices. George Fox teams are members of the Northwest Conference and compete in the Division III level of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

Vision: To be "the team to beat" in NCAA Div. III sports with the most formative athletic experience in the country.

George Fox has earned 26 conference titles, two national team championships, and five individual national championships during the last decade.

Mission: To provide a competitive experience that breeds athletic excellence, academic success and Christ-like character.

George Fox has 17 varsity sports, including:

- Men's and Women's Basketball
- Men's and Women's Golf
- Men's and Women's Soccer
- Men's and Women's Track & Field
- Men's and Women's Cross Country
- Men's and Women's Tennis
- Men's Baseball
- Men's Football
- Women's Lacrosse
- Women's Softball
- Women's Volleyball

More than 15 percent of George Fox's traditional undergraduate students participate in these sports.

George Fox athletes have earned more than 350 All-America and All-America Scholar-Athlete honors.

Values:

- Christ-centered Community
- High Respect for the Sport
- Relentless Pursuit of Excellence
- Integrity in All Things
- Self-Discipline
- Total Commitment to Team

Student-athletes compete for conference and national titles at a Christ-centered university where professors and coaches help them grow in mind, body and spirit.

Seven coaches currently on staff have been named conference Coach of the Year and three have been national Coach of the Year at least once.

George Fox coaches together have accumulated more than 1,200 collegiate wins.

The George Fox community bleeds blue and gold for their athletic programs in the Blue Zone cheering section.

School colors: Since at least 1905 (when the university was still known as Pacific College), old gold and navy blue have been the school colors. Gold represents integrity, quality and high value. Blue is trustworthy and conveys strength. George Fox teams embrace a "blue collar" work ethic.

Mascot: The Bruin has been associated with George Fox since 1897 when a professor kept a bear on campus. It became the unofficial school mascot after its death and led to the school's Bruin Jr. class competition that still exists today. The Bruin was officially adopted as mascot in 1970.

Stoffer Family Stadium

A combined $1.2 million lead gift from Brad and Katharine Stoffer and their Boedecker Foundation in 2009 provided the seed money for a project that would ultimately allow George Fox to bring football back after a 46-year hiatus from the sport. That project – Stoffer Family Stadium – now stands as a testament to the university’s commitment to provide student-athletes the “most formative athletic experience in the country.”

Groundbreaking for the complex – which includes the synthetic-turf Lemmons Family Field, grandstand seating for 1,200 and the Duke Athletic Center – took place in the spring of 2013. Work on the grounds was completed during the summer of 2014, when grandstands were erected, the field was installed and a state-of-the-art video board – arguably the most impressive of its kind in the Northwest Conference – was constructed. Lemmons Field was funded by a generous donation by John Lemmons, founder of Pacific Fibre Products, and Larry Lemmons, the company’s president.

The Bruins’ football team makes its home in the 14,000-square-foot Duke Athletic Center, where 130 custom-made wooden lockers grace the team’s locker room. The facility also includes a weight training room, coaches offices, a classroom and a terrace that allows fans to catch the game from a bird’s-eye view. The Duke building was made possible by a $2.5 million donation by philanthropists Marilyn and John Duke in 2011.

The stadium also serves as home to the university’s track and field team. The new covered stands will be a big plus during the spring track season, and the artificial turf infield provides a clean look and an improved training surface that reduces impact and, in turn, injuries. The new stadium also opens the door for George Fox to host more meets – and higher-quality events. In fact, the new stadium will host the 2015 Northwest Conference championships.

Stoffer Family Stadium’s permanent seating accommodates about 2,800 fans. Temporary seating during highly attended games boosts capacity to more than 3,300.

A powerhouse in women's golf, women's basketball, women's track and field and baseball, George Fox adds intercollegiate football this year – an addition that has rejuvenated the Bruin fan base.

"Seeing football come back after such a long hiatus is beyond exciting," Athletic Director Craig Taylor said. "We've been thinking about it a long time. After all the time and energy we've put into it, it's all really coming together. It's going to be electric!"

So how do you add something as significant as a football program in only four years? You outline the dream, plan out the details and work extremely hard while building it from the ground up.

"Things that are really, really good take a tremendous amount of commitment and investment to get to," head football coach Chris Casey said. "They take a ton of work, and you don't get to take shortcuts."

Establishing a Foundation

From the moment Casey and his staff were put in place over the past two years, it was go time, and it hasn't slowed since. "It's all been very exhilarating and exciting, but it's round-the-clock work," Casey said. "It takes a ton of time and energy to run a football program when you're just starting.

"There's lots of trial and error. Lots of conversations about how to get to the best answer, best solution, and ultimately, the best end result. Everything you do you're starting from ground-level zero."

Casey and staff have held a meeting every Monday morning from about 8 to 10 a.m. with everyone from sports marketing to the school's CFO, Taylor and other administrators "because there's so much to do and so many questions," Casey explained. "We all want to be on the same page."

And the details don't end there. George Fox has even overhauled its athletics brand by designing football helmets, in particular, that deliver on the school's focus to produce something meaningful and significant.

"The helmets hold a lot of symbolism for Coach Casey's coaching philosophy," Director of Sport Marketing Sarah Reid said. "The matte blue represents 'true blue, true grit' that comes with hard work and effort. The carbon fiber inlay represents togetherness, which is one of Coach Casey's goals for the team. The Bruin claw marks on the side show flash and speed."

Conception becomes reality when athletes arrive

For any Division III-level sport to thrive, you have to bring in recruits. How do coaches not only build up but sustain a successful football program over time without athletic scholarships to offer?

Football at George Fox: a timeline

Oct. 20, 1894 George Fox University, then Pacific College, plays its first intercollegiate football game against Pacific University in Forest Grove, Ore.

1916 Football takes a time out for World War I.

1922 Football is revived by a unanimous vote of the athletic association, reports The Crescent. Coach Chester Jones anticipates a season of at least four games.

1926 Football is shelved again, and a soccer team is started the next year.

1931 Soccer is discontinued and football reinstated, coached by Hubert Armstrong. The Crescent commends the team's leading rusher, Carol Sandoz, quarterback Denny McGuire, right halfback Chet Weed, left halfback Gene Coffin, and Jim Haworth, who "was so tough he never wore a helmet."

1943-44 Football takes a time out for World War II.

1950 Fullback Harold "Spud" Ankeny (left) scores 56 points and gains 712 yards on 122 carries.

1968 The last year football is played at George Fox. The team has no wins, but four players make the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) all-conference team: Bob Hadlock (right), Larry Craven, Herald Fodge and Byron Debban. Hadlock, one of the most successful football players in George Fox history, is drafted by the Detroit Lions.

If you ask Casey, the answer is simple: Show athletes firsthand what it means to truly “Be Known” as a member of the George Fox community.

“This college is a great sell when you’re talking about the atmosphere of the campus,” Casey said. “It’s such a friendly place, and there’s such a level of care and respect students receive.”

For John Bates, who is both the team’s defensive coordinator and recruiting coordinator, it boils down to a few specifics. “Our athletes have to be great for the university,” he said. “This means they’ve bought in to what George Fox is all about. We’re not going to shy away from being a great Christian institution. Our guys come in understanding that, along with the expectation of being excellent academically and high-level football players.”

For Bates and other coaches, it’s the very essence of what it means to be a top-flight student athlete — something Casey clearly understands as well. “It’s not for the meek and mild. It takes a tremendous amount of work.”

With the bar set at around 20 to 30 recruits in year one, George Fox football coaches managed to get 60. One year later, the roster has more than doubled in size, with the team now at about 120 athletes.

“Football has been a major addition to our campus ... It’s not only brought a lot of men to campus from a sheer numbers standpoint, but it’s brought a lot of students interested in business and engineering, among other things,” said Executive Director of Admissions Ryan Dougherty. “We’ve seen an astounding amount of growth in other areas that are all byproducts of football.

George Fox Football: A Boon to the Community

Based on a 2011 report by Longwoods International, which specializes in Travel Research, a conservative estimate says George Fox football could infuse $288,000-plus new dollars into the local business community during each of the team’s five home games. Do the math, and that’s more than $1.4 million dollars total.

So, after four years of hustle and another 46 of waiting, the time has come for football, as Taylor puts it, to “take the campus by storm.”

The playbook has been implemented. The vision has been realized. The cutting-edge facilities are in place. It’s time for kickoff.

As ASC President Jake Vanier puts it, “Football brings with it a whole new section of athletic spirit and ‘Bruin Pride’ ... You can feel the energy bubbling up.”

And immediately following kickoff, tradition once again returns and begins anew.

2002 Ken and Joan Austin pledge 23 acres for the expansion of George Fox athletics.

2002 The university’s board of trustees begins considering the reinstatement of football.

2009 The board of trustees requests a feasibility study on reintroducing football.

July 9, 2009 Phase one is launched with the announcement of a $1.2 million donation from Brad and Katherine Stoffer and their Boedecker Foundation.

October 2009 A matching grant of $250,000 is offered by anonymous donor.

April 13, 2010 Groundbreaking ceremony is enhanced by the announcement of a $300,000 donation from Pacific Fibre Products of Longview, Wash.

Spring 2012 After an extensive national search, the university selects Chris Casey to provide leadership for a new era of football at George Fox.

Spring/Summer 2013 After a groundbreaking ceremony in the spring, building begins on Stoffer Family Stadium and the Duke Athletic Center.

Fall 2013 This school year is the first for a group of about 50 players who are eligible to play the following fall.

Spring/Summer 2014 Stoffer Family Stadium takes shape as a grandstand with seating for 1,200 and a videoboard are erected and the synthetic-turf Lemmons Family Field is installed.

Fall 2014 Game on! George Fox opens the season at home against Arizona Christian on Sept. 6. Another preseason game with La Verne follows on Sept. 13, before the start of Northwest Conference play at Willamette Oct. 3.

BRUIN COACHING STAFF

Head Coach Chris Casey

Head coach Chris Casey is a simple man. As he'll tell you over and over, when it comes to football, it's not about success. It's about excellence. And it doesn't come easy.

"I don't like shortcuts. Things that are really, really good take a tremendous amount of commitment and investment to get to," he said. "There isn't reset, redo or spell check" — a concept his players and coaches fully buy into and have adapted for themselves.

Casey's defensive coordinator John Bates echoes that same sentiment. "Coach Casey will always say this, but we never look at the barrier. We look at how we're getting over the barrier and working through it."

Casey's journey back to the collegiate level at George Fox University is a prime example.

After taking over the football program at Aloha High School in 2004, it was apparent he had quite the challenge ahead. As one of the longtime members of what is arguably Oregon's best high school football conference in the Metro League, Aloha had only won 17 games in the previous 14 seasons. By 2010, Aloha was the Oregon High School Class 6A state champion.

Go back to his stop before Aloha, at Whitworth University (1994-2004), and in the 10 years Casey was there he helped transform them from one of the worst teams in D-III's Northwest Conference to league champions. From 1985 to 1994, he spent nine seasons with Linfield College as both an assistant football coach and recruiting coordinator. (He also played there from 1978 to 1981).

Everywhere Casey has been, excellence has followed — a trend he has no intention of changing anytime soon.

"When it comes to our pyramid of excellence here at George Fox, we can't reach the top until we build a solid foundation," Casey explained. "That base for our foundation is 'blue collar.'"

So what exactly does "blue-collar" look like for Casey? "It means grit. It means toughness, both physically and mentally. It means work ethic. It means unsung heroes, and it means doing all the work that no one sees behind the scenes.

"We want to earn everything."

When it comes to expectations for his teams, Casey has no problem making it very clear: talk is cheap. Despite all the cutting-edge facilities found on the grounds of George Fox University or the beautifully intricate and fresh-looking jerseys they'll be wearing on game days, performance is what matters.

"We've got to go out there and prove we're worthy of all the stuff we've been given," says Casey. "We've got to prove we're worth paying attention to."

Defensive Coordinator John Bates

Hard work and hustle are two things John Bates knows a thing or two about. As both defensive coordinator and recruiting coordinator, he's wasted no time fully embracing his job under head coach Chris Casey. When the expectation for the program was to bring in 20 to 30 recruits, Bates brought in 60. Perhaps most impressively, he did so while starting in January 2013 — nine months into the regular recruiting cycle.

"It was different," Bates said. "But when things are different, you have to be able to adapt and change your thinking a little bit. We've put in a lot of hard work."

The team now has more than 120 players, most of whom are sophomores and freshmen.

Ask Bates what it takes to be part of the George Fox football program and he will tell you it's threefold. The first criterion is being exceptional for the university itself.

"We're out to develop great young men here at this university. We're not going to shy away from what we're all about, which is being a great Christian institution," he says.

Next, Bates says George Fox athletes have to be great for Newberg. "They have to delve themselves within this community. As a small-town Oregon guy myself, I really enjoy that." He also adds that having Portland nearby serves as a big-time benefit for many of his athletes, and helps add to what he thinks is a fantastic college atmosphere.

His third requirement: Recruits have to be top-notch football players. "We want what we like to call 'GFGs', which is a 'George Fox Guy'. Our athletes have to be here for all aspects, which includes community, academics and, of course, really high-level players ... all those things we're spectacular at."

Besides recruiting, Bates also has a solid track record when it comes to defense. During his tenure as defensive coordinator at Nebraska Wesleyan University (2004-10), his teams were consistently ranked in the top 10 nationally in multiple defensive categories. In 2008, NWU was No. 2 in the country for scoring defense at 11.2 points per game. In 2011 and 2012, Bates was Casey's defensive coordinator at Aloha High School before leaving to help start up the football program at George Fox. (He also played for Casey while at Whitworth).

Now back in D-III, the competition might be stiffer than ever in one of the best conferences in the country, but Bates' "simple and sound" defense will be as fierce as ever. He says, above all, you can expect George Fox football to be a "tremendous tackling defensive unit."

Offensive Coordinator Ken Ingram

When it comes to football, it takes many things to be successful. Excellence is not for the faint of heart. But for an offense to thrive, in particular, there's one aspect that is simply a must for a team to flourish: an element of surprise.

"I'm extremely excited about our offense," said offensive coordinator Ken Ingram. "We're not just a spread team ... We're not just a two-back team or a Wing-T offense. We do a lot of different things in terms of personnel groupings."

"We use a lot of guys in a lot of different ways so everyone is involved with what we're trying to accomplish."

As Ingram hints at, buy-in and investment in the team's athletes is not only a centerpiece of his offense, it's essential to keeping a competitive edge over the opposition. "It causes the defense to have to adjust," he says.

"We want teams asking questions like, 'Who is coming in on this play?' 'What is the offense going to run next?' 'What sort of formation will they run out there?' ... So we'll plan on using play-action. We'll use some screens and eventually, after attacking all over the place, we'll make them defend the entire field." It's something that has served Ingram well in his time as a football coach.

Ingram spent 2004 through 2008 as one of Casey's lead assistants at Aloha High School. He was essential to building up the core group that transformed Aloha from bottom-dwellers into the Oregon High School Class 6A state champions in 2010. Ingram left Aloha after the 2008 season to take over as head coach for his hometown Hillsboro High School football program. His first season on the job, in 2009, his team won the Oregon High School Class 5A state title. Ingram was subsequently selected as one of the coaches for the Les Schwab Bowl high school all-star game in 2010 and 2011.

Suffice to say, Ingram loves competition. "Everything we do is meant to be competitive and push us toward excellence," he said. "We want to make each other better all the time, and when there's depth at a position, the competition gets heated."

"Everyone involved ends up fighting tooth and nail to get the upper hand."

SEASON PREVIEW

For those involved with the launch of the George Fox football team, the task of building a program from the ground up has both its perks and challenges.

"It's been a huge undertaking," said head coach Chris Casey. "But our philosophy and laser-like focus have always been geared toward how we're approaching that challenge. How are we getting over the barrier rather than concentrating on the barrier itself?

"It's provided us an opportunity to do things the way we want to do it, and do it with excellence. We love the challenge."

The Nation's Premier Division III Football Conference

The Northwest Conference is widely considered the best private-school, Division III football conference in the country. Since 1980, 11 NWC teams have played for the D-III national championship. On nine occasions, they actually took home the title.

Considering this reality – and the fact George Fox's roster is primarily made up of freshmen and sophomores – the task at hand is steep. But it's a road Casey and his staff are more than ready to walk down.

"We look at everything as a positive. It all starts with your attitude," Casey said. "We're not afraid of what it's going to take to excel. We know there are going to be failures. Failures are what lead to success. They lead you further toward excellence."

At a premium is the need for leaders – a role linebacker Spencer Price is willing to take on as one of the team's few seniors.

The Waiting Game

Price's journey is coming to its apex. "It's been remarkable. The first time we ever met as a team was the spring of my sophomore year," he said. "We kicked off the long process with a little combine for all the men on campus who were already here and wanted to walk on and play some football.

"The next fall we met again, but it felt like we were starting from scratch. It came kind of slow, but the growth since then has been tremendous. We had the time to establish ourselves and build a solid base for this year. And now the group of guys we have here have developed something special."

For John Bates, the team's defensive coordinator, the waiting game forced him and fellow coaches to adapt and change up their mind-set. "Coming in with the recruiting process, there was a clear understanding that we're not going to be playing a regular season," he said. "Since it was a little difficult to accept, we had to keep our athletes engaged both as football players and as active participants in the culture here at George Fox."

Saturdays were spent conducting some sort of mental challenge, a fun physical competition, or other team-building activities. In doing so, coaches were able to turn Saturdays into a weekly showcase of the team's progress. Actual live game experience, though, has remained elusive ... until now.

The Football Season Gets Real

"It's been an intense journey," said sophomore running back Tre Drumgoole. "But this year we've taken it to a whole new level. Everyone is really hungry. Being a Bruin right now is one of the best feelings in the world. We're all chomping at the bit to get some W's under our belt."

How those wins come about, though, remains to be seen.

"While we have developed some really good chemistry as a team, and we've been able to implement our offense and defense along with growth in our physical development, we have a long, long way to go," Casey said. "Our biggest weakness is purely experience.

"You can't get game-level college experience until you play college football. It takes time. Which means we have to be as big and strong and physical as we possibly can be to compete with the more established programs."

Offensively, a big part of what that looks like is always making sure the Bruins are keeping the opposing defense guessing. Offensive Coordinator Ken Ingram wants nothing to do with being put in a box by the opposition.

"We're a little bit of everything," Ingram said. "We're not 'just' anything, so we're going to bounce between formations often. We're going to force the defense to adjust to what's happening each play. We'll do whatever we can to move the football."

"And if the defense isn't sound in what they do, we're going to take advantage."

In a more collective sense, Casey says the team's fate boils down to one thing: "blue-collar." Whether moving the ball up the field early in the game, or defending on a last-second goal-line stand, George Fox will be giving its all on every possession. Not only has that "blue-collar" hard work served as the foundation, it's also grabbed a hold of the players themselves.

"There's so much competition and everyone is flying around," said Price. "We're all trying to impress the coaches with what we've got. We're all trying to go out there and show them who can hit. We're going to turn some heads."

Time for Kickoff

So what now? With the transition from practice to college game days finally complete, how does the team push forward? By acting like they've been there before.

"There's no rule that says you have to act like a start-up program. This is a championship team," Casey adamantly explained. "In this program, we conduct ourselves like champions. Every play we run is a championship-level play. Every person we greet on campus deserves to be greeted in a championship-level manner. Every class we're taking gets a championship-level effort. And our guys have really embraced that."

In other words, after years of preparation for the 2014 football season, the 46-year waiting game is over. George Fox football is no longer an idea, but excellence embodied in a team.

Opponent Preview – Arizona Christian University Firestorm

Today's game between George Fox and Arizona Christian represents the first football game in 46 years for the former and the first road test for the latter.

ACU (0-2) has already hosted two games this season and received national attention for a 108-yard punt return by Jordan Gabriel against Evangel University on Aug. 23. The runback was even included on ESPN SportsCenter's Top 10 Plays of the Week.

Leading the squad is quarterback Gerrit Groenewold, who tops the Firestorm in rushing and passing. Groenewold has thrown for 472 yards in two games with three touchdowns and five interceptions. He has run the ball more than 30 times and averages 17 yards rushing a game. Groenewold's favorite target is wide receiver Brandon Fisher, who has caught five passes for 149 yards and a touchdown.

On offense, the Firestorm primarily focus on their air attack, passing for 488 yards in the first two games. Defensively, the squad is led by 6-foot freshman safety Martin Tew, who has recorded 25 tackles (21 solo) in those two contests.

Arizona Christian opened the season with a 40-16 loss to Evangel before falling 28-21 to Wayland Baptist last week. The Firestorm are led by head coach Donnie Yantis, who came from Paradise Valley High School in Phoenix, where he compiled a 94-70 record to become the winningest coach in the school's history.

Arizona Christian became a member of the Golden State Athletic Conference (GSAC) in the 2012-13 season and is affiliated with the NAIA Division I (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics).
